

Happy New Year

U. S. Must Make Its Decision on Europe

Economic Conditions Threaten the Continent Which Are Almost Unsurmountable Without Our Aid.

BY ROBERT T. SMALL.

Special Dispatch To The Review.
(Copyright 1921.)

Washington, Dec. 31.—The United States early in the new year must face another decision, as to whether or not this country shall "go in" or "stay out" of a last desperate effort to save Europe from a ruin which would threaten the world with chaos.

GROWING WORSE.

Confidential advisers—although it is scarcely necessary that they should be so—have been reaching Washington that conditions in Europe are drifting from bad to worse and that the line between anarchy and order and unrestrained anarchy is becoming more and more of a shadow.

Word has come that David Lloyd George, credited with being the most many and far-seeing of all government heads today, has reached the conclusion that nothing short of a world conference, with the United States participating, can cope with the disorganization and demoralization of the war-shattered Eastern Hemisphere.

It has been realized ever since the United States withdrew from the war settlements by a decision not to ratify the treaty of Versailles, or to participate in the league of nations, that peace and order in Europe was dependent upon the remnants of the Old Entente Cordiale, Great Britain and France.

REACH BREAKING POINT.

But these two nations now have reached a point where only a miracle can prevent an open breach between them. Their points of view as to world readjustments are as far apart as the poles. It has been said both in Europe and here in Washington as a result of the French blocking of further naval reductions at the Washington conference and a complete refusal to consider a limitation of land armaments, that France is "running herself," but it is realized at last that France cannot "run herself" without bringing modern civilization itself to the very edge of the precipice of complete disaster.

LOOKS TO U. S.

Great Britain, losing faith in her old ally France, is looking to the United States for the co-operation which France was expected to give. British political leaders frankly are saying that if the co-operation of the English-speaking peoples, constituting a balance of power for good in the world, should prove impossible, there is little to be hoped for in the way of world stabilization. They have been deepening their efforts to put Britain's recent efforts to order the world into a new order, to meet the United States "with clean hands." At the first prospect of an understanding with America she has been eager to give up the Anglo-American alliance which she knew was carrying the Washington government and standing in the way of her relations. Conscious of the public sentiment in the United States, Great Britain has gone far to effect an Irish settlement after more than a century of strife and repression. Little or no attempt has been made to discuss to ultimate peace of these moves.

FRANCE REFUSES CO-OPERATION

Great Britain feels that she can find support in the United States for her plans to open new markets for the world and to restore the balance of power. Great Britain looks to the United States for a port in the discussion of the bug and army of Europe, some of them maintained by infant nations, hopelessly poverty stricken, but out of their new found "self-determination" in none of these things will France cooperate with Great Britain.

There is to be another meeting of the allied supreme council during a coming week at Cannes in France. But Europe already is foreboding this conference to failure. It is said that the differences between France and England are so fundamental as to be irreconcilable.

MERCIA REPRESENTED.

The Cannes conference, however, is significant in one important respect. Ambassador George Harvey is to represent the United States. It is the first allied council meeting since the United States ratified the treaty of peace with Germany—a treaty which embraced many clauses of the Versailles peace, among them the rights of America to participate in the reparations agreements between the allies and Germany.

Attending an allied council meeting in Paris last summer, Ambassador Harvey insisted upon adhering strictly to the role of observer. He sat in stony silence while the representatives of the allies struggled to reach an understanding. Will he assume or will he be clothed with greater authority in the coming sessions because of the definite adoption by this country of some of the provisions of the treaty of Versailles?

FAILURE A MENACE.

The European situation, already tense, will be rendered worse by the failure of the Cannes conference. France, England, Belgium and Italy are all at loggerheads. Germany is floating in a delirium of paper money, while the government declares it cannot raise one billion marks in gold to pay to France. France insists that Germany can pay, but doesn't want to pay because she sees the troubles among the old allies and believes she will not be forced to pay. Russia is a seceder.

IF AND WHEN GERMANY BECOMES AN

admitted failure, Great Britain will turn to the United States to help in convening a world conference to consider the situation. Then another fateful decision must be made by President Harding and his advisers. There are those who profess to see in the present situation in Europe threats to world civilization as great as that which in 1917 swept the United States into the vortex of the Great War.

HARVEY CONFERS WITH LLOYD GEORGE

U. S. Not to Take Active Part At Cannes.

[By The Associated Press]

Cannes, Dec. 31.—George Harvey, American ambassador to Great Britain, this afternoon had his first conversation with Prime Minister Lloyd George since their arrival here for next week's meeting of the allied supreme council.

Ambassador Harvey told the correspondent that he had had a talk with the British prime minister who is of a general nature and did not include discussion of the submarine or any other question in which the United States was vitally interested.

TO MAKE NO MOVE.

Mr. Harvey let it be known that the United States would make no move for a more active part in the approaching council meeting, and that America's position would be the same as at the council's meeting in Paris. Should the allies desire the United States to participate fully in consideration of plans for an economic conference or in discussions of the German reparations question, they must request it. Otherwise the American representative would sit in next week's sessions only as an interested observer.

MAY TAKE PART.

It was said today that Mr. Harvey might take part in the preliminary conversations between Mr. Lloyd George and Premier Briand if the submarine question should come up. Those who are making arrangements for the council meeting, which is regarded as the most important deliberation since the Paris peace conference, have taken peace and tranquility as their motive.

FOLO PENROSE, SENATOR, DIES

Brilliant Career Ended After Brief Illness.

Senator Penrose, who was 61 years of age, had been complaining for some days, but it was stated repeatedly by his friends that his condition was improving and that he would be able to resume his duties in the Senate next week. His recent work as chairman of the finance committee in handling the tax and tariff legislation was a greater physical hardship, his friends said, than he himself had realized.

Reports from Senator Penrose's apartment at Wardman park hotel tonight indicated that his condition was not so good and physicians were constantly with him. The first notice of his death, which occurred at 11:30 o'clock, was telephoned by a physician from his apartment to the hotel desk.

DIED OF HEART FAILURE.

Senator Penrose died of pulmonary thrombosis, as a result of heart failure, Dr. Roy D. Adams, his physician, announced today. Dr. Adams and two nurses were the only persons in the room when the end came.

Senator Penrose's illness, after his recuperation from a long siege which kept him away from the Senate for months, started early in the week with a bad cold. There was a change for the better on Wednesday, but he suffered a slight relapse Thursday. Despite that, however, he was able to be up and around his apartment, unconscious at last.

Until a few moments before death, Senator Penrose, his physician said, was quite comfortable, although he soon relapsed into unconsciousness and it was realized that his condition was desperate.

The senator's brother, Dr. Charles Penrose, of Philadelphia, came here to see him after the first cold attack, but returned home Wednesday, feeling that the senator was well on the mend. Dr. Adams was with Senator Penrose most of the afternoon and throughout the evening.

Senator Penrose occupied a large suite on the top floor of the hotel and it was said that he was able to look out over the city this morning before his condition began to change for the worse. It was said that he was particularly anxious to recoup his strength so that he could return to his duties next week as chairman of the finance committee hearing witnesses on the tariff bill.

Dr. Adams gave the time of the senator's death as 11:30 o'clock.

KNOX HIS FRIEND.

Friends of Senator Penrose said tonight that the sudden death recently of his colleague, Senator Knox, had been such a shock to him that it had affected him several days ago while he was doing his best to shake off a deep cold. Like Senator Knox, he died suddenly, for Dr. Adams explained that while he knew the senator was quite ill he did not anticipate death.

Want Harding to Call Economic Conference

World Conditions Demand Immediate Attention—Only a Meet Including All Nations Will Succeed.

By George N. Barnes.

British Parliament Leader.
Copyright, 1921.

London, Dec. 31.—If the discussions of the allied supreme council, to be begun at Cannes, in France, the coming week, fall in the liquidation of the world's pressing problems, President Harding may be called upon to summon a world conference to check the onrush of a certain anarchy.

Mr. Harding began a great task at Washington. The dispatches today indicate to us that both he and Secretary Hughes feel that if the Washington conference falls in certain respects a further and wider conference would be useless. But at least we must admit that the publicity at Washington already has done much good respecting armaments. A renewed conference under the same conditions would do more than anything else to arouse the moral sense of mankind to economic needs and facts. So we feel that what Mr. Harding began in 1921 he may have yet the opportunity of continuing in the coming year.

FAVORS WORLD MEET.

Prime Minister Lloyd-George favors a world conference to ascertain the facts and conditions and to deal with them in a spirit of peace. Great Britain, it is needless to say, would be glad of American co-operation in this conference. We would even welcome American initiative, if the opportunity opens, in conveying another conference.

In the meantime, let me say that France is proving most difficult. We have really reached the stage in our relations with France at which a divergence of policy and of interest cannot be camouflaged with parliamentary phrases.

RESTORE TRADING POWER.

Great Britain on her part wants a restoration of German trading power and France wants first of all the exaction of a full measure of reparations.

In the wider field, we have France arrayed against the world, whereas England wants less of armaments, the opening of markets and the salvage of shipwrecked peoples.

These things are vital to us and we believe they are vital to the world. They will be pressed by Lloyd-George in the resumed discussions next week at Cannes and they will be pressed afterward at the world's conference, if one should be held.

MUCH UNEMPLOYMENT.

The new year opens here under depressing circumstances, for there are still nearly two million unemployed. There has been no material lessening in the number for many weeks. Nor can there be except through improved trade, and there can be no improved trade in a bankrupt and disorganized world in which one is forced to view the international situation from the point of view of self interest.

The world is awry because of petty fears and patriotic fancies. Nations which were born of the world war's travail, such as Poland and Hungary and Jugoslavians, which though steeped in poverty, have yet millions of men under arms.

SUSPICIOUS OF FAITH. Germany pleads an inability to pay the reparations installment about to fall due, but the plea is regarded by many with suspicion in view of Germany's prodigality during the last three years, with her subsidized industry and her inflated currency.

In consequence, Frenchmen are demanding an examination and control of all German assets.

A SPECIAL PROBLEM.

Russia constitutes a special problem. Recognition by the sovereigns of all pre-war debts has so far been demanded by the allies as a condition of the recognition of the Russian government, but even if Lenin and company were prepared to make such an abject surrender, their act could be but empty form. Another revolution may come and moreover a payment of pre-war individual debts would involve the restoration of property to individual owners. Probably most of the property no longer exists. Many of the owners are certainly dead. Truly revolutions now always break a great deal more than can be mended.

PIECE UP FRAGMENTS.

Lloyd-George and Briand are to consult their colleagues of the allied supreme council during the coming week with a view of piecing up some of the old world fragments. And I am glad to note that Ambassador Harvey will be present. They may do their best, but recent events show that premier Briand is terribly hampered by home influences. His opponents, Poincare among them, are crying for the flesh of the bond granted France at Versailles. While (Continued on Page Twelve.)

TO HOLD FARM PROBLEM MEET

Representatives to Consider Present Conditions.

Washington, Dec. 31.—Remedial measures to meet the present farm situation and laying a permanent policy for development of a self-sustaining agriculture are expected to result from the National Agricultural conference to be called by Secretary Wallace, at the request of President Harding. The conference, it was indicated today, probably would meet about Jan. 15, in Washington.

100 TO 150 EXPECTED.

Farmers and representatives of correlated lines interested in farmers' products, will make up the personnel of the conference, which it was said today, would number between 100 and 150. Farmers' organizations, manufacturers of farmers' products, transportation interests, marketing agencies, shipping interests, fertilizer makers, farm implement manufacturers, packers, state agricultural and state agricultural representatives, cotton, grain, livestock, fruit commission men, experts on rural, social problems and bankers are expected to be included in the membership of the conference.

WOULD REVIVE BUSINESS. An official of the agricultural department today asserted that the conference in finding measures for relieving the distress of the farmers would at the same time be reviving business of all lines through restoration of the farmers' purchasing power.

Secretary Wallace and his advisers worked hard today completing the list of those who should be asked to the conference. Special attention was given to each prospective name in order to get the best qualified and constructive membership possible from a national standpoint.

DETERMINE OWN WORK. The conference, it was indicated, authoritatively, will first meet and map out its own program of work. It was suggested that the members probably would then divide themselves into committees along lines of production, transportation, manufacturing and marketing, and these in turn would have sub-committees on each of the agricultural products.

Questions of transportation, utilization of land resources, forestry, policies on land leasing which would include contracts and rents, various aspects of marketing, including statistics, warehousing and terminal developments and rural social life in the opinion of agriculture department officials, probably would be on the program of the conference.

FIX POLICIES. Policies respecting more efficient production and involving control of animal and plant diseases, it is thought, will evolve from the conference deliberations. This would include a new national policy for fighting the boll weevil which worked such disastrous results in many sections of the cotton belt last year and for eradication of the corn borer which has appeared on the edge of the corn belt.

TO CO-OPERATE. The conference, it was explained, will work in the fullest harmony and co-operation with the joint congressional committee which has been investigating agricultural problems.

Chairman Anderson and his colleagues, it was said, undoubtedly will be invited to sit in the conference and give the delegates the benefit of their opinions concerning the problems which will come before them.

While preparations for the conference were being made today, the farmers' national council, through its headquarters here, issued a statement which in part said:

DEMOURNUE PLAN. "The President's proposed conference of farming interests plus the interests related thereto, that is, interests which have exploited agriculture, will doubtless be the same sort of a bluff and a fraud as the President's conference on unemployment and the President's conference to limit the limitation of armaments."

DR. BLAIR TO HEAD HORTICULTURALISTS

Toronto, Dec. 31.—Dr. Cullen Blair of the University of Illinois was elected president of the American Society of Horticultural science at its closing session today.

John Prescott Disarms Two Would-Be Hold-Ups

Coal Dealer Badly Beaten Over Head Before Forcing Men to Flee.

In a terrific fight at 6 o'clock Saturday evening John Prescott at his coal office 861 East Grand avenue disarmed two men who tried to hold him up. Two young men entered the store and walked up close to Mr. Prescott and one of them suddenly shoved a revolver in his face and told him to throw up his hands. Instead Mr. Prescott grappled with them and eventually got the revolver away from him.

While this struggle was going on the other hold-up was beating Mr. Prescott over the head with a black jack made of a piece of lead about three inches long, an inch wide and half an inch thick, sewed up in leather and having a leather wrist strap.

GRABS BLACK JACK.

Mr. Prescott managed to grab the black-jack and jerked it out of the fellow's hand. Then the two assailants ran out and Mr. Prescott followed them out to the walk and fired three shots after them from his own revolver. He doesn't know if he hit either one.

One of the men ran west on Grand avenue and the other ran south on the Illinois Central tracks. Mr. Prescott grabbed a cap worn by one of his assailants, and it may be the means of identifying one of them. When the police arrived he had the revolver, black-jack and cap and turned them over to the officers.

COVERED WITH BLOOD.

Mr. Prescott was covered with blood and there was a big pool of blood on the sidewalk in front of his store where he stood shooting at the fleeing robbers. Mr. Prescott was weak from the loss of blood and Thomas Paterson, who happened along in his automobile, took Mr. Prescott to the Wabash hospital, where his wounds were dressed. The surgeons there sewed up ten gashes in his head, made by the black-jack, none of the gashes was less than an inch long.

Harry L. Armstrong's bloodhounds were called, but Mr. Prescott had spilled so much of his blood in the store and on the walk that the dogs could not get started on the trail of the thieves.

ROB RESTAURANT.

Two men held up the Farmer's restaurant at 6:55 o'clock Saturday night at the corner of Wood street and Broadway. One of the men, at least, had a revolver. He forced Mr. Farmer to throw up his hands and then made him sit down with his back toward the door so he could not see the second man, who rifled the till, getting between $12 and $15.

HOLD-UP MEN PUT TO FLIGHT

Jam's Oshorn, 754 North Monroe street put two hold-up men to flight at Church and Corro Gorda streets about 11 o'clock Saturday night when they ordered him to throw up his hands. He hit one in the face knocking him down and then grappled with the other for his gun. The first man got up and ran and the man with the gun loose and followed his partner. They got nothing.

Strained Anglo-French Relations Laid to Allies

Failure to Support Versailles Signatures Given as Reason For Unpleasantness at Present; Cannes Conference Received Unfavorably.

By Andre Tardieu.

(Copyright, 1921.)

Paris, Dec. 31.—The seriously strained relations between France and Great Britain, which have been all too apparent at the Washington conference the last few days, are traceable to just one thing—the failure of the allies to support their signatures to the treaty of Versailles.

One default in this direction has led to another, until at last France feels she has made sacrifice enough and must choose the means of maintaining her independence. She cannot in all fairness be expected to submit to a program, either at Washington or at Cannes that will leave her perpetually in the position of having to bow to the will of Britain, or any other country.

VITAL QUESTIONS AT HOME.

While it is to be regretted that France's position has not been better understood at Washington—it is grievous that it should have been so ill-presented—it must be remembered that France has had matters of more immediate vital interest to deal with at home.

And here once more we are facing an announcement of dangerous impositions which for two years have so gravely troubled Europe. It is the first result of the Lloyd-George-Briand conversations at London.

AGREEMENTS UNSATISFACTORY.

Again we have the same error. Instead of trying sincerely to execute signed and ratified contracts, new arrangements are substituted, which, if they satisfy the one, anger the other. Let me cite a single example: Germany declares that she is bankrupt. The reparations commission responds unanimously "You must pay." Whereupon Lloyd-George and Briand, instead of studying the right way to support the commission's decision, permit their experts to elaborate a new plan giving Germany further delays.

UNFAIR TO BELGIUM.

Then, to appease the just protests of France, they consider a plan providing that Belgium shall abandon her priority rights to the next payment by Germany. Belgium naturally is resentful and energetically complains that she is left out when the allies consider her affairs, so that they may better violate her rights. In this Belgium is absolutely correct. Italy also protested the Lloyd-George-Briand scheme of settling the affairs of Europe all by themselves, and so the conversations of London were adjourned for a general rendezvous the coming week at Cannes.

But here is the point: Belgium last May consented to free Germany from the payment of twelve billion marks despite the fact that the reparations commission unanimously had decided in its pill that Germany was able to pay the sum. Thus Belgium gave

WORLD HOPE LIES IN EAST

Much Needed to Stabilize Commerce Says Harden.

By Maximilian Harden.
Germany's Foremost Publicist.
Special Cable to The Review.
(Copyright, 1921.)

Berlin, Dec. 31.—Let us give the old year an appropriate farewell, remembering that if it failed to bring the longed-for earthly paradise, it at least was not as ugly as it was expected to be. Despite gloomy prophecies, the world has not come to an end, and we poor descendants of Cain and of the ape should not ask more than that when we are living only three years after the cruelest and most destructive of all wars.

SOME CERTAINTIES

What will the new year bring? It probably will not bring wine and whiskey back to America, nor make Lenin a junior partner in the Standard Oil company, nor Trotsky commanding officer of the Salvation Army, nor Troch a propagandist for the Linist theory, nor will it make Charlie Chaplin a great Hamlet. These are certainties, but it is difficult to be sure of much more than that. It is easier to outline what 1922 ought to accomplish if it is to go down in history as a year of prosperity.

PIVOT MOVES EASTWARD.

The political and economic pivot of the world is moving eastward. The vast territories of Russia and China will hold the attention of those who are seeking international economic reconstruction. The most important international frontier of the future is that separating the Asia of the Russian, Mongol, Chinese and Mussulman Turk from Germanic central Europe. We must not close the door of the world's greatest markets—East Europe and Asia Minor, whose fertile lands have never been properly cultivated. Nor must we close the doors of the German machine shop, which after America is the most efficient in the world.

NATION'S NEEDS.

The United States needs a convalescent, resurgent China, not a China held sterile by foreign guardianship. The British empire needs a friendly Islam in Mesopotamia, Arabia and India. France needs a physically capable and a willing Germany for reparations. All three, therefore, have a direct interest in keeping Russia's three doors open. As there is no present hope of a speedy fusion between Woodrow Wilson's League of Nations and the one planned by President Harding, a treaty patterned after the Washington four-power agreement, guaranteeing for ten years the inviolability of the possessions of the United States, the British empire, France, Germany and Russia, would be useful. Each power should pledge itself to consult the other signatories when its vital interests were threatened, and in any dispute between two of them the other three should be consulted.

MIGHT BE BIG AID

Such a pact would not burden the United States with European entanglements, but would control the Balkan agitation and obviate the increasing danger of a revival of the Anglo-French enmity. It would make world disarmament possible. It might civilize and modernize Russia, a huge undertaking which ought to begin this spring with a system of worldwide volunteer labor service in Russia, using those in every land who learned so well how to command during the war.

WOULD OPEN PORTS.

With Russia once more at work, equipped with railroads and machines the bulging warehouses of the exporting nations can be emptied of their goods. With a far-sighted credit system, the factory fires throughout the world could be relighted, the unemployed put back to work, and Russia's neglected resources strengthened and enlarged once more to purchase goods abroad.

A quarter of a billion white people who want goods from overseas now can't buy them. An export industry in metals, chemicals, textiles, etc., one-third as large as Germany's has been built up in the Western countries as a result of the war, and so the potential supply of such goods is almost unlimited, but the demand has fallen off to one-fourth of the normal.

NOT HELPED BY MEETS.

This situation is not helped by so-called "conferences" which really are nothing but junkets arranged by versatile ministers who enjoy a game of golf on the azure coast of the Mediterranean during the foggy months of winter. Nor is it improved by the childish beller of the French chamber that the Germans pay only half as much in taxes as the French—if they paid double what they now pay they would be paying more than their total incomes. Even those who are ignorant of public economy should comprehend that a relatively small land, exhausted by years of war with a superior force, can't pay billions year after year without wrecking the world's financial structure by inflation and loans, and by destroying its economic fabric by forced mass exportation of cheap goods.

STEPS FORWARD.

The quadruple pacific agreement and the limitation of navies are steps along the stony path towards international community. If 1922 brings a desire to look forward more than in the past, then indeed, it should be hailed joyfully.

ALLEGED SLAYER SEEKING CHANGE

Nash Fears to Go to Trial in Pana.

Pana, Dec. 31.—Owen ("Giddy") Nash, alleged slayer of Policeman Thomas Hughes in this city, Dec. 23, 1920, was brought back to the scene of the crime Friday, under a misapprehension of the part of the official at Taylorville, where Nash has been in jail since his capture in Des Moines, Ia. Sheriff D. L. Dunbar and Deputy Sheriff Joe Shafer, were under the impression that arguments for a change of venue for Nash were to be made in the Pana city court Friday, and Officer Shafer brought Nash here for that purpose. The date for the hearing of the arguments is Monday, Jan. 2, however, so Nash was returned to the county jail.

FORNORF DISQUALIFIED.

An outside judge will be called in to hear the arguments for the change of venue, as Judge J. H. Fornorff of the city court has disqualified himself to hold those proceedings. It is expected that Judge Harry Stuttle of the Litchfield city court will act in Judge Fornorff's stead Monday, though definite announcement to that effect has not been made.

NEW ORLEANS HAS GOOD EXPORT TRADE

New Orleans, Dec. 31.—Grain exports through the port for the year 1921 amounted to nearly 71,000,000 bushels, according to figures announced by the Board of Trade inspection bureau today.

Although these figures do not reach last year's record by several million bushels, local port officials express the view that this showing was made in view of disturbed conditions abroad. Detailed figures announced today include the following exports: 55,178,000 bushels of wheat; 13,097,704 bushels of corn; 27,400 bushels of oats; 93,650 bushels of barley; and 979,984 bushels of rice.

Elevator stocks on hand at the end of the year show 3,264,000 bushels of wheat, 492,000 bushels of corn, 1,000 bushels of oats, 30,000 bushels of rice, 100,000 bushels of barley and all awaiting export within the next few weeks.

MANY TAXES END WITH NEW YEAR

New Federal Law Goes Into Effect Today.

By Harden Colfax.
Special Correspondent of The Review.

(Copyright, 1921.)

Washington, Dec. 31.—Federal taxation changed on the stroke of midnight tonight. The traveler buying his ticket hereafter no longer pays the government the eight per cent. he has been paying for two years or more. The man at the soda fountain doesn't have to pay a ten per cent. tax on his soft drink. The woman seeing the new year in and dropping into a drug store for a lipstick, cosmetics or the like, no longer buys an internal revenue stamp along with the goods she wants.

NEW LAW IN EFFECT.

The new tax law, eliminating fifty-seven varieties or more of petty exactions by government tax collectors, has gone into effect. Its operation followed the clock. Along the Atlantic seaboard it was in effect an hour before it became effective at Chicago, and three hours before it was operative on the Pacific coast. The new tax law like Father Time, took three hours to cross the continent.

All told, the new law eliminates taxes on many articles and reduces taxes on still others to an estimated extent of $425,000,000 annually. Joseph S. McCoy, actuary of the treasury department, estimates that under the new law the government will collect that much less in taxes in 1922 than it did in 1921. The figures do not include the income tax and the surtaxes, whose effect will not be felt immediately by the taxpayer.

TRANSPORTATION TAX.

Two hundred and seventy million dollars of the total is represented in the elimination of the so-called transportation taxes. They are levied no longer. The tax of three per cent. on freight charges; five per cent. on express charges; eight per cent. on railroad and Pullman tickets, and eight per cent. on all pipe lines—all are lifted. Of these, the tax on freight bills yielded the greatest revenue in 1921, or about $135,000,000. Passengers on railroad trains paid about $97,000,000 in taxes.

The fifty per cent. additional charge on Pullman tickets remains, however. That is a charge authorized by the Interstate Commerce Commission. The proceeds go to the railroad companies and not to the government.

INSURANCE TAX OFF.

There is no more tax on life, fire, marine, casualty, burglar and other forms of insurance. On life insurance the tax has been eight cents on every $100 of the face of the policy. On other forms of insurance the tax had been one per cent. of the premium. Twenty million dollars is thus cut from government revenues.

The ten per cent. tax on ice cream and soft drinks sold at soda fountains and ice cream parlors is eliminated. So is the ten per cent. tax on baseballs, bats, tennis rackets, golf clubs and all other sporting materials. The chewing gum manufacturers who paid a tax of three per cent. on his product—a tax that was not levied on retail sales—is relieved of his levy. The per cent. tax on portable electric fans and thermos bottles and containers also goes into the discard. So does the five per cent. tax on pianos and other musical instruments which yielded the government about $12,000,000 in 1921.

FUR NO LONGER TAXED.

Hereafter the purchaser of a fur coat or neckpiece no longer is taxed, as in the past, ten per cent. of the retail cost of her purchase. All articles of fur were subject to the old tax; none are subject to the new. And the woman who wants perfume, cosmetics, etc., may buy all she can afford without bothering to pay as heretofore, for a one-cent stamp on each twenty-five cents worth of her purchase. The same relief is afforded to the reader of patent medicine advertisements who buys the elixirs of which he reads. All proprietary medicines and the like go tax-free, so far as the retail business is concerned.

PARCEL POST TAX FREE.

The tax on parcel post packages also is lifted. Heretofore a cent had been exacted for each twenty-five cents or fraction in postage. That change in the law will lessen the government's revenue in 1922 by $20,000,000, Mr. McCoy estimates. The tax on telegrams and telephone calls remains. The motion picture exhibitor who leased a film had to pay five per cent. tax heretofore; hereafter he pays no tax. However, the tax on theatre tickets remains, where the ticket costs more than ten cents.

CUT OR NONE WHATEVER.

Millions of persons recall, so recently as yesterday, the ten per cent. they paid when buying goods above a certain value. All that has been either reduced or done away with. There will be no tax whatever on the following articles, whatever their value: umbrellas and parasols; house or smoking jackets; waists; coats when sold separately from the suit; men's hats and women's bonnets and hats; men's caps; socks; neckties; silk stockings; men's shirts; pajamas; knit goods and underwear; kimono; petticoats and waists.

LEVY REDUCED.

On the following articles the tax has been reduced from ten per cent. on the excess of value mentioned, to five: carpets in excess of $450 per square yard; rugs in excess of $6 per square yard; trunks in excess of $35; valises, traveling bags, suit-cases, hat bags, etc., in excess of $25; purses, pocketbooks, handbags and shopping bags, in excess of $5; portable lighting fixtures including portable lamps and shades in excess of $10; and fans in excess of $1.

SOFT DRINKS CUT.

On near-beer and similar carbonated drinks, the manufacturer's tax, at 15 per cent. on the value has been reduced to 2 cents a gallon, plus a tax on the carbonic acid gas used in charging the drink. Incidentally the working of the law reveals that in making near-beer the manufacturer has to make real beer first and then get the alcohol out of it. In all other fountain drinks, there is a tax, but it is paid to the government by the manufacturer and not by the man buying his refreshment over the counter. Finally, the tax on candy, generally paid by the manufacturer, is cut from five per cent. to three. The new law taxes no articles that were not taxed by the old one.

ASKING HELP FOR CUNNINGHAM HOME

Costs Increase While Income Decreases.

Friends of the Cunningham children's home of Urbana are making appeals for more help for the home. Increased cost in maintaining the home and adding of necessary equipment have added to the expenses of the institution and help is needed financially.

The Cunningham children's home, although in existence twenty-six years, is perhaps the least known of the many institutions of its kind. Of those who read this article, there will not be more than one in 25 who has visited this very interesting place. It is located by the Women's Home Missionary society of the Methodist Episcopal church, Illinois conference. The home is open to children of all denominations who have no one to care for them. At the present time there are seventy-five in the home.

ADD HOSPITAL.
The Cunningham home is an institution with equipment that would be a credit to any church or community. The completion, recently, of a $20,000 hospital and a $3,000 heating plant adds much to the comfort of the institution. The Cunningham home is in debt for various reasons. It owes $6,000.

EXPENSES INCREASE.
Last September they had a fire. Lost their barn, farming implements, hay, corn and automobile. Then there was the high cost of living and excessive price of coal. In former years $800 worth of coal would have been sufficient for the winter but last year the cost was $2,200. Along with the increased cost, has come a decrease in income. The money realized from the farm, that is connected with the home, dropped from $2,100 in 1920 to $855 this year. It costs $75 a day now to run the home, but even under these trying financial conditions the children are receiving the best of care. Eight of the girls are attending Urbana high school.

COMMITTED NAMED.
Realizing that some action must be taken to protect the future of the home, the board of managers has appointed a committee with Mrs. E. F. Harris of Champaign as chairman. Others of the committee are Mrs. I. A. Love of Danville, who is chairman of the board of managers of the home; Mrs. J. G. Mosier of Urbana, treasurer; Mrs. B. Pfizenmeyer of Leroy, president of the Home Missionary society of the Illinois conference; and Mrs. J. C. Baker, a member of the advisory board of managers. The committee met recently in the home of Mrs. Harris in Champaign, where definite plans were mapped out and will be announced later. Everyone who is interested in humanity and has the opportunity should visit this

NEW COMPANY TO SELL AUTO SOAP

Jones-Miller Supply Co. Also to Handle Wauker.

The Jones-Miller Supply Company has been formed in Decatur and has already started into business. The firm consists of W. H. Jones, C. W. Miller and George Bopp and offices will be established within a very short time here. Mr. Jones and Mr. Bopp are now members of the Rep Motor Co. firm and Mr. Miller of the Automotive Supply Co. but the new firm will be independent of both.

TO HANDLE SOAP.
The Jones-Miller Supply Co. will handle, in a wholesale way only, an automobile soap and a car washing device in which the soap is mixed with the water in a tank by water system pressure and is taken out through the nozzles in the car washing brush. By the use of two and three way valves the water can be brought through the tank without the soap or with it and the supply of soap can be adjusted to the need.

The company has the selling agency for the equipment for Indiana and Illinois and will immediately put men on the road to sell it.

ADAPTED TO BUILDINGS.
The machine is also adapted for use in hotels, hospitals, and other places where much washing of the floors is necessary, for street railroads and steam railroads for the washing of cars.

Already the firm has made arrangements for warehouse room here and all equipment as well as the soap will be shipped from this point.

James I. Michaels, well known in Decatur, died Saturday morning in Battle Creek, Mich. He was fifty years old last July. His death was caused by Bright's disease, after an illness of about five weeks. Mr. Michaels was born in Fairmount, W. Va., July 29, 1871. He had often visited in Decatur, and during part of the last year made his home here. It was his intention to make Decatur his headquarters. He was an oil contractor and traveled extensively. He was connected with the Eldorado oil wells in Kansas and also the Des Moines oil wells in Texas.

Mr. Michaels, though not a breeder of fine cattle, had a national reputation as a judge of Jersey cattle. He was prominent in his home town of Fairmount, W. Va., where he had served as sheriff and held other high positions. He was a thirty-second-degree Mason, a Shriner, and also a member of the Elks lodge there.

Mr. Michaels was a nephew of Mrs. J. W. Bogges and a cousin of Attorney W. Ray Bogges of Decatur. Mrs. Bogges was with him when he died and will accompany the widow and the body to Decatur this morning. The body will be taken to the Dawson & Wilkoff chapel.

The funeral probably will be held at 2:30 o'clock Monday afternoon at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. W. Ray Bogges, 204 South Cross street. The interment will be in Fairlawn cemetery.

AGENTS TO GO TO WASHINGTON, D. C.

Eleven of Bankers Life Leave Decatur Monday.

Eleven local agents for the Bankers Life Insurance company will leave Monday for Washington, D. C., to attend the school for its agents in that city next Thursday, Friday and Saturday. The men go as agents of the company and as a reward for having done a certain amount of business in the past year.

Those making the trip will be C. C. Smith, in charge of the Decatur office, R. L. Crisp, Mrs. M. V. Withers, C. S. Huffman, J. R. Kirby, W. F. Ball, W. A. McKinney, E. T. Smith, T. A. Scott, M. E. Weigand, Mrs. Smith and daughter will accompany Mr. Smith.

LE FORGEE READY TO TALK FRANCHISE

Not Against Busses; Wants Them Regulated

"We are ready to take up the question of the street railway franchise at any time now," said C. C. LeForge, attorney for the Decatur Railway & Light Co., Saturday.

"The city council has been very courteous to me while I have been so busy with other affairs but I can arrange now to go ahead with the franchise at any time."

NOT OPPOSING BUSES.
"And I want to correct one impression which seems to have gained some currency here. The Decatur Railway & Light Co. is not fighting nor is it opposing busses as such. It is opposing unregulated, unfair competition by busses. Bus service when made auxiliary to an established transportation system, by giving service where the more permanent system does not yet reach, is a good thing. It is good for the city and does not injure anyone. But unregulated competition with unsanitary, ill ventilated and poorly equipped busses is bad for both the community and for the transportation company."

CAN BE OF SERVICE.
"Properly regulated busses may very well do a community a service. Unregulated and uncontrolled, they will almost certainly do a community harm by injuring the more permanent transportation company. They eventually force higher fares when unregulated, because they take the cream of the business which enables a street railway company to give good service."

"We are ready to discuss a franchise any time that the city is ready."

Closes Revival.

Rev. J. W. Mahoney, pastor of the Locust Grove church, nine miles east of Moweaqua, has just completed a series of meetings lasting four and a half weeks. The meetings were quite successful, resulting in fifty-two conversions and a substantial addition of members to the church roll.

The Last Word.

Argument: A wee-beegee specimen of the tramp tribe made a call at a rural residence to ask for aid. The door was opened by a woman of angular proportions, severe in demeanor, and of uncertain age and temper. Having quickly ascertained the object of the unexpected visit, in raspy tones she observed: "I shall not give you anything. If you had been wise, you would not have come here. Do you know who I am?"

"Well, I'm a policeman's wife, and if he were here, he would take you and very quickly, too."

The tramp looked at her quickly for a minute, and then replied: "I believe you, ma'am. If he took you, he'd take me, too."

Decatur's New Postmaster

J. H. "Jake" Hill.

It's now Postmaster J. H. Hill, still Jake.

The official notice of his appointment to the Decatur postmaster job came Saturday and Hill will take over the office Sunday. J. W. Carter who succeeds Hill as Chief Deputy Collector of the Springfield office, will not be sworn in until Tuesday at Springfield. The revenue office will not be open until Tuesday however.

"I've always been known as a stand-patter in politics," said Postmaster Hill, "but don't think that I expect to go into the postoffice job here to tear up things. I'm not that foolish. Service is what the people want from the office and my efforts will be to give that. I don't expect to make any changes over there. I'm told the men in their present positions are all good men for their place and that is all that is necessary. The only appointment I may have to make will be a new clerk if the office is granted the new man that has been asked for."

MONTICELLO BEATS DELAND, 19 TO 9

Monticello, Dec. 31.—In a fast game, featured by close guarding of both teams, the Monticello Junior High defeated Deland Junior High 19 to 9 in a basketball game here Friday night. At the end of the first half, Monticello had an 8-5 lead, but following the rest they started with a rush and Deland was unable to break up the team work. Peterson, with six field goals and one free throw to his credit, was the heavy scorer for Monticello.

The lineup and summary:
(Monticello)—Collerys and Catlin, forwards; Peterson, center; Armsworth Patrick, and Leach, guards; (Deland)—Chaney and Adams, forwards; Kenser, center; Dubson and Peacock, guards.

Field goals—Collerys 2, Catlin 1, Peterson 6, Chaney 1, Kenser 3; free throws—Peterson 1, Chaney 1. Referee—Ward (Mansfield).

FUNERALS

MRS. CHARLOTTE WELDEN.

The funeral of Mrs. Charlotte Welden, who died Saturday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. W. W. Curry, 1258 North Main street, will be held at 8:30 o'clock Monday morning at the residence. The body will be taken to Jacksonville for interment. In addition to her other relatives, Mrs. Welden is survived by a grand-daughter, Mrs. B. B. Kinsler, of Decatur, and one grand-child.

LEONARD W. STOUT.

The funeral of Leonard W. Stout will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the Methodist church in Natick. The interment will be in the Long Point cemetery.

SHELLABARGERS BUY FIREPROOF GARAGE

Pay $70,000 to Lucian C.
Shellabarger.

David Thatch and W. L. Shellabarger, comprising the firm of W. L. Shellabarger's Sons, Saturday closed a deal with Lucian C. Shellabarger for the purchase of the large fire proof garage building which the firm already occupies at the corner of South Main and East Macon streets.

This garage, which is a large building covering a frontage on South Main street of 150 feet and running back 150 feet is the best built garage in the city. It is fire proof and is modern in every respect. The price paid for the property is not stated but it is said to be between $500 and $600 a front foot which would bring the total to between $60,000 and $70,000.

TO MAKE CHANGES.

"We will make a number of changes on the inside of the building," said W. L. Shellabarger Saturday. "The office will be doubled in size and the garage room itself will be enlarged by adding 3,000 square feet with the taking in of another room now north of the garage proper."

"The show room will also be remodeled. A new ceiling will be put in, the room re-decorated and ornamental light fixtures added."

The firm handles the Studebaker cars for this territory and the three brothers comprising the firm have been very successful in their business here.

MISSISSIPPI STATE BEATEN BY CUBANS

Southern Football Eleven Loses to Islanders, 13-0.

Havana, Cuba, Dec. 31.—Heavily outweighed and out-generated, the football team of Mississippi University, went down in defeat here today before the Cuba Athletic club eleven by a score of 13 to 0. Playing old style football without a single attempt at a forward pass, the Cubans scored 6 points in the first quarter and seven in the last, when Romero, right halfback, ran 26 yards and then bucked the line twice for a touchdown.

Mississippi falled miserably in aerial tactics, trying 13 forward passes without success.

TUSCOLA YOUTH WRITES OF WORK IN PERSIAN SCHOOL

Natives Are Eager to Have Their Children Taught By Americans.

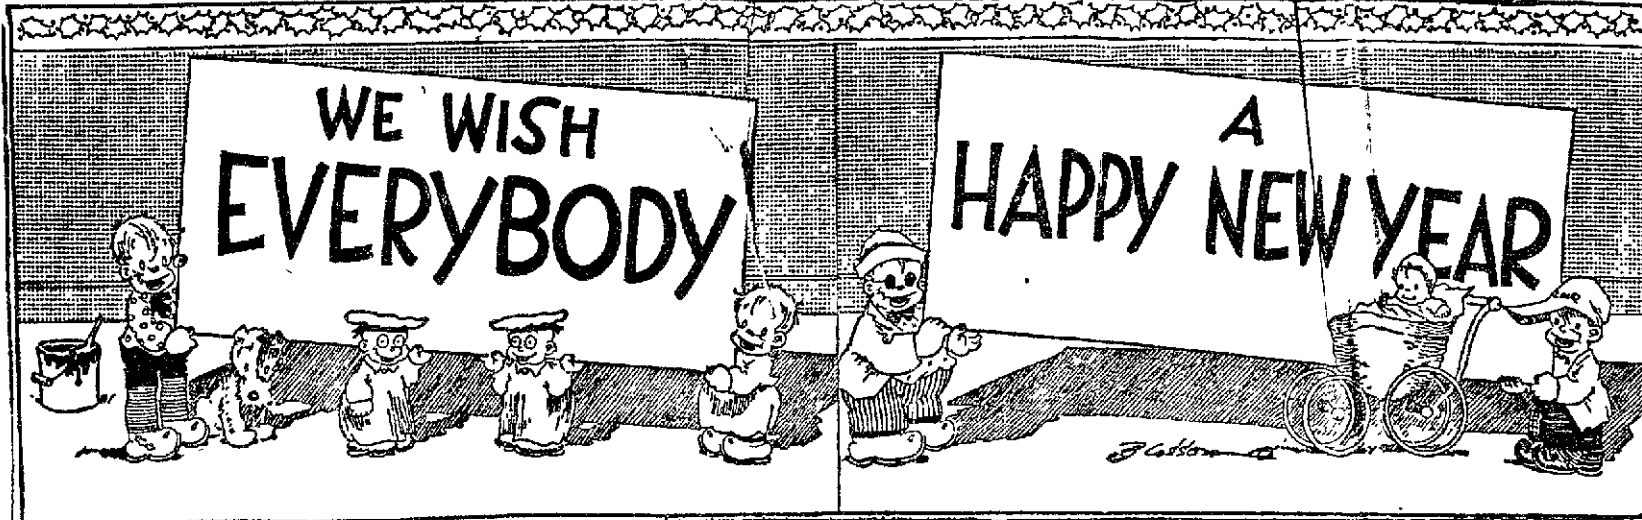

Tuscola, Dec. 31.—Dr. and Mrs. A. E. Boyce of this city have just received a letter from their son Armin, who with his wife is located in Persia. Armin is a missionary teacher in the American high school for boys. The letter just received is the first Dr. and Mrs. Boyce have had from their son since last July, and there is enclosed in the letter a complete story of the work for the school with which he is connected for the school year of 1920 and 1921.

590 BOYS.
A table showing the enrollment of the school by nationalities, discloses that there was in attendance a total of 590 boys. Of these, 337 were native Persians, 205 Armenians, 33 Jews, and five of all others. According to the report the enrollment of the school is only limited by the capacity, and the financial ability to accommodate students, and there is a constant struggle against over-enrollment, rather than to keep the school filled with students.

BEG FOR EDUCATION.
The Persians are constantly begging the authorities in the school to take their boys, arguing that just one more can make no possible difference, and there are known to be cases where the parents have appealed to the American Legation, in an effort to compel the school to take their boys.

NOT PUNCTUAL.
It appears from the report that the students there are not so punctual in their attendance as in the schools of America. Out of the 590 pupils, there were but two who were not absent at some time during the school year, and the average attendance was 86 per cent. The report shows that while the Persians are very eager for the education afforded by the schools, it is very difficult to know just what benefits are being given to them, in the way of training in Christian religion.

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS

OBJECT TO CHRISTIANITY.
Cases are cited where the older Persians take their boys away from the school as soon as they show an inclination to prepare themselves for the Christian ministry, and that many of the young boys who have accepted Christian teaching, are very particular that their parents do not learn of it, for fear they will be taken from the school. Mr. Boyce speaks of student organizations among the boys of school and his description of the work seems very interesting along the same lines of the "Hi-Y" organizations in this country.

ENGLISH IN 5TH GRADE.
The teaching of reading in the English language is not begun until the fifth grade is reached. Comparisons with the progress of the Persian students in reading, with that of students in the schools of this country is made, and shows up very favorably for the people of that country.

Owing to the fact that "Ramazan," the time of fasting with the Persians, came in the month of May, when no public gatherings were allowed, it was not possible to hold the commencement exercises at that time but they had to be postponed until June.

YOUNG MEN EFFICIENT.
During the time recently when a sudden turn in the Persian government brought a reform cabinet into power for a short time, some of the young men graduates from the school held very responsible positions, and they proved themselves capable and efficient. Mr. and Mrs. Boyce have been connected with the school for a number of years, and through the troublesome times of the World war, there were times when they could only get mail to the outside world, by sending it out by citizens who were making trips to distant countries, the mail service there was so completely disorganized.

THE SEASON'S COMPLIMENTS

MEN AND WOMEN WHO WON SPORT LAURELS DURING PAST YEAR

EAST VS. WEST GAME MONDAY

W. and J. to Clash with University of California.

By Walter Camp.
Special Correspondent of The Review.
(Copyright, 1921).

New York, Dec. 31.—Football's greatest season comes to a close on Monday with the much anticipated inter-collegiate contest between East and West at Pasadena, Calif., where the University of California meets Washington and Jefferson at the Tournament of Roses. While California undoubtedly holds the edge, the two teams are sufficiently well matched in ability to give promise of a hard-fought game. Both teams are playing for a good field, although neither is a stranger to the mud.

TWO VETERANS.
The Eastern team, under the tutelage of Coach Earle Neale, has made great strides this season. Neale had no starting material to work with so far as the general public knew, with the exception of two men, Stein, the captain, and Erickson, in the backfield. I who had played with the Great Lakes team when it came East as a semi-professional aggregation, and defeated Rutgers so convincingly, and later won from the Navy team at Annapolis. Erickson was a star player then and he has continued his great work at Washington and Jefferson.

UNDEFEATED THIS YEAR.
With these two stars as a nucleus Neale went to work to develop a real team and so successfully did he apply himself to the task that his eleven administered a defeat to Pittsburgh and went through the season unbeaten. One other man, perhaps, should be at least known for his high qualities and that is Neale at guard, but Neale, the coach, has developed a star end in Kopf, a good tackle in Wedderburn and a sterling back in Brenkert. This was Kopf's first year in football and like Neale at guard, he has a baseball brother, the shortstop of the Cincinnati National League team.

WATCH ERICKSON.
In the Detroit game, Erickson showed a remarkable change in pace which quite deceived the Detroit fans, but the Californians probably will be wise to this young man and his methods. Nevertheless they must remember that he is very clever, weighs close to 200 pounds and does not always run in a straight line.

TWO GOOD KICKERS.
As kickers Neale will depend upon Brenkert and Erickson and they fairly go out at the running game. If Nisbet outdoes them both in a game of this kind as a rule none of the big kickers get their full distance as they do in some minor games where they have nothing to fear in event of a slipup. The remainder of the backfield is made up of McDoulin, quarterback, and Belsa, Crook, plays at center and Vince is the other end with Konolinka at right end.

CALIFORNIA.
California will oppose this outfit with Muller at one end and Stephens at the other. Both stars, Muller throwing and Stephens receiving and of the forward-pass Muller will be the other star in the California line at tackle, but Latham is a strong center and should give Crook all he wants to handle. Neale will make a reputation if he takes care of Cranmer.

In the California backfield Erb at quarterback is a great general who does not wear himself out with useless efforts. In fact, it will be upon his steering that California will rely for the most part. Andy Smith has in fact, claims to be the southwestern conference championship, will meet

CENTRE TO MEET TEXAS AG TEAM

Dallas, Texas, Dec. 31.—The famous football team of Centre College of Kentucky and the eleven of Texas Agricultural and Mechanical College, champions of the southwestern conference championship, will meet here Monday afternoon in what local football followers regard as the biggest inter-collegiate game ever played in the southwest.

The aggies will take the field outweighing 13 pounds to the man, but will rely on their strong defensive power to hold the dashing Colonels in check.

IOWA DEFEATS KNOX 27 TO 21

Galesburg, Ill., Dec. 31.—A stiff defense with ability to cage the ball from a distance gave Iowa a 27 to 21 victory over Knox here tonight. The game was rough, 35 fouls being called on the two teams. Albro kept Knox in the running by his sensational work from the free throw line hitting 15 out of 18 tries. Lehmann and Shick were the Hawkeyes' stars.

THREE TEAMS TO PLAY VOLLEY BALL

Clinton and Monticello Come to Decatur Tuesday Night.
Decatur, Clinton and Monticello volleyball teams will meet Tuesday night in the local Y. M. C. A. A dinner will be served to the visiting teams at 6 o'clock. The Kiwanis quartet will sing and there will be a reading on the program.
The two teams that have been picked to meet the visiting teams will play a practice game Monday morning. The Y. M. C. A. is closed that day but the men will practise that day on the regulation floor 35 by 60 feet. Only seven men will play on a team.
Two games will be played between all the teams. Curtain hall will be the closing stunt. Neither team knows from which direction the ball is coming.

SPORT BRIEFS.

Philips Buy Leslie.
Philadelphia, Dec. 31.—The Philadelphia National League baseball club has completed a deal for First Baseman Leslie of the New Orleans club of the Southern League. Secretary Shottelbine of the local club announced today. Two players were given in exchange—John Monner, second baseman and P. Henry, who was purchased from San Antonio of the Texas League.

Yale Defeated Again.
Chicago, Dec. 31.—Northwestern University basketball team put Yale on the defensive during a hard fought game at Patten gymnasium, Evanston, tonight, and won, 29 to 14. This is the sixth defeat for the Yale team on its holiday western trip.
The Yale team is scheduled to start for home tonight, having won no victory on the trip.

Colgate Downs Chicago.
Chicago, Dec. 31.—Colgate's University basketball team tonight won from the University of Chicago, 16 to 14. Tonight's game was the last for Colgate on its western trip, the team having broken even by winning from Chicago and De Moines University, and losing to Lexington of Omaha and Illinois Wesleyan.

Dartmouth Wins.
Lake Placid, N. Y., Dec. 31.—Dartmouth carried off the cup offered by President Harding for the winner of the Sno-Birds college day winter sports events at the Lake Placid club here today. The collegians competed in a wild wind and snow storm. The team totals were: Dartmouth, 21; Holy Cross 6; Yale 3; Princeton, 2; and Union 1. Hennessy and Carleton scored heavily for the winners.

Cornell Victor.
Cleveland, O., Dec. 31.—The Cornell University basketball team defeated the Western Reserve University five here tonight by a score of 35 to 22.

In another college basketball game, St. Ignace College team, of Cleveland, defeated the St. Louis University quintet 44 to 23.

San Francisco, Calif., Dec. 31.
Jim Barnes and Jack Hutchison defeated Harold Sampson and Johnny McHugh, San Franciscoans, in a 26 hole best ball foursome on the municipal links here today by a score of four and two with the bye holes included.

I. T. S. DIVIDES WITH DELAVAN

Delavan, Dec. 31.—For the first time since indoor baseball has been played here the Delavan team was shut out. The I. T. S. team of Decatur copped the first game of a two game series here today winning 10-0 in a brilliant played game in which Ned Reynolds, pitching ace of Tom Nevin's outfit, received perfect support.
In the second game Delavan took the measure of the invaders 7-9 staging a rally in the eighth which netted them six runs.

In the first game the Reynolds-Delvin combination proved too much for the Delavan outfit, the team appearing at their best. Reynolds was out into the box in the eighth inning to relieve Gauer with one out and he was jammed. The I. T. S. team led 5-3 when Reynolds was called in from third.

START EARLY.
In the first game played in the afternoon the traction nine started their scoring early, taking a three run lead in the first inning. They were never headed.
They made an auspicious start in the first inning of the evening game taking three runs in the first inning and setting up a lead which stood up until the rapid fire attack in the eighth took the wind out of their sails.

DELAY SETTLEMENT ON ITALIAN BOURSE

[By The Associated Press]
Rome, Dec. 31.—At the instance of the ministers of industry and the treasury, the king today signed a decree postponing until January 1 the December settlement which was to have occurred today on all the Italian bourses.

CHICAGO BUILDING EXCEEDS 1920

Chicago, Dec. 31.—Building operations in Chicago for 1921 were far in excess of 1920 and were greater than for 1919, according to figures announced tonight by Charles C. Bostrom, commissioner of public works. A total of 7,800 building permits were issued, these including 1,496 apartments and 4,645 residences. The total value was given as $124,028,010. In 1920 building permits totaled 3,745 with a valuation of $79,192,650 while 6,588 permits were issued in 1919 and the value was given as $104,168,859.

IRISH PEACE STILL GAINING STRENGTH

Counties Continue Favorable Vote.

[By the Associated Press]
Dublin, Dec. 31.—One of the narrowest majorities in favor of ratification of the Irish treaty was recorded today by the Cork county council, which voted 18 to 14, at a meeting specially summoned by the lord mayor.

A resolution was moved, proposing to leave the decision to the Dail Eireann, but after long discussion an amendment was carried to the effect that "as there is no alternative to acceptance, the treaty should be ratified."

The Cavan council and the Tipperary urban council were among many other bodies adopting resolutions in favor of ratification.

Owing to the uncertainty of Ireland's future, recruiting has been suspended temporarily to all Irish infantry regiments except the Irish guards.

RATIFICATION SEEMS CERTAIN.
Ratification is regarded as certain, but that will not terminate the controversy. Technically no official step for ratification has yet been taken. It will be the duty of the British government, acting in Ireland through the clerk of the Crown and Hanover, to summon the ratifying body which will consist of all of the members elected to the House of Commons for Southern Ireland.

The meeting will be for the sole purpose of ratification and the members will not meet again. There will thus be during the tenure of the provisional government, no Irish representative body to which that government can be responsible, except the Dail Eireann, which technically is still an illegal organization.

DIFFICULTIES INCREASED.
These circumstances might increase the difficulties of the new government in the transition party and lay it open to Republican attack. The whole future largely turns on the fate of the Dail Eireann.

Tobias against ratification declare that no matter what the government rules from Dublin castle, the Dail Eireann will rule from the Marston House. The Republican army depends on and takes orders from the Dail Eireann.

If the Dail continues to function, with the army at its command, it must in effect control the provisional government. This is the difficult situation which Arthur Griffith and Michael Collins have to face.

CENTRAL ILLINOIS HAS WARMEST YEAR

Least Snowfall Recorded in History.

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 31.—Central Illinois tonight watched the passing of its warmest year, and the year of least snowfall. The mean temperature for 1921 as recorded by Meteorologist Clarence J. Root of the local weather bureau was 57 degrees, or 4.3 degrees above normal, as compared with the warmest previous year 1913, with a mean temperature of 51.9 degrees.
Every month of the year was above normal, the weather bureau records show. The warmest day was July 13 where the mercury registered 100, and the coldest was January 13, when it fell to 7 above zero.
Snowfall for the year was only 7.2 inches. The least previous annual fall was 2.2 inches in 1898. The greatest fall was the 47.7 inches in 1914.

300 PERSONS AT STALEY CLUB HOUSE

Dinner - Dance Dedicates Building.

About 300 persons attended the first formal annual dinner-dance of the Staley Fellowship club which marked the dedication of the new club house with its now complete furnishings, hangings and decorations, which was held at the club house Saturday evening.

The club house, which is situated in the edge of Decatur's new lake at the C. I. & W. railroad bridge east of the city, was in full dress for the first time Saturday night with the new furniture, lounges, chairs, hangings floor lamps and decorations and the members of the club and their guests were more than pleased with the recreational home of the big Staley family.

ELABORATE DINNER.

The elaborate dinner was served to 125 persons in the dining room where the dinner was served at tables seating six persons. Ward robes and silver holly with frost titters were the table decorations.

The dinner was prepared by Mrs. Arrington, the cateress of the Country club, and was cooked on the electric ranges with which the kitchen of the Staley club house is equipped. All the cooking for the dinner was done by electricity.

G. E. Chamberlain, superintendent of the A. T. Staley Co., was master of ceremonies at the dinner during which he introduced Dr. and Mrs. M. P. Parrish with the statement that this was their silver wedding anniversary and each was called upon to make a talk. The Moose quartet also sang and there were solo dances by pupils of the Decatur Musical College during the dinner.

SOLO DANCING.

Following the dinner the solo dancing was given again in the ball room. Miss Nadine Buck gave the Mignollette to dance and a Spanish Dance and Miss Juanita Byers gave the Grand Argentine dance and La Coquette. Miss Helen Hogan was the pianist for the solo dancers.

The "Jill-Nasty Five" orchestra furnished the music for the general dancing and at midnight the New Year was ushered in with a carnival dance with confetti, horns and other noise makers.

Sixty-five persons went to the club house on the special train which the C. I. & W. railroad furnished for the evening.

FORMER RUSSIAN AMBASSADOR DIES

New York, Dec. 31.—Baron Rosen, former Russian ambassador to the United States, who was recently knocked down by a taxi-cab in this city, died today in his suite at a hotel here. With him at the end was his wife who hastened to his bedside from Paris on receiving word of the accident.

Baron Rosen had been confined to his hotel since Dec. 14, the date of the accident with a fractured leg and other injuries. Resultant complications, it is believed, brought on his fatal illness. He lapsed into unconsciousness shortly after 2 o'clock this afternoon and died soon afterward.

Funeral services will be conducted for the public at the Russian Catholic church of St. Nicholas on Tuesday morning. In keeping with the Russian custom, private services will be held in the church Monday evening.

Sporting World Sees Many Upsets in Year

Overthrow of Willie Hoppe and Mlle. Lenglen Prove to Be Two Big Surprises.

BY BILLY EVANS.

Champions come and champions go. Some cling to their crown for years, to others the title is little more than a passing fancy.

The year 1921 witnessed some remarkable overthrows in the world of champions. It was a year featured by the arrival in sport of some new talent, and the well known ability, a half dozen amateur stars were given preference over Guliford in doing the possible winner.

Willie Hoppe, one of the few champions who seemed to be able to go on forever, holding the 182 billiard title, was finally dethroned.

SOON GETS REVENGE

Hoppe fell before the masterly stroke of young Jake Schaefer. It was a peculiar prank of fate that Hoppe won the title from Schaefer's father, almost a dozen years ago.

It seemed fittingly proper that, if the title was to be wrested from the brilliant Hoppe, it should return to the Schaefer family. Hoppe, however, insists that the title was merely loaned. He is confident he will defeat young Schaefer in the return match scheduled for March.

Next to the surprise occasioned by the defeat of Hoppe, the absolute collapse of Mlle. Lenglen, the French tennis star, ranked next in importance.

Mlle. Lenglen, touted as the greatest woman player the game ever produced, was an absolute "bust." After getting away to a bad start in her match with Mrs. Mallory, the American champion, Mlle. Lenglen defaulted, claiming illness.

SIMPLY QUIT COLD.

It is generally the impression that Mlle. Lenglen quit cold. Mrs. Mallory, at the peak of her fame, outclassed the French star as far as the match went. With certain defeat staring her in the face, Mlle. Lenglen retired from the courts.

The sporting world, provided three surprises.

Jesse Guliford, rated one of the best amateur players in the country, won the national amateur golf championship at St. Louis. Despite his well known ability, a half dozen amateur stars were given preference over Guliford in doing the possible winner.

Jim Barnes, one of the greatest of golf professionals, who has always been a victim of the "victim of some tough breaks in the national open, finally came into his own by winning that event. He played the greatest golf of his career in turning the trick.

MISS HOLLINS' SURPRISE.

Miss Cecil Lettich, the famous English star, holder of the English, French and Canadian titles, and picked to win the national women's golf championship, was unable to come through. Miss Marion Hollins captured the event. Like Miss Lettich, our great American star, Miss Alexia Stirling, also fell by the wayside.

Babe Ruth gave the baseball world something to talk about by making 59 home runs. Ty Cobb led the American League in hitting. Rogers Hornsby was the champion batsman in the National.

In the boxing game, Johnny Buff is the only new champion. He wrestled the bantam weight title from Kid Herman.

Thilen continues to hold the honors in tennis. Paddock with his 9 2-5 seconds 100 yards is our best little sprinter. Miss Ethelda Bleabers, holding records from 50 to 441 yards, is the best of the woman swimmers.

BOMB EXPLODED IN FRATERNITY HOUSE

Football Player Injured By Flames.

Chicago, Dec. 31.—John W. Thomas, star fullback of the University of Chicago football team, was slightly burned tonight when a bomb exploded outside his door in the Sigma Xi fraternity house.

The bomb is believed to have been placed by a practical joker who obtained it from the laboratory of the school of military science.

Milton Romney and Robert Halliday, members of the university basketball team, in a downstairs room, escaped injury.

Thomas' door, which was slightly open, was shattered and flames entered burning the fullback's arm. A hole was torn in the floor at the doorway.

MAY ASK HARDING TO PROBE ASYLUMS

Advisability of requesting President Harding to authorize investigation of the treatment and care accorded to insane former service men in state hospitals is being considered by officers of the Disabled Veterans of the World war. Judge Robert Marx, national commander of the organization, announced today. Judge Marx said if the appeal is made, the President will be asked to have prompt action taken to remedy conditions whose lack of treatment and overcrowding are found.

Judge Marx conferred today with State Commanders E. R. Huston, of Valparaiso, Ind.; J. E. Dowd, of Lexington and D. M. Powell of Toledo.

MANY NEW CHAMPS CROWNED IN 1921

What Does 1922 Hold in Store for Sports?

Municipal Athletic Field Is Biggest Need for Decatur—Has Many Possibilities.

BY HOWARD V. MILLARD.

What does "King Sport" hold in store for Decatur during the year of 1922? What one thing would satisfy the greater number of people and do the most constructive good? If old man "Sport" would give the writer the right to name the one thing which in his mind would be most beneficial to the city it would be a "Municipal Athletic Field."

One located near enough to Decatur high which would insure the red and white institution of proper training facilities so necessary to the development of athletic teams and of the youth in general.

SERVE TWO PURPOSES.

Why call it a "Municipal Athletic Field"? Why not an athletic field for Decatur high? Because of the fact that if Decatur continues to grow in the next five or ten years as it has in the past, the city will desire league baseball.

Baseball in a minor league as has been shown in the past is a community or civic enterprise. The same men who would have to pay for the athletic field at D. H. S. would have to build the ball park and with school opened from June to September the Municipal Athletic Field could serve two purposes.

OTHER FEATURES.

Many features could be included which would also assure the younger boys of the city a place to play during the summer months but of course that is simply a matter of enlargement and we merely mention it to show the possibilities.

The outstanding point is the fact the field which is to Decatur high must be close to the school itself and that a league ball park should be located near the business section of the city.

ANOTHER NEED.

Another one of the big problems for Decatur is adequate play ground facilities for the ward schools. Last spring the baseball league was prevented owing to the fact the surrounding property was damaged by the ball.

This condition must be remedied for as Decatur grows so will the playground problem. To do of the playgrounds of the city is the athletic fields and gymnasiums. The church has come to realize that fact. There is no greater influence to brought a or the boys of today than athletic and a city with a well defined athletic policy for the youth of the community is bound to reap the reward in the or citizens as the years roll by.

SOME PROGRESS.

Other sports have shown a great ability to progress in Decatur, among them being golf. The organization of the Sunnyside Golf Club, the great improvement made by the Decatur Fishing Club in laying out a new nine hole course, along with the Decatur Country Club assures the great Scotch game of its place in the sport of the city.

Boxing is slowly but surely developing and although the city boasts of only one ten pin emporium a daily visit will find new faces on the drives learning one of the most healthful of sports.

LAKE POSSIBILITIES.

It is hard to determine at this time just what is in prospect for an aquatic standpoint. The new lake will hold many possibilities for water and ice sports if it is permitted to be used for such.

All of these features are things which will have to be developed as occasion demands but it appears that the city will continue to progress in sports in keeping with its other activities.

THREE MONEY WINNERS ON ENGLISH TURF

Sol Joel, Lord Astor, (Below) Jockey Donoghue

London, Jan. 1.—Men of non-English blood swept the glittering turf honors in England in the season just closed, Americans being well to the foreground.

The heaviest stake winner for the year was the South African diamond magnate, Col. Joel who won purses totaling $185,000.

Second came Lord Astor, whose center was a New Yorker. He became a naturalized Briton and was made a peer. Astor won $100,000.

Another heavy winner was young Marshall Field of Chicago. It was his first season on the English turf.

Heavy scorer of the evening, the flashy little Bantam forward getting away with four field goals and live free throws out of seven tries. Heister, running guard, came down the floor and hooked in three long shots. Danis Hermann, diminutive Bantam center, played a snappy game against a man almost a foot taller. For the visitors P. Burke was the best man.

THE SUNNYSIDE GOLF CLUB COURSE.

know nothing about it. Naturally, they wouldn't, because it is never good policy to tell the public whom you intend to trade in baseball unless it involves some poor unfortunate for whom the manager has lost all regard.

ST LOUIS APPROACHED.

Nevertheless, there is good reason to believe that the St. Louis management has been approached again with a view of negotiating a trade involving Hornsby and it may be taken for granted that the New York club is willing to make a more attractive bid than it did last summer when its cash offer of $250,000 for the star was turned down.

On the other hand, nothing has been heard to indicate that the Cardinals would be willing to trade Hornsby for any consideration. The nonnate is a buzzingly strong in St. Louis and fans in the Mound City would raise an awful storm of protest if the club gave up its best man to strengthen its strongest rival.

RICKY TO KEEP HIM

Manager Branch Rickey declared not more than two weeks ago that there was nothing that the New York club could offer which would induce him to trade Hornsby and he said it in the face of a statement attributed to Hornsby that he would not sign another contract for less than $75,000 for three years. Ordinarily this statement would have provoked either a sensation or a laugh but the baseball world is now so common that no one is unduly concerned about a little matter of $75,000.

$75,000 SALARY DOUBTFUL

Taking it all around, Hornsby will be perhaps the most valuable player in the National League in 1922 but he will not get any such salary as that. He may think he is a second Babe Ruth but when it comes to drawing crowds he runs a very poor second to the Busting Bomb. He is not imbued with the mercenary mentality that appeals to the masses.

Another reason why he will not get $75,000 is that St. Louis cannot afford to pay it. That would mean nearly 35,000 spectators to pay Hornsby alone and St. Louis crowds do not measure up to that mark. Rickey is not worried about signing Hornsby to a contract to come. He says that he has never had any difficulty in former seasons in getting Hornsby to listen to reason and that he anticipates no trouble this season.

WANTS TO CHANGE

No matter what anyone says to the contrary, Hornsby has wanted to play in New York and he would come here gladly at any time. Within the last four or five years he has made his fine reputation as a batter his friends have intimated to him that the place for a player of his great ability was in New York City.

Refusal of the St. Louis management to let Hornsby go to New York even when such a tempting cash offer was made has been applauded as one of the wisest and most sportsmanlike things that has taken place in the professional game in recent years. The Giants needed Hornsby very badly at the time as the Yankees with Ruth were outwitting them at home and they realized that something had to be done to counteract their popularity. They will need him or some other star of great magnitude because even in the victor of the Giants in the world's series did not abate the popularity of the Yankees over the former, even with former Giant fans.

WANTED GROH

The player most sought by the Giants next to Hornsby was Groh. Neither man was secured last summer and one of the owners was considerably peeved at the failure of his effort. Now a deal has been put through whereby the Giants get the player they regard as second best in the league outside of their own ranks and yet they are ready to sacrifice him to get the best one.

Decatur Enjoys Great Year in Sport World

One National and Three State Titles Captured By City's Representatives In 1921.

BY H. V. M.

Decaturians who follow sporting events undoubtedly have read a lot about the crowning of the usual quota of new champions that featured the year of 1921. Billiard, wrestling, boxing, baseball, football, golf, swimming and other sports saw the rise and fall of title holders. Seldom a year passes that fails to mark the crowning and crowning of one or more champions whose positions appear very secure and the 12 months just ending was no exception.

1921 as a year was very good to Decatur in the way of sport for the city boasts of several championships achieved during that period.

NATIONAL TITLE

One national title was brought to the city when the Staley professional football eleven won the championship of the country from a class field of entrants in the American Professional Football Association. It was the first time in the history of the pro game that the title went outside the state of Ohio and much credit must be given to George Halas and his starworkers for their accomplishment.

Decatur is known from coast to coast as the home of Staleys and the football team of 1920 and 1921 has brought fame to the big plant as well as the city.

THREE STATE TITLES

Next in line to the Staley achievement comes the three state titles which came Decatur way during the year of 1921. Millikin University which has for years been upholding Decatur's name before the sport loving public came through with another basketball title when the blue and white men downed Monmouth College in the championship game of the annual I. A. C. tournament on the J. M. U. floor in March.

TITLE AT TRAPS

The other state title was won by Chan M. Powers who captured the amateur trapshooting honors from a great field when he brought down 148 birds out of a possible 200 in the Illinois State Sportsman's Association event held on the grounds of the Decatur Business Men's Gun Club in June.

Mr. Powers has been regarded for years as one of the world's best shots having been selected to represent the United States in the last Olympic games.

J. F. Nientker also helped to put Decatur at the top of the sport world when he won the state title at Peoria while contesting in the inter-state tournament among some of the best players in Illinois.

He was entitled to represent the state in the national tournament at Chicago but was unable to make the trip.

TENNIS

Archie West and Walter Doherty kept the tennis honors in Decatur as far as the Central Illinois Tennis Association is concerned for they won the doubles title while Doherty won the singles honors. District winners from Peoria, Bloomington, Springfield and Decatur vied in the championship round.

DISTRICT HONORS

Coach Muir's Decatur high school basketball five won the district title.

To sacrifice him to get the best one, Hornsby's batting strength would make him a more valuable player to the Giants than Groh and he is younger and likely to last longer. Groh probably would refuse to go to St. Louis but he will not have to consider it so long as Branch Rickey's backbones remains rigid.

for as many championships it is almost certain to be another great year for "King Sport" from a local standpoint.

Sunnyside Golf Club One of Big Projects

Means Much to the Development of Sport for Decatur In Years to Come.

During the closing months of 1921 there has been launched into active development what promises to be one of the finest golf courses in this part of the country.

The Sunnyside Golf club early in the fall purchased 157 acres of land lying south of West Main street and extending to the banks of the Sangamon river. This land was taken over by the club only after careful consideration of all available sites around Decatur and after being passed upon by eminent golf architects.

LAY OUT COURSE

The American Park Builders' were commissioned to plan and develop the grounds and have recently completed the general layout as shown in the accompanying cut. Tom Bendelow, golf architect for the American Park Builders, spent a week on the ground staking and re-staking the tee boxes and dog-legs until he was convinced as well as the committee in charge that no further improvement to the play course was physically possible. The course was physically possible. The course was physically possible. The course was physically possible.

622 YARDS

The course of 622 yards will be 622 yards in length and will be developed with undulating greens, thorough is trapped. Many of the tees are located upon commanding points from which wonderful drives may be secured. Natural hazards are formed by numerous ravines and waterways. Perhaps the most sporty of the holes are the third, fourth, fifth and sixteenth, three of these appearing in the first nine holes of play. Number fourteen skirts an artificial lake where a pull shot will mean a catastrophe. The first nine holes are laid out to skirt the property, with the second nine filling in the interior of the tract.

COTTAGE ALLOTMENTS

The site selected for the club house is up an eminence overlooking the river and valley, which in turn can be seen for miles around. The club house is to be approached by a curved drive leading from Main street.

Thirty-two cottage lots have been arranged on the south and west edges of the property. A deep ravine running along the west side is to be converted into an artificial lake for bathing purposes. A number of choice cottage lots will overlook this lake.

START PROJECT

Work of construction has already begun in clearing the fairways of trees and stumps and immediately upon the opening of spring work will be begun in the grading of greens, leveling, grading and seeding fairways, installing water for irrigation and other operations necessary. Sunnyside is being built primarily for the play of golf and every effort is being made to make of it a championship course.

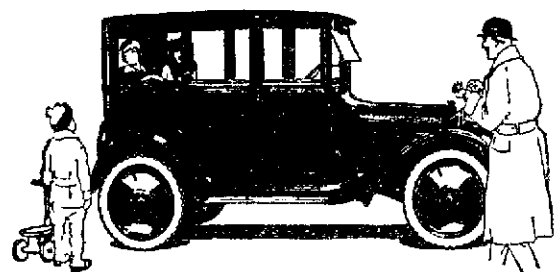

OTHER SPORTS

On the other hand plans contemplate the full realization of other projects necessary for full enjoyment of members. Swimming tennis treatment and other operations necessary. Sunnyside is being built primarily for the play of golf and every effort is being made to make of it a championship course.

The officers and directors of the Sunnyside Golf club are well known to the business men and boosters of the city. They are D. V. Huston, president; Herbert D. Warner, vice president; Will Hammer, secretary; treasurer; M. C. Nelson, R. Essick, C. A. Morrow, M. C. Nelson, Preston Hicks, Wilbur Humphrey and J. M. Allen.

GIANTS AFTER ROGER HORNSBY

Want Him As Attraction to Offset Babe Ruth.

By George Chadwick.

Special Correspondent of The Review (Copyright, 1921.)

New York, Dec. 31.—Desperate for an outstanding star to offset Babe Ruth, the world's champion Giants are still after Roger Hornsby and they stand ready to hand over $250,000, several other players and a big bunch of coin to get him from St. Louis.

This is that big mysterious deal that has been whispered about in baseball since the recent meetings. Officials of the New York club profess to

BIG WEEK FOR CHICAGO OPERA

Galli-Curci Is to Appear Three Times.

Chicago, Dec. 31.—With the momentum of the biggest week's attendance in the eleven years of the Chicago Opera Co. behind her—and that a holiday week—Mary Garden, general director, has set about the task of completing Chicago's most successful opera season in a blaze of glory which will light the way to the completion of the $500,000 annual guarantee fund that is to be resumed immediately after the holidays. Nine revivals will be given in the next three weeks—the closing period of the Chicago season. The company then goes on tour for thirteen weeks.

Galli-Curci starts the New Year with a special performance of "Rigoletto" on Sunday afternoon, Jan. 1, singing with Tito Schipa, most popular of the Italian lyric tenors.

WEEK'S PROGRAM.

Monday evening, Jan. 2, "The Jewels of the Madonna" will be repeated. "Roméo and Juliet" the tragic love story of the ages is billed for Tuesday night, Jan. 3, with Galli-Curci singing "Juliet" for the first time this year with the Chicago company. Muratore will be heard again as "Roméo" a role in which many are now declaring he excels all others in his long repertoire. Polacco conducts.

Wednesday, Jan. 4, "Le Jongleur de Notre Dame" will be heard with Miss Garden in the principal role. The ballet "A Dance Poem" will follow.

REPEAT SALON.

"Salome" will be repeated at a special performance Friday night, Jan. 6, with Miss Garden, Muratore and Dufrene in the roles in which they appeared for more than 100 times at the National Opera, Paris. This is a non-subscription performance and the entire house is on sale to the public.

Saturday matinee, Jan. 7, Galli-Curci will again give an initial performance, singing "Madame Butterfly" for her first time this season, with Edward Johnson, and Baklanoff as "Pinkerton" and "Sharpless" respectively. Polacco conducts.

"Tannhauser" is announced for Saturday night, Jan. 7 with Raisa Van Gordon, Schubert, Wolf and Schwarz. Ferrari conducts.

To fill the opera cup to overflowing Miss Garden will revive "Pelléas et Mélisande" Sunday afternoon Jan. 8, at a special performance, singing one of her outstanding successes.

BY RUTH ABELING.

New York, Dec. 31.—As a boy they gave me a little drum, and I beat it—R-r-rum! R-r-rum! R-r-rum!

In the high ceilinged, softly lighted reception room of his home on West 77th street, Leopold Auer, married, 40 years old, a tall, thin, dark man of the musical world, beat the imaginary drum sticks on an invisible drum.

"They saw I had a sense of rhythm," said Auer, "so my father took me to a teacher."

That was the beginning of the career of Leopold Auer, 40 years solo violinist of the Russian court, who has to his credit the training of a notable list of artists: Ruth Ray, Thelma Given, Kathleen Parlow, Toscha Seidel, Mischa Elman, Efrem Zimbalist, Jascha Heifetz and others.

MAKING ARTISTS.

The making of an artist? The elderly violinist—he can't be more than five feet tall, is gray-haired and wears his 75 years with a subtle charm—merely thrusts out his hands, palms up, and left his shoulders slightly.

"Only the public knows," says Auer. "No specialist can tell whether any particular person will be an artist. Specialists analyze the music. They say the musician is perfect there is no flaw. The public hears and— with an outward gasp— 'That one is no artist! Why? You don't know. I don't know. The public itself doesn't know. No one knows because the qualities, physical, mental, spiritual and technical are combined in such a way that'—"

Auer has been in America only three and one-half years. He fled from home when the Bolsheviks gained control of Russia.

MUSIC BRIEFS

Many cities have inaugurated Music Weeks and the movement is progressing rapidly in all parts of the country, but it has remained for Mayor William P. White, of Lawrence, Mass., to be the first to volunteer to make up any deficit which might result from a local observance of this character. A request from the Music Week Committee that the City Council appropriate $500 toward the expenses of the event, scheduled to begin January 15, had aroused some discussion among the aldermen as to whether they were justified in spending public money for this purpose, when the Mayor stepped into the breach and settled the question with his personal offer.

Traffic was blocked on Fourth Street, Louisville, Ky., recently as the result of the initial showing of a new model motor car. The machine had a small phonograph concealed under the hood and the merits of the new model were extolled. The car was seemingly speaking of its own accord and mystified the large crowd which was attracted to the machine.

The voice beneath the hood called attention to the new design of the body, headlights, disc steel wheels, cord tires, and other improvements of this model. Following the sales talk, which was made possible by a special recording of a phonograph disc, the secret of the talking automobile was revealed and latest dance records were played for the entertainment of the crowd.

SMALL GRANDS

Nowhere has IVERS & POND achievement been more notable than in perfecting the small grand. Early among American manufacturers they foresaw the present-day popularity of this most desirable type. Dismissing temptations to produce quantity at the expense of quality, their product, while numerically inadequate to meet an insatiable demand, upholds the highest quality traditions of the company. In design, material, variety, and value, comparison will reveal the leading position of our grands.

IVERS & POND PIANOS are not used in over 500 leading Educational Institutions and 65,000 discriminating homes. Whether your need calls for upright, grand or player piano, there is an IVERS & POND to fit it. SOCIETY

HAD GAY WEEK IN SOCIAL CIRCLES

Young People Are Returning to School.

Society is settling down after a strenuous week of parties, dances, etc., and the young people will return to their schools this week for a couple more months study before the spring vacation. The Country Club was the center of amusement, several dances being held there and the family dinner and dance Friday evening for all the "obers" taking place there. One hundred and seventy-one adults and thirty children were served. It is planned to have more family dinners of this nature from now on.

The children were served first and danced afterwards until 9 o'clock. Before this, however, members of the Decatur Musical college, under the direction of Miss June Fisher, furnished a program. Miss Nadine Ruck danced the dance of the top, Miss Dorothy Winters danced the dance of the romper doll, Miss Marjorie Landon sang "The Ginger Bread Man" and "George 'Porgie' Puddin' and Pie."

Besides the dancing, bridge was played, and F. M. Lindsay, president of the club, gave a prize, a set of candle sticks and candles, for the woman's prize and a bridge set for the man's prize.

Among the young people who are leaving this week are as follows: Floyd Hunt leaves Sunday for Yale as does Ebert Mueller, Phillip Cruikshank and William Parke. Miss Frances Cruikshank is leaving Sunday for Washington, A. E. Staley, Jr., will leave Tuesday for University of Pennsylvania, Misses Mary and Ruth Staley will go to Orono Tuesday, Stuart Wood is returning Sunday evening to the Chicago Medical college, Miss Annetta Wood of the U. of I. Tuesday, Miss Virginia Baldwin will leave Monday morning for Vassar and will spend Tuesday in New York City, returning to school Wednesday; Miss Beatrice Altiss returned Saturday to Vassar. Her parents accompanied her as far as Chicago. They will return home Tuesday; Everett Brown leaves for the University of Illinois Tuesday, Lyman Cushing will leave Tuesday for the U. of I., Virginia Hunt will leave Tuesday for Vassar and Billy Hunt will also leave Tuesday for his school, Miss Jane Irving will leave Tuesday for her school.

Two hundred and fifty persons attended the watch party dance at the Decatur club Saturday night. Frappe was served in the first part of the evening and a supper afterwards. Voyles' orchestra furnished the music. The event was formal.

Washington Ends Gay Week With Welcome to New Year

One of Most Brilliant Years Socially Comes to Close in Merry Whirl.

By Betty Baxter.

Special Correspondent of The Review (Copyright, 1921).

Washington, Dec. 31.—A Happy New Year to you, my dear. And many of them.

A New Year never received quite so hearty a welcome by Washington society as it did tonight. The world and his wife celebrated it's birth with dinners, suppers and dances and with all three together. The clubs and the hotels were all scenes of brilliant functions and were crowded to capacity, not to mention the many homes that were the setting for entertainments. All ages, too, celebrated the evening.

WEEK FOR DEBUTANTES.

The last day of the year was a busy one, too, with parties of all sorts, including a debutante presentation; Miss Nancy Hoyt, daughter of Mrs. Henry Hoyt, widow of a former cabinet officer, was presented by her mother at a tea. Another bud, Miss Gertrude Grosvenor, daughter of Gilbert Grosvenor, president of the National Geographic Society, and Mrs. Grosvenor, and grand-daughter of Professor Alexander Graham Bell, was the guest of honor at a dance which Mr. and Mrs. Grosvenor gave in her honor.

The debutante set fairly danced their feet off this week; I never saw anything like it. For that matter, all of society, all ages, from the grandmothers down to the sub-debs and even their younger brothers and sisters, danced every night of the week, too, and frequently took in three and four dances in one evening.

DANCE ON SUNDAY.

They even danced on Sunday. Last Sunday there were several dances, and a tea dance is scheduled for tomorrow—tea dance and egg nog party. The invitations read, The host will be Prince de Bern et de Chalais, "Conseiller de l'Ambassade de France aux Etats-Unis." Prince de Bern also entertained at a small Christmas dance last Sunday.

The Argentine ambassador and Mme. le Breton were likewise hosts at a tea dance last Sunday afternoon. But they give those small informal tea dances practically every Sunday during the season, their pretty niece, Dainty Faye Bainter in the Chinese-American comedy, "East is West," will appear in Decatur Thursday evening of this week at the Lincoln Square theater. Mr. Lawhead, manager of the theater, has received one of the silk souvenir programs issued when the company played the 1,000th performance in New York to show that the same cast will be in Decatur as appeared there.

In the following week, on Jan. 10, Mitzel in "Lady Billy," a musical play fitted to this diminutive but acrobatic actress, will be the attraction.

An event of considerable theatrical importance will be the coming of the big spectacle "Asphodel" on Feb. 1 and 2. This will probably be the largest company which will appear in Decatur during this year of high railroad expenses and it will make but very few stops in this section of the country.

BISHOP NICHOLSON COMES FOR WEEK

At Grace Church Just Before Easter.

BISHOP THOMAS NICHOLSON.

Bishop Thomas Nicholson, D. D., with supervision over the Methodist conferences in the Chicago area, will be in Decatur for the entire week preceding Easter and will preach each evening, with the exception of Saturday, in Grace Methodist church. He also will preach at the morning church service on Easter Sunday. Arrangements are being made for noon-day meetings at various places over the city in order that the public may hear the bishop.

Decatur residents remember the similar services held last year just before Easter, at which time Bishop William A. Quayle was here and gave a sermon lecture each evening in Grace church. Bishop Nicholson is a forceful speaker and the public is urged to hear him.

BISHOP CHICAGO AREA.

Bishop Nicholson was elected bishop in 1916 and assigned to the Chicago area. Preceding his election he was secretary of the board of education of the Methodist church and had done remarkable service in that position. Just before that he was president of the North Dakota Wesleyan university.

At present, Bishop Nicholson is at the head of some of the leading movements in the Christian world, having recently been elected president of the Anti-Saloon League of America. He also is president of the board of benevolences of the Methodist church, this board having direction of all benevolences of the entire church. He is chairman of the committee on conservation and advance, which has to do with the century movement in the church.

TO BECOME BRIDE OF DECATUR MAN

MISS ETHEL MAE SILVERMAN.

The wedding of Miss Silverman of Decatur and Frederick G. Broekow of Decatur will take place at 6 o'clock Sunday evening in the Gold room of the Jefferson hotel in Peoria. Rabbi Sol Landsman of Springfield will officiate. The couple will make their home in Decatur.

Church Notes

The Missionary society of the Antioch Baptist church will meet at the home of Mrs. Eliza Washington, 600 Greenwood avenue, at 2:30 Monday afternoon.

At the evening service in Grace Methodist church Sunday, a pageant, entitled "The Light for the New Year," will be given. This is an original pageant and is being presented for the first time. It gives a message for the New Year in an attractive way.

Young People's Rally.

A young people's rally will be held in the First Church of the Nazarene each evening next week, with the exception of Saturday, beginning at 7:30. These will be in the nature of evangelistic services and special music will be given each evening. The following men will preach:

Monday—Rev. Mr. Stevenson, Mansfield.

Tuesday—Rev. Ed Gallop, Springfield.

Wednesday—Rev. H. B. Garvin, pastor of the Decatur West Side Church of the Nazarene.

Thursday and Friday—Rev. Mr. Kerst, nephew of ex-Governor Hanley of Indiana.

Rev. Mr. Gallop is an excellent speaker and he will sing at the Tuesday evening meeting. The public is invited to these services each evening.

Charged With Chicken Theft.

Henry Kramer, 2529 East Marietta street, was arrested Friday for stealing chickens.

—To You, Greetings

WE often hear these little bits of metal which printers string out into living words and sentences referred to as "cold type."

And the reference is fitting, insofar as type is concerned merely as type. Yet, how much of the warmth of personalities and the sincerity of souls is often conveyed to us in the messages this cold type imparts to paper.

We might express to you, by word of mouth, our warmest greetings on the threshold of this New Year. Yet, they would be no warmer and no more sincere than the wishes we convey to you through the medium of the printed word.

And so we say in type, made warm by deepest sincerity—

A Happy and Prosperous New Year to You.

ed, depend altogether on instinct. Civilization has so blunted man's instinct as regards the selecting of food that it is often faulty, yet distinctions as to man's food instincts are far keener if he obeys the rule of eating slowly.

In choosing foods it is difficult to distinguish absolutely between what are "good" and "bad" foods because there is no line of division. About all that it is possible to say is that some foods are better than others, remembering that it is usually more important to be satisfied, even if the foods are not "ideal," than to be unsatisfied with what in the abstract seems "ideal" foods.

Among the best foods for most people are fruits, potatoes, nuts, if well chewed, milk—both sweet and sour—and vegetables. Among the worst foods are putrefactive chesed, sweetbreads, liver, kidneys, "high" game or poultry.

A close study, of course, will show some faults as well as some virtues in almost any food and vice versa. The best way for the ordinary man and woman to do in choosing foods is to eat as much as possible of the better and as little as possible of the worse without attempting to draw a hard and fast line.

Salt, pepper, spices, in fact all hot condiments should be used in sparing quantities, as they serve to dull the sense of taste and the instinct for selecting good foods.

A great cause of ill health is found in the overuse of sugar, especially in concentrated forms, such as candy. People of sedentary habits—that is, those who live a life of practical inactivity, should be especially cautious about consuming too much of sweet foods. Sugar has a high food value and is readily utilized for combustion in the body. If eaten between meals it is likely to increase the calories or heat units above the amount necessary and lead to overnourishment.

In foods the axiom "What is one man's meat is another's poison" is often peculiarly applicable. As for instance, some people find that bananas do not agree with them. The reason usually is that they do not eat ripe bananas. The ignorant public, as a rule, buys bananas that are an even yellow. The best bananas are mottled with black.

Investigators have called attention to the importance of variety in diet, since a monotonous diet causes to awaken the appetite and leads to lowered nutrition.

MAY ASK VOTE ON BUS LINE ROUTES

Attorneys Drawing Up New Ordinance.

OUT AFTER SIGNERS

To Be Presented to Council for Action.

Decatur voters may be called upon to settle the bus line question. The four companies operating the five bus lines in the city do not feel satisfied with the recent routing ordered by the city council, not believing the routes to be good business propositions. Attorneys for the lines have drawn up a proposed ordinance regulating the routes and other matters of the lines and will place these on petitions to be circulated for signatures this week.

TO SECURE SIGNERS.

Following the usual course, after securing the proper number of signatures, this ordinance is then presented to the city council. The council has two choices, either to pass the ordinance on the petition, or submit the ordinance to a vote of the people, provided the petition is held valid.

It is said that Jona Borden, has joined in with the other bus owners this time in taking this step, and also that he plans to abandon the one line proposed by him into the northwest part of town and to have only the one in the southwest part of the city.

NO STREET FOR ONE.

"The bus owners are not taking this action for the purpose of wrangling with the council," said Attorney L. C. Wheat, one of their representatives. "They simply feel that the plan for their routes as outlined by the council are not good business propositions. For instance, the route proposed by the council for the Jasper bus line calls for two blocks on extreme North Woodford street where the street does not exist. These two blocks would take the bus through a farmer's field. But even if it were open there, it wouldn't be fair to ask the bus to travel back and forth through four blocks of mud where there were no houses and no passengers."

WANT A BUSINESS CENTER.

"The owners feel that in order to get business, they should also have a loop through the business district and a place where all meet so that people will not have to walk a block or two or three from one bus line to another. They also want to be able to at least loop a block in the business district in order to turn around to start back out on the route."

As the present plan of the council now stands, the bus will drive up to the terminus in the business district and then have to turn around right in a busy street to start on its return trip. This is worse for traffic than to allow the bus to proceed around a loop."

RELATIONS STRAINED

her adhesion to a revision which is now turned against her. This is a striking example of the danger of abandoning the terrain of law for the sands of promises.

MUST BE CORRECTED.

This same mistake was made at the Lloyd-George-Brian conference. One hopes it may be corrected at Cannes. In fact French opinion demands that it be corrected. For if we wish our due we must not permit our government to lighten the demands on Germany at the expense of our ally Belgium. Treaty mutilations easily become an endless chain.

SEEM COMPLICATED.

But I imagine all of the problems which confront us on this side of the water seem very complicated to the American people. As a matter of fact, they are for us even. But let me try to make the immediate problem clear by showing the essential steps in it. It is a mess, I admit.

In January, 1921, at Paris, the allies renounced all integral reparations from Germany excepting a sum which represented much less than the actual damage done by Germany in the war.

In May, at London, the allies abandoned the provision for the payment of twenty billion gold marks then due and sacrificing twelve billions overdue.

This December, at London, the previous steps taken brought the projected attack on Belgium's priority rights in the next German payment.

ROAD IS STRAIGHT.

The road is straight, you see. But let me give another example.

In July, 1920, at Spa, the then French premier, M. Millerand, contrary to the treaty, agreed that the German boats delivered to England should not be valued at their war price but at the much lower 1920 rate. This under-valuation was one of England's most important triumphs and resulted in August, 1920, in a convention changing the division of the first billion cash payment from Germany, a convention which gave France absolutely nothing.

In other words, England having the boats for almost nothing, thanks to the feebleness of the French government of 1920, flatly declared her turn and France found herself, as you say, "down and out."

CAPITULATION CHAIN.

It is always the same thing. The first capitulation inevitably brings others. The only way to have prevented all this would have been for the allies to live up to their signatures.

But the instability of Lloyd-George on the one hand, and the pusillanimity of the allies on the other, has been responsible for anarchy in Europe.

Everybody in France believes that the Cannes conference will aggravate this anarchy. Alas, bitter experience justifies the apprehension.

WANT HARDING TO CALL CONFERENCE

Poincare was pressing for his flesh in the French press the French delegates were breaking the atmosphere of peace at Washington with fresh demands for armaments which will make international agreement impossible.

Yet there must be some means found of bringing the old world together. I think it may be said that Great Britain has shown at both Washington and Geneva that she is ready to do her part.

BOSTON GRAIN EXPORT DECREASES

Boston, Dec. 31.—The total amount of grain shipped from Boston during the year 1921 was less than the single item of wheat exported in 1920, statistics compiled tonight revealed.

All grains showed a marked decrease but the flour exports from this port showed the greatest decline, dropping from 275,659 barrels in 1920 to 47,500 barrels in 1921.

ELDER LOCKARD SAYS HE IS MISQUOTED

Declares He Knows Nothing of Kincaid Robbery.

Nokomis, Dec. 31.—J. W. Lockard, father of "Peg" Lockard, who was found murdered near Edwardsville recently, presumably by persons interested in silencing him as to the Kincaid mine payroll robbery last August, has made specific denial of the common reports that have been circulated as to his own knowledge of that crime.

The elder Lockard has been quoted as saying that the $25,000 loot was distributed in his presence in his son's shack, and that he would go on the witness stand and give convincing testimony against the robbers. Now the old man declares that he knows nothing of the robbery except what he has heard, and expresses fear that he will be murdered by the men against whom it was said he would testify.

THIS STATEMENT.

Mr. Lockard is an old man, who walks with crutches. He declares he has been misrepresented and misquoted in the newspapers, and that if the reports continue he "will go the same way 'Peg' did."

He dictated and signed the following statement when interviewed by a newspaper reporter here:

"As the newspapers of Illinois have been quoting me wrongly in connection with the murder of my son, Isaac T. Lockard, I wish to make the following statement:

With regard to the Kincaid bank robbery, I absolutely know nothing only what I have heard. As far as taking my son's place in the prosecution, I couldn't do it if the authorities would put up $100,000 bounties to me for giving the desired information as he told it, as I know nothing about the robbery, as my son told it. All alleged interviews with me in regard to the death of my son or in regard to the robbery are false, as they are the first and only statement I have made in regard to being able to take Isaac T. Lockard's place in the trial of the bank robbers."

J. W. LOCKARD.

County officials do not believe that he elder Lockard knows anything about the robbery.

YAP CABLES PACT ACCEPTED

Odds and Ends Being Gathered Up.

[By the Associated Press]

Washington, Dec. 31.—The United States, Japan and the Netherlands fall heir to Germany's former Pacific cables under a tentative six-power treaty brought forth today in the arms negotiations.

While expert sub-committees worked on leftover details of the naval discussions, the delegates of the United States, Japan, Great Britain, France, Italy and the Netherlands came to a general accord over the cable problem.

Under the proposal yet to be formally accepted, the United States would secure title to the Yap-Guam cable, Japan would secure the Yap-Shanghai line, the Netherlands would become possessed of the section connecting Yap and Manado.

AGREEMENT STANDS.

The settlement would expand but not invalidate the agreement previously reached between the United States and Japan alone for a grant of American cable and wireless rights on Yap Island. The two together would finally end the controversy over Yap and its cables which began at Versailles.

The sub-committee on aircraft completed a report said to recommend against any present attempt at limitation of air armament, and to warn against any restrictions that might curtail commercial aerial development.

ROOT RESOLUTION DRAFTED.

Drafting of the Root resolution on submarine warfare regulation was completed by another sub-committee. Only minor verbal changes were made in the original proposal to reaffirm existing principles of international law in respect to search and seizure.

In the Far Eastern question results were not so promising. China represented her rights to bring the dead-end Shantung problem before the full conference and to again request conference discussion of the 21 demands. Japan will oppose both proposals and there are indications that she will not be alone.

FRANCE MAY CHANGE.

Meanwhile, cable advice regarding the council at Cannes regarding discussion of a possible change of attitude on the part of France, which would permit a settlement in the not far future on the submarine question and auxiliary craft.

Along with these speculations has developed new interest in the proposal of President Harding for future world conferences that may be the beginning of an "Association of Nations." That proposal is one of the most persistent elements of the negotiations here and may be brought to the point of final action before the conference quits.

BRUNDAGE REPLIES TO SMALL AVOWAL

Claims Intent to Influence Prospective Jurors.

Chicago, Dec. 31.—Governor Len Small's statement yesterday that he had been vindicated on embezzlement charges against him by the action of Judge Claire C. Edwards at Waukegan Thursday, was today called an attempt to influence jurors and possibly a case of contempt of court in a reply by Attorney-General Brundage. His statement follows:

TO INFLUENCE JURORS.

"Gov. Small's statement, issued after the court proceedings Thursday, seems to me to be a contempt of the court in which the Governor's case may be tried next month. It is a publication manifestly intended to influence prospective jurors and affect the result of the trial. The great question of how it is to be dealt with, however, is obviously one for the court.

"Having in mind what was done on motions to quash in the guise of presentation of law points, this last act by parties to the litigation emphasized the necessity for remembering that this is a law suit pending in court and should be dealt with as such.

QUERER VINDICATION.

"The quashing of an indictment because the foreman of a grand jury failed to sign the bill on the right line is a queer conception of a vindication. The facts that caused the grand jury to vote the indictment remain unanswered.

Mr. and Mrs. Rohrer will probably reside here, it was announced.

GOVERNOR TO HOLD ANNUAL RECEPTION

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 31.—Governor Len Small and Mrs. Small will receive visitors at a New Year's reception at the Executive Mansion here between 3 and 5 o'clock Monday afternoon. The general public is invited. Three other state officials, and their wives, and Illinois national guard officers will be in the receiving line.

DRAW SCORE FOR DRY NEW YORK

Reception of 1922 As Noisy As Ever.

New York, Dec. 31.—New Yorkers sat up tonight at the bedside of the expiring year and then hailed the infant 1922 with as much noisy gusto as they might with proper deference to the ever-watching prohibition agents.

According to the prospectus of the night's celebration issued by the enforcement men, it was to have been a "home-dry" Broadway for the first time in the history of the big city, but observers in the White Light room, the "roaring" forties, called the result a draw—there was liquor abroad, but it was kept under cover.

ARTHUR BUCHANAN, who has been a member of the realty firm of Logan and Buchanan, has opened up an office for himself, at 143 North Water street.

VISITING HERE.

V. B. Jhalakshi of India is in Decatur for a few days visiting in the home of Fred Knorr, 410 North Pine street.

NO MUSIC.

There was no music for the Eagles dance Saturday night as the orchestra which was to come from Springfield was held by an automobile accident. About 100 couples were turned away.

THE WATCH PARTY.

Miss Charlotte West, 249 North street, entertained the "Til 'E" society at her home Saturday night at a New Year's watch party. There were ten couples present and the evening was spent in games and music. During the evening a two course luncheon was served.

SICK ON BIRTHDAY

HENRY JOHN WHITE.

Henry John White, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. White, 1253 East Main street, was two years old Dec. 18, 1921. There was to be a little celebration but Henry John became ill that day with diphtheria. Now he is recovering nicely.

BRUNDAGE REPLIES TO SMALL AVOWAL

Claims Intent to Influence Prospective Jurors.

Chicago, Dec. 31.—Governor Len Small's statement yesterday that he had been vindicated on embezzlement charges against him by the action of Judge Claire C. Edwards at Waukegan Thursday, was today called an attempt to influence jurors and possibly a case of contempt of court in a reply by Attorney-General Brundage. His statement follows:

TO INFLUENCE JURORS.

"Gov. Small's statement, issued after the court proceedings Thursday, seems to me to be a contempt of the court in which the Governor's case may be tried next month. It is a publication manifestly intended to influence prospective jurors and affect the result of the trial. The great question of how it is to be dealt with, however, is obviously one for the court.

"Having in mind what was done on motions to quash in the guise of presentation of law points, this last act by parties to the litigation emphasized the necessity for remembering that this is a law suit pending in court and should be dealt with as such.

QUERER VINDICATION.

"The quashing of an indictment because the foreman of a grand jury failed to sign the bill on the right line is a queer conception of a vindication. The facts that caused the grand jury to vote the indictment remain unanswered.

DRAW SCORE FOR DRY NEW YORK

Reception of 1922 As Noisy As Ever.

New York, Dec. 31.—New Yorkers sat up tonight at the bedside of the expiring year and then hailed the infant 1922 with as much noisy gusto as they might with proper deference to the ever-watching prohibition agents.

According to the prospectus of the night's celebration issued by the enforcement men, it was to have been a "home-dry" Broadway for the first time in the history of the big city, but observers in the White Light room, the "roaring" forties, called the result a draw—there was liquor abroad, but it was kept under cover.

Hall, in Chambersburg, Pa.

Miss Opal Leslie and Mrs. C. R. Smith returned Saturday from St. Louis where they have been the guests of Mrs. C. L. Collins for several days.

Rev. Harry L. Meyer has returned from Indianapolis, where he visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Meyer and joined his wife and small son. They will return in a couple of weeks.

Commissioner and Mrs. Alex Van Praag are spending New Year's day with their daughter, Mrs. A. S. Ambrose, and family, in Urbana.

William McGinley of Chicago, formerly state senator from Decatur, was here Saturday evening for a few hours on his way to St. Louis.

LINCOLN MOTORS TO BE SOLD AT AUCTION

(By Associated Press)

Decatur, Dec. 31.—The Lincoln Motor

MOTOR BUS COMPANY BECOMES BANKRUPT

Freeport, Ill., Dec. 31.—Involuntary bankruptcy proceedings have been instituted in the federal court here against the Fay Motor Bus company of Rockford by creditors, with claims amounting to about $3,900, who ask the appointment of a receiver.

The petitioners allege the company has liabilities totaling about $30,000, with assets of about $18,000.

Solving the Office Help Problem

The bank, railroad, wholesale and other business offices of the city have become pretty generally standardized on the Brown School-trained office worker.

This policy insures the maximum efficiency of the office. It means competent clerical help, young people with ambition, and agreeable personalities.

There is something about the training at Brown's that is out of the ordinary, and which stamps the young person who has had it as a proper person for advancement and responsibility.

We offer you our service which will place you in this preferred class. How would you like to begin a course January 2, 1922?

Which course shall it be—Stenography, or Bookkeeping and Business Administration?

Decatur Freight Shows Increase For Last Year

Wheat and Starch Products the Cause; Passenger Travel Not As Large.

The total railroad passenger business out of Decatur during the year 1921 was not really so heavy as the previous year but it must surprise most people to know that freight business for Decatur station, inbound and outbound, made big increases for the year 1921.

Farmer travel constitutes a big business, both in local and tourist travel these days and with it at 30 and 35 cents a bushel, farmers are not traveling. Better than ever have made it more possible to use the auto the year round too. Traveling salesmen are laid off, there were more people out of work, and all of this goes to account for the fall in passenger business.

I. C. HAS INCREASE.

In this respect, the Illinois Central was not affected so much as the Wabash. The former road figures an increase for the year of about 5 per cent in its passenger receipts but the Wabash estimates receipts off from 10 to 12 per cent or about $100,000 less than in 1920. This is in spite of the fact that the high passenger rate has been in effect all of this year, while in 1920, the high rate rate did not go into effect until in August and the intrastate rate, not until in December.

RAILROADS' PLANS HERE UNSETTLED

All Would Like to Spend but Cannot.

Don't talk to railroads about their construction work-program for next year. Each and every one of them are busy right now seeing just how little they can spend. Conditions are right for them to talk about spending. It is one time when it is almost impossible to even guess what the roads will spend in Decatur in 1922.

These roads want to do a lot of things. If business becomes good, they will carry out more of the things on their program but some of the officials say they can see no immediate prospect for increased business and until they do, all work will be kept down. They may be the roads will not carry out more than a $100,000 program here in the year.

WABASH PROSPECTS.

"The Wabash has many things it would like to do here," said Superintendent J. E. Stumpf of the Decatur division "principally the building of more yard room. It is very probable that some more tracks will be put down, just a few as sort of a beginning on the new yards site out east of the Staley plant, the amount of track to depend upon the amount of business.

The new reclamation plant at the shipyard is a great probability in view of the fact that the plant that was recently destroyed by fire provided a paying investment for the company. We would like to buy some more engines and there is just a little talk of more passenger and freight equipment.

PENN HAS GOOD YEAR.

The year 1920 was by far the highest ever enjoyed by the Pennsylvania. In its Decatur business and yet for 1921 has forged ahead about 10 per cent over last year. This percentage is as large as that reported by the other roads because it is arrived at on a somewhat different basis. The receipts do not include charges collected at this point but the other railroads that handled the freight before it reached the Pennsylvania.

For this road, October showed the largest amount of business ever handled in the Decatur freight house and November was 30 per cent higher than November, 1920, while January was the low month this year. December showed approximately a 25 per cent gain. Freight officials on this road reported a noticeable falling off in L. C. L. shipments so that the carload lots have shown a good increase.

TO LECTURE ON GERMAN CHILDREN

Pictures to Show Condition of Country.

A stereoscopic lecture on conditions in Germany as she saw them during six months of 1920 will be given in the main building of the Y. M. C. A. Monday evening Jan. 2, by Mrs. Marie Gallison, a member of the faculty of Radcliffe College. Mrs. Gallison was in Germany under the auspices of the Quaker Child Feeding relief work which was supervised by Secretary Hoover. It is in the interest of this child feeding that she is coming to Decatur. There has been no organization here but a committee has arranged this meeting as an effort is being made to carry on the work for at least another year when it is felt that German children will be given sufficient food from German efforts.

C. J. APPLEMAN AWAITS BIG SHOT

Good Oil Well Means Money on Leases.

SEES A BIG FUTURE

Predicts 25 Riggings Here By March 1.

C. J. Appleman stands to net a handsome sum if the shot fired in the Lincoln oil well at Twin bridges Tuesday brings in a good well. It was Mr. Appleman who first undertook to secure the oil rights for a block of land adjacent to that on which the oil well is located. Mr. Appleman and the local men associated with him secured the oil rights on about 3,700 acres of land. He donated 1100 acres of oil rights to the company.

These rights could not be said to be worth a penny till oil was found in the Lincoln well. If that well comes in Tuesday these rights will be worth from $20 to $40 an acre. It will not be necessary for them to spend a dollar in developing oil wells after the field is proved. There is all kinds of money available for that purpose already.

"How good do you predict the Lincoln well will be?" Mr. Appleman was asked.

IS HIGH PROOF OIL.

"I wouldn't even guess," he answered. "The first place the oil is in a dry sand, a sand none of us know anything about. We know it is a high proof oil. Its specific gravity is 40 which means that it contains a large per cent of gas. There is no other oil such as that in Illinois. It is Pennsylvania oil.

"It would not surprise me if the Lincoln well proves to be a flowing well, that is a rusher which shoots up as high as the rig or higher. That depends upon the amount of oil in the deposit and the extent to which it is loosened up by the shot. That oil has been there a long time. It is in fact, dead. If there is a great deal of it and it is thoroughly agitated by the shot the gas will be released and it will be a flowing well.

MAY FLOW SEVERAL HOURS.

"The well, if a gusher, may continue to flow for twenty-four or forty-eight hours or longer. I know of one instance of a flowing well that started with a thousand barrels a day that was completely exhausted after twenty-four hours. There was no oil left. But that was not in Illinois.

"In my opinion this well has not reached the main deposit of oil. There are two pay sands beneath it, the Clinton sand and the Trenton. The big deposit of oil is usually in one of these. But this being a dry sand we can not be sure of that.

EXPECT 25 WELLS.

"It is practically certain there will be wells put down to Trenton rock in that locality. By next May we will doubtless see twenty-five oil rigs in that vicinity. By March railroad side tracks in that vicinity will be filled with our loads of rigs and casing as far as you can see."

WILL NOT SUE SHOT.

Whoever else may be impelled to shorten his lunch hour to witness the spectacle of shooting the first oil well in Macon county, Mr. Appleman will not hurry his noonday meal. He will take full time for it and then wait a while upon digestion, more turning an attentive ear in the direction of twin bridges. If he hears a sharp detonation he will then make his way deliberately to the oil well, endeavoring to get there late enough to avoid the rush. In other words he will not be there when the well is shot.

Mr. Appleman says that he does not like the stuff with which oil wells are shot, although he has handled it and helped fill the shells and done such other things as are necessary in shooting wells. It looks like lead oil but nobody has ever got probed the depths of its treachery.

Nitroglycerine that is used for shooting the Decatur well will come from Casey and it is stated by the oil men that it is made near that place. The process is simple but extremely hazardous. A factory is usually a small affair and the factory is found to be a cabin up some hollow and it has very few visitors. The ingredients must be cooked together and the range between the proper cooking temperature and the explosive point is only five degrees.

MERCHANTS HAD GOOD WEEK'S TRADE

Were Surprised With Good Volume Of Business Done.

Not all of the money in Decatur was spent before Christmas. Merchants were expecting a week of funeral quiet and very much to their surprise had an unusually good trade. It was not quite as good as the week after Christmas last year which was exceptionally good but it was almost. Several things contributed to this. There were marked down prices in several lines of merchandise, and cuts in prices that would arouse the most sluggish of shoppers.

There were sales in a number of stores and there were a goodly number of buyers who were buying staple goods at staple prices. A jeweler says that several good wedding are helping his after-holiday trade. The weather has helped the clothing merchants for men will buy clothing when the chill strikes through their garments whether it is before or after Christmas.

MOTHER AND OTHER MAN TO JAIL AS DAUGHTER WEEPS

It was not the fault of the little girl that she cried. There were others present in the court room who perhaps were inclined that way, too, but their tears were held back by a feeling of resentment that the little girl should be made to cry by such conditions. All she knew was that her mother had been sentenced to ninety days in the county jail. She hugged her rag doll tightly and struggled so bravely with her emotions that she made no sound and but for the tears it would not have been known that she was crying. Her father patted her on the head and assured her he would take care of her.

THE TRIANGLE.

It was one of those everlasting triangles, but different from most. The husband and father met a young man of twenty-three who had drifted to town from Chicago, broke hungry and with no place to go. He was a machinist, as was also the husband of the woman. He took the young man home with him. The house had but three rooms, but he shared with the stranger, found work for him, gave him a place to sleep and eat and tried to help him get on his feet.

"He saw us hugging and kissing each other," said the woman, "and he did not complain. He just went away and we supposed he didn't care."

HUSBAND LEAVES.

The husband did go away. He knew what was going on and knew

Big Decrease Shown in Fire Losses For 1921

Totals About $52,000 or $1.15 Per Capita—One-Fourth of Last Year's Figures.

Decatur's fire losses for 1921 were less than one-fourth of what they were in 1920 when they reached almost $215,000. This year's losses run about $52,000 or about $1.15 per capita. The number of fires has been considerably less and there was really no great big fires during the year to make a high total. January was the high month of the year with a total loss of more than $18,500 and just about half of this was due to the Hammann Bros. fire on East William street. The Shellabarger Mill and Elevator company furnished the next biggest fire in July with a loss of about $8500.

GOOD RECORD.

The year's record looks good. Of course, a great conflagration might burst out at the eleventh hour and ruin away it would change figures so as to make them appear much less favorable. However this is an unfortunate thing that might happen to any fire department and should not reflect on the work of the firemen.

But when fire losses are kept down, the firemen deserve the lion's share

Month	Losses	Per Capita
January	18,500	1.15
February	1,500	.08
March	2,000	.10
April	1,000	.05
May	2,500	.12
June	1,500	.08
July	8,500	.45
August	1,000	.05
September	1,500	.08
October	1,500	.08
November	1,500	.08
December	1,500	.08
Total	52,000	1.15

how powerless he would be to prevent it. But he got to thinking that it was not good for his little daughter to grow up in that kind of an atmosphere, so he had the two arrested. They pleaded guilty in the county court Saturday and each was fined $100 and costs and committed to jail till fines and costs are paid. The woman only smiled, "How long will it take to lay out the fine?" she asked.

NINETY DAYS.

"Ninety days," said Judge McCoy. "I don't care. I want to stay there as long as he does," she said.

"Don't ever think you will get together again," said Sheriff Penick. "We will let him out first and fire him out of town, and then a few days later you will be released and we will send you in a different direction."

And the husband and his little girl went out to build a new nest.

HEAR MUCH PRAISE FOR DECATUR

Civic Chorus Fame Has Spread Far.

M. L. and D. M. Swarthout returned Saturday morning from Detroit where they attended the National Music Teachers convention. It was one of the biggest and most successful conventions the association has ever held. There were leading musicians there from every state in the union.

At the first luncheon several talks were made on festivals. At this luncheon D. M. Swarthout told of the Decatur festivals. Much interest was shown in what Decatur is doing. The fact that a city the size of Decatur has a chorus of more than 300 voices has spread to big musical centers and the Swarthouts heard from many how the work here had spread.

Max L. Swarthout was made a member of the executive committee which governs the organization, nominates the officers. There were special organ recitals and a symphony orchestra concert.

BORN

To Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Dunne, 313 North Broadway street, Dec. 31, a daughter. To Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Stuckey, of Peabody, Ill., at the Decatur and Macon county hospital, Saturday, Dec. 31, a daughter.

Wanted for Forgery.

Lester Jettett, wanted in Decatur for passing a forged check for $55, was arrested in Taylorville Saturday and brought back by Deputy Sheriff Scott Guilford.

Jury Awards $14,000 for Maffit Land and Leases

Reports at 12:15 Sunday Morning—$12,182.50 Go To Three Heirs.

The Maffit heirs and the boat house lease owners on the 15.18 acres of land condemned by the Decatur Water Supply Co., will receive a total of $14,000 according to verdict of the jury in the case, which reported at 12:15 o'clock this Sunday morning. Those interested directly in the estate, R. T. Maffit, Mrs. Leslie Weimer and Mrs. Margaret M. Earl, will receive $12,182.50. The balance of the $14,000 goes to the boat house lease owners.

The damages awarded the boat house lease owners whose leases run to May 1 are as follows:

C. R. Murphy and James H. Durfee $ 50.00
Harold Ott and Robert J. Ott 50.00
Neta J. Maffit 37.50
John N. Sharer 150.00
Jesse C. Colbert and C. R. Widick 175.00
Logan Kice and Robert H. Cornish 300.00
Harry Woodruff 100.00
A. D. Black and A. C. Dem-broski 37.50
Robert H. Dressen and A. C. Wilcox 150.00
Lynn Kennedy 100.00
John Lynch and John E. Griffin 25.00
Dale Bowen, Byron Williams and Phil Willis 137.50
Harlan Jackson 112.50
Harold B. Denise 67.50
Earl E. Shoney 75.00

In addition to these Fred Wilson, who leases some of the land and farms it, was awarded $200 damages. The case was finished shortly before 5 o'clock.

HOUSE AND LOT TO SIX CHILDREN

Mr. and Mrs. James Lee Give Presents.

Santa Claus was unusually generous and unique in the presents which he took to the six children of Mr. and Mrs. James J. Lee, 1033 South Colfax street last Sunday. Each of the six received a house and lot for a home and all of them are located practically on the new lake front and close to the big impounding dam.

Mr. Lee is Decatur's veteran house-mover. He and Mrs. Lee have lived in Decatur for years, have been thrifty and conservative and have accumulated quite a number of moderate houses in that vicinity. The six children are C. M. Lee, James F. Lee, Miss Hattie Lee, Mrs. Daisy McCarty, Mrs. Mable S. Fry and Mrs. Myrtle Dial.

On Christmas day, Mrs. Lee assisted by Mrs. C. M. Lee, served a bounteous dinner to the following: C. M. Lee and family, Bert McCarty and family, Frank Fry and family, Richard Dial and family, also Misses Amanda McKinney and Nellie Deasman, James Carter and J. M. Criss of Alabama. In the evening an oyster supper was served. Each of the six children were surprised to find the deed under their plates at the dinner.

RUSSIA DYING UNDER BOLSHIEVSKI RULE

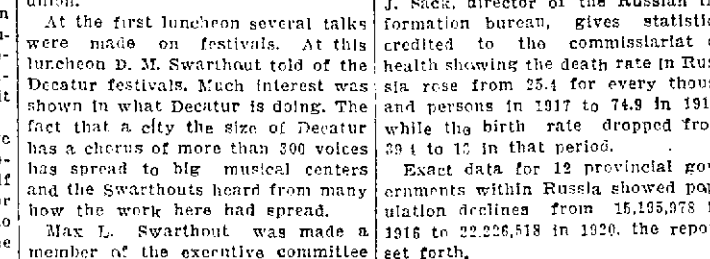

New York, Dec. 31.—Under bolshevism the population of Russia was gradually dying out even before the famine, says a report from Serge Maslov, former vice-president of the all-Russian Congress of Peasants delegates, who has just escaped to Paris. The report, made public here by J. Sack, director of the Russian Information bureau, gives statistics credited to the commissariat of health showing the death rate in Russia rose from 25.4 for every thousand persons in 1917 to 74.9 in 1919, while the birth rate dropped from 39.4 to 15 in that period.

Exact data for 12 provincial governments within Russia showed population declines from 15,195,978 in 1916 to 22,226,518 in 1920, the report set forth.

DETROIT U. TO HAVE STADIUM

Detroit, Dec. 31.—An athletic stadium with 50,000 seating capacity will be built by the University of Detroit, officials of the institutions announced tonight. Work is to start immediately and one section of 20,000 seats will be ready for use next October, according to present plans. The stadium will be located at the north-western terminal of the city, where the university is to erect new buildings to take care of its various branches.

Decatur is Splendidly Ready to Greet Young 1922

Public Improvement Program for 1922

Here is the story told in facts and figures of the wonderful work outlined by far visioned men of Decatur and Macon county—men who have devoted hours and days to making possible a program for 1922 that will pave the way to a community prosperity that all shall enjoy:

The impounding dam, the reservoir, the bridges and roads, work yet to be done.	$ 214,000.00
Paving, not including street car tracks, sewers, sidewalks, watermains, etc. . . .	414,000.00
Hard roads to the east, west and north	588,000.00
State aid for maintenance of hard roads	90,000.00
The sewage disposal plant . .	300,000.00

The Decatur Railway and Light company plans to spend, for gas and electric distribution and extensions, and on improvements to its power plant, an amount aggregating $131,000.00.

Should the franchise matter be agreeably settled several hundred thousand dollars more will be added to the total expenditure for street improvements.

Other Optimistic Reports

The year 1921 returned a total expenditure in building construction, not including the work on the big dam, of more than $2,000,000. The year 1922 will be ushered in with far brighter prospects if the optimistic utterances of numerous contractors, material men and private individuals, mean anything.

These men, canvassed recently for their opinions, have based them upon what they already have in sight, some contracts closed, some plans now being drawn and figured.

The Industrial Outlook

In Decatur manufacturing institutions, while no great plans have been made for a rush of business, the general consensus of opinion is that with the keener competition now met with, only a determination to increase the efficiency of hand and head to reduce cost and increase production, can they win the battle for orders—and all have said they have their plans of action made, and are ready for the battle.

And Your Individual Outlook?

Let's put a punch in our work for 1922; become a working part, a dominant cog in each of our organizations; work WITH the executive, rather than for him; forget self, time and discomfort—and you won't be able to ESCAPE success if you try!

As a store every member of our organization shall strive to do his work more efficiently; as citizens of Decatur let us all get our shoulder behind the wheel of prosperity and start something; from our community let us make our enthusiasm felt in wider circles.

WE ARE LOOKING FORWARD to the New Year with a great deal of optimism, confident that it holds for our community an abundance of prosperity and happiness—an optimism produced by an investigation that reveals what is contained in the column at the left, on this page.

The investigation shows that great things are in store for Decatur, things that are not the result of accident, but have been made possible by the co-operative effort of all the various interests of our city, and which are but another evidence of the reality of that intangible thing—"The Decatur Spirit."

Yes, Decatur is splendidly ready to greet 1922, to turn to a new page in the book of life. She will again do what few cities of the country have done in the way of public improvement. For by the Fall of 1922, with an extensive hard road building effort this community will be pulled out of the mud—the Sanitary District Commission with a series of projects that will be second only to, and possibly equalling, in cost and extensiveness the impounding dam now being finished—enterprises furnishing employment for hundreds, and when finished improvements that will make for a bigger and better city.

Wise and elaborate plans have all but been completed that call for extensive municipal improvements. Pavements are included, resurfacing will be done on many streets, extensions of services—mounting into large expenditures and furnishing employment that is needed.

Private industry, citizens, contractors disclose the happy belief that 1922 will see many buildings under construction. A canvas of several contractors reveal the fact that many homes are now being estimated and planned.

And Linn & Scruggs, with 52 years of steady progress in Decatur and community; with 52 years of good merchandise, is happy to announce splendid preparations for the coming year—to tell our friends that we are paying but little more for merchandise now than we paid before the war. That this fact brings to you similar low prices when you buy at Linn's. And moreover present prices are not used in comparison with war prices—war prices are forgotten by us; all this to the end that you will pay less (for equal quality) at Linn's.

Therefore, friends, Linn & Scruggs accompany their New Year Greetings with a deep sense of gratitude—for the loyalty of friends during this the most trying year this generation of business men has ever seen, has meant a great deal to us.

And we also appreciate the fact that the loyalty of Decatur citizens and Macon county folks, has meant a great deal to every institution in Decatur, passing as we have been through a period of post-war adjustments which has meant a considerable sacrifice to many.

We desire for you a full realization of your best hopes. We desire for ourselves the continuation of your confidence and the wisdom to so conduct our business as to most satisfactorily serve you.

Continue your loyalty to all—give of your support as you can to the end that institutions may keep their organizations intact.

Cordially,

Linn and Scruggs---Since Eighteen Sixty-nine!

1921 Big Year for Decatur—1922 To Be Bigger. Water Supply Unlimited—Sewage Disposal Provided. Great City Plan Growth Being Realized.

Completion of Sewage Disposal Project City's Big Job for 1922

Building of Imhoff Tanks and Sprinkler Beds at a Cost of $500,000 to Bring Total for System
Up to $1,028,200.

With the million dollar dam practically completed, with the more than half a million dollars worth of work in the lake basin also well along toward the end and with the purchase of the 3,800 acres of land needed for the water impounding project completed, Decatur's next important project for 1922 is the completion of the sewage disposal project with the building of the sewage disposal plant at the end of the intercepting sewer near the mouth of Stevens creek west of Decatur.

The total cost of the sewer and disposal plant will be more than $1,028,000.

The disposal plant will cost right at $500,000 for the first units designed to care for the present sewage needs of Decatur.

TO USE IMHOFF TANKS.

The Imhoff tank system and the sprinkling filter beds will be used here. After a study running over several years following the personal interest for many more years of at least one of the members of sanitary district board and after having inspected the systems in use for handling municipal sewage in many cities, the Decatur board has reached the conclusion that the Imhoff tank system with the sprinkling filter beds as auxiliary is the most efficient system yet devised for the solution of this vexatious problem of the modern city.

$250,000 FOR TANKS.

For Decatur the construction of the Imhoff tanks will cost about $250,000 and the sprinkling filter beds, which are huge concrete tanks filled with broken stone over which the more liquid part of the sewage is sprinkled and filtered, the bacterial action taking place while the sewage is draining through the broken stone resulting in the destruction of practically all of the offensive or dangerous elements of the sewage, will cost at the rate of about $30,000 an acre. These are built in units of an acre and a half and it has been decided by the sanitary district board that three acres of filter beds will be sufficient at this time for Decatur's needs.

$400,000 THIS YEAR.

This will bring the total cost for the beds and the Imhoff tanks to $490,000, a sum which the sanitary district expects to spend this year on this final solution of Decatur's long standing problem whereby the Sangamon river will be saved from further pollution.

As shown in the cut the entire disposal plant will be protected by an embankment against unusual floods and overflows. There will also be a by-pass sewer to the river to carry the sewage directly to the river should it be necessary at any time.

GRAVITY FLOW.

By building the west part of the great sewer as the board did on an embankment the flow of the sewage into the Imhoff tanks is by gravity, thereby saving the perpetual cost of pumping. In these tanks the heavier solids settle to the bottom and the liquid sewage is run off into the sprinkling filter beds where the sewage is shot up into the air through the sprinkler heads to come into contact with the oxygen of the atmosphere.

It then falls back to the filter beds on the broken stone of which bacterial action has already been started by other sewage which has passed through it and these bacteria literally consume all of the offensive and deleterious substances in the sewage, the clear effluent being taken away by sub-drains to the river.

REMOVE SLUDGE.
The Imhoff tanks and the filter beds are cleaned as necessary, the sludge having a considerable fertilizing value. So that farmers and gardeners who may have use for the fertilizer can get to the sewage disposal plant a good road will be constructed from West Main street to the sewage disposal plant. This road will cost $4,600.

THE COST.

In the great task of completing the intercepting sewer system the following sums have been expended for work already completed. Contract No. 2, from South Main street to the Wabash railroad, including 2,081 feet of tunnels under the bluffs south of the city, $235,000.

Contract No. 2, sewer from Wabash railroad west to the disposal plant, not including the grade, $140,000.

Grading, $43,000.
Culverts, $4,600.

By pass sewer, $21,000.
A total which will with the disposal plant amount to $1,028,200 by the end of this year.

P. T. Hicks, engineer for the sanitary district, and his assistant Paul Oetzel, have been preparing plans for the prosecution of the work just as soon as conditions will permit.

WATER IMPOUNDING TO COST $2,000,000

Definite costs which can now be fairly accurately established show that Decatur's water impounding project will finally total up almost exactly $2,000,000.

Up to Jan. 1 the construction of the dam and the raising of the county bridge had cost $703,000. It will take another $100,000 at least to pay the contractors their fee of $70,000 and to finish the odds and ends about the work.

$600,000 FOR LAND.

The Decatur Water Supply Co. has purchased 3,800 acres of land for the lake at a cost of about $600,000.

The Water Supply company has also let contracts for work in the lake basin for the raising of bridges and bridge approaches, for the new Cowford bridge, for the building of new and the re-laying of old roads, and for the clearing of the land, which are being rapidly completed at a total cost of $524,000.

TOTAL FIGURES.

Here are the figures to date:
For land—$600,000
Basin projects—$524,000
Dam and county bridge—$703,000
To complete last named—$100,000
Total on water impounding—$1,927,000.

chamber will pass through a large meter which will measure the amount of sewage treated and provide a continuous record of the rate of flow.

FOR 60,000 POPULATION.

From the meter the sewage passes through conduits to the settling tanks of the Imhoff or two story type. The first installation for 60,000 people will comprise six units of these tanks. Each unit will have a liquid depth of 23 feet and will be 36 feet long by 27.5 feet wide inside. Provisions will be made for doubling this installation.

The present area with provision for conduits and roadways will cover an area of more than one-half acre. It will take the sewage, during the next few years, about two hours to flow through these tanks. During this period of quiescent flow, practically all the settling suspended solids are removed.

SETTLE BY GRAVITY.

They settle by gravity out of the sewage in the settling compartment and fall into the sludge compartment below. This sludge compartment will be built large enough to hold about six months' accumulation of sludge. During this period the sludge is to be directed so that when it is removed it is similar to earthy loam.

The sludge from the lower part of the settling tanks will be drawn off by gravity and spread in thin layers eight to ten inches thick on sludge beds properly provided with distributors and underdrains. These sludge beds will be built at first to provide two-thirds square feet per capita or about one acre of sludge bed. There will be ample room for extension within the dikes.

PURIFIED BY BACTERIA.

The settled sewage from the tanks will pass to so-called dosing tanks which regulate the dose of sewage upon the filters. The purification or oxidation in the filters is accomplished by minute organisms growing on the surface of the stones. It is important that they be supplied with sewage at a reasonable and proper rate, therefore the design of the dosing tanks is of great importance. It is expected that the sewage will be applied to the filters by sprinkling in fine drops for two or three minutes out of every eight to ten minutes with a rest interval between.

SPRINKLING FILTERS.

The sprinkling filters will be built of broken stone one inch to two inches in size and about six feet deep resting on underdrains built continuous over a concrete floor. This is necessary to insure filter drainage. The average depth of the filters will be six feet and the sewage will be sprinkled over from specially designed nozzles and will trickle down over the surfaces of the stones. Filters of this type have been in operation for over ten years without any clogging of the stones.

The treated effluent from the filters will pass direct to the river or through final settling tanks. These final settling tanks are necessary at times to catch earthy humous-like solids which are unloaded from time to time by the filters. This humous sludge will be collected in hopper bottomed settling tanks and pumped occasionally to sludge beds or spoil banks.

CAN INCREASE SIZE.

For a population of 60,000 it is estimated that six acres of sprinkling filters will be required. These filters as well as other parts of the plant will all be designed in units so that portions can be built at the start and extensions made from time to time should they be needed. All the necessary by-pass sewers and regulator valves are included.

ACCESSORIES TO PLANT.

In addition to the main features of the plant described above, it is necessary to design many accessories. As for instance:

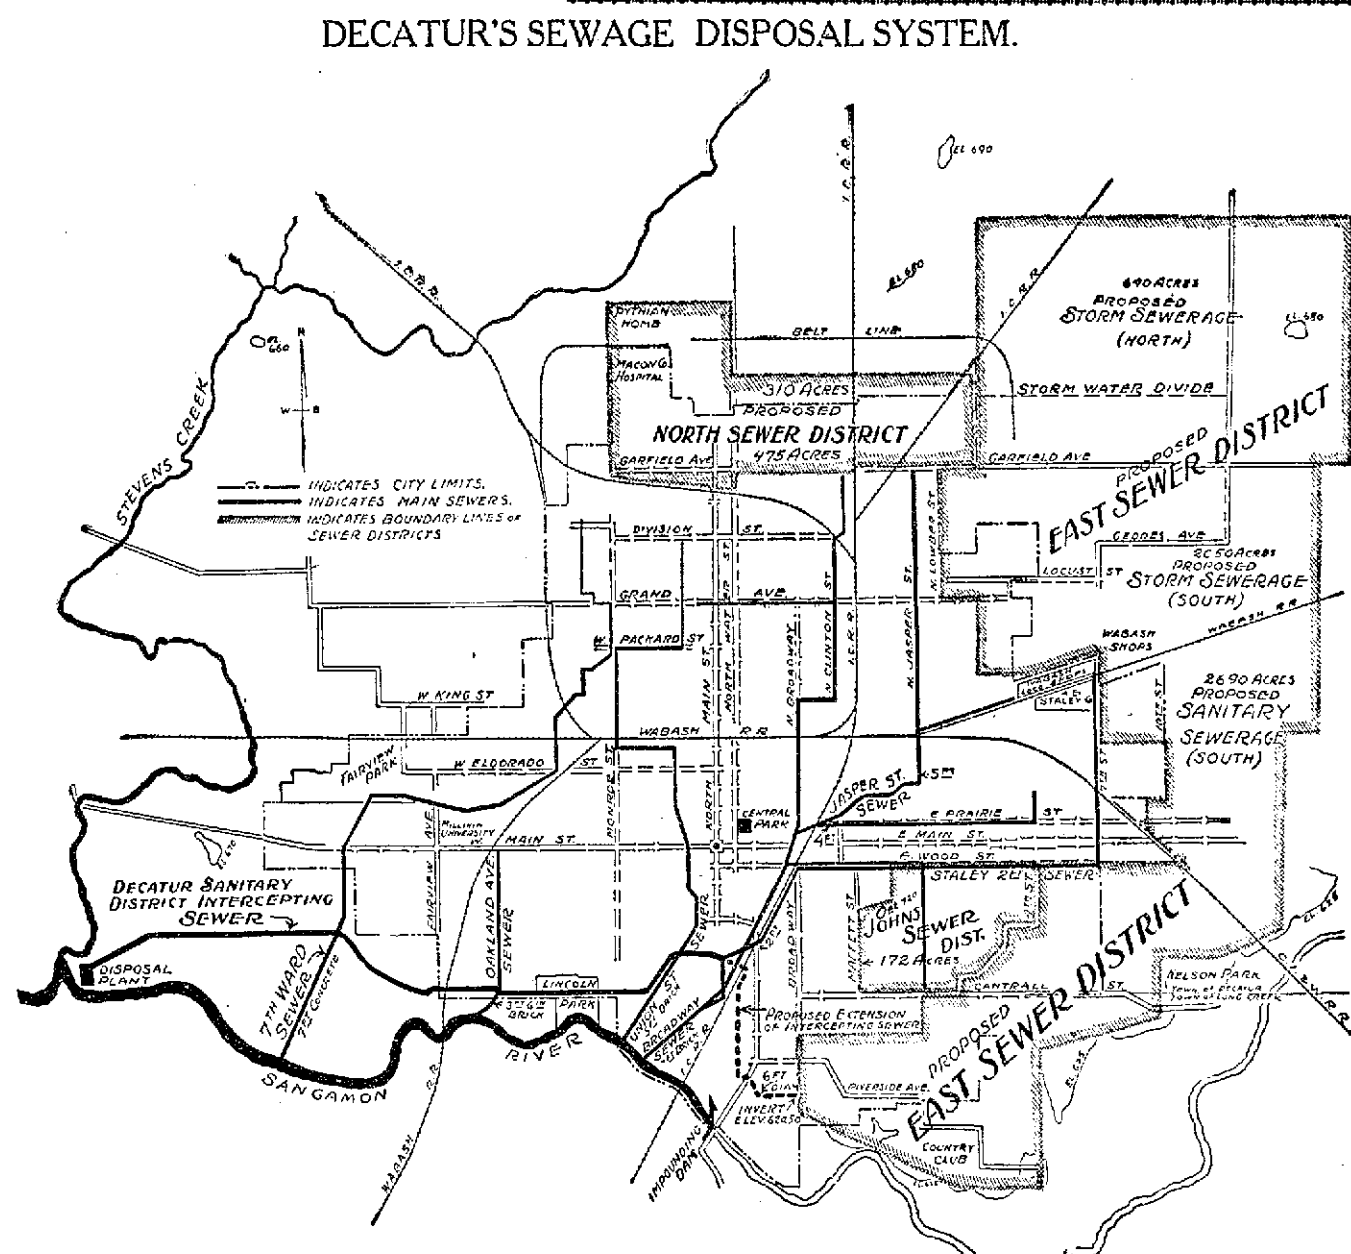

Outfall structures.
A water works system.
An office and laboratory building.
A sludge loading station.
Roadways and walks and the like.

SLUDGE FOR FERTILIZER.

It is estimated that during the next few years about 3,500 tons of 60 per cent moisture sludge will be produced each year. It has been found at other places, especially at Baltimore, Rochester and Lake Forest that this sludge makes good fertilizer and is taken away and paid for by farmers in the vicinity. All over the country there appears to be a growing demand for this type of fertilizer. There will be a loading station for delivering this sludge into farm wagons.

SIMILAR PLANTS SUCCESSFUL.

The operation of such a plant is especially important and provision is being made in the design to facilitate operating features to the maximum. Many plants of this type have been successfully built in England and the continent and also in this country during the last ten to fifteen years. Special tests of its operation have been made at Decatur during the last few years.

The above map of Decatur's sewerage disposal system shows the new intercepting sewer, the disposal plant, and the Staley sewer. One important feature of the map is the proposed East Sewer district, which is the North sewer district. In the East sewer district it is well to note where the storm water divide is, also the acreage to be cared for in sewage and storm water. The line near the river in the East Sewer district shows the 625 foot level where the proposed extension of the intercepting sewer must go to protect the lake and care for the sewage as the city grows east. The city boundary lines in the above map are correct including all the additions as voted in last year.

EAST SEWER DISTRICT WORK NEXT DEVELOPMENT

Will Care for 2000 Acres and Protect Lake—To Cost
About $100,000.

Extension of the intercepting sewer around the southeast corner of the city at the 625 level so as to give absolute protection to the lake is one of the ambitions of the W. H. Collins, city engineer, in connection with the sanitary district plans. This sewer, which will be for sanitary purposes only, can be made large enough and long enough to give the water supply lake ample protection and provide sewerage for more than 2,000 acres of land in that section of the city at a total estimated cost not to exceed $100,000 for the main sewer.

Whether this will be undertaken in 1922 by the sanitary district board is as yet undecided. The board feels that it has a big job yet on hand to complete the main intercepting sewer and the disposal plant as well as to police the lake and the members are very doubtful about tackling this large southeast sewer this year.

That it will be absolutely necessary very quickly is admitted by all and it is possible that the prospective rapid growth of the city in that direction will induce the trustees to take up this $100,000 development in 1922.

SECTION NEEDS IT.
That section of the city is awaiting this improvement. That the final completion of the lake will start a strong trend in the direction of the lake for building is also certain. That this will be rather unsatisfactory unless this sewerage is provided is also certain.

The actual cost per lot for this improvement, based on an estimate of $100,000 for more than 2,000 acres involved would be very small if the sewer should be built by special assessment.

"The people in that part of Decatur and owners of land there are expecting this sewer to be built soon. I would like very much to have it undertaken this year" said the city engineer, "but, of course, if the board is unable to handle it at this time we will be compelled to wait."

NORTHWEST SOON.
That sometime within the not

DECATUR'S BIG DAM NEARING COMPLETION

Has Cost City Up to Date $703,977—City to Get Salvage Material.

Up to this date Decatur's water impounding dam, with the work which has been done on the county bridge and the approaches to it, included in the total, has cost $703,977.22, the estimate for the work done during December being placed at $30,000 by J. Albert Holmes, the chief engineer for Pearce, Greeley & Hansen, consulting engineers for the city. Up to Dec. 1, the actual expenditures for the big job had reached $673,977.32.

NO ESTIMATE OF TOTAL.
What the full completion of the job will cost Mr. Holmes has not estimated. It will now be largely closing up jobs already started, placing the two blocks in the spillway which have been left out so that the up river could be completed, setting of the

SALVAGE TO CITY.
Unlike most jobs of this character the salvage from the work belongs to the city and not to the contractor and the unused lumber, buildings, sheet steel piling, round piling and other supplies will be sold and the sum realized will go to the city. That the city will suffer by the lower prices is shown by the price of sheet steel piling. The new piling when it was bought by the city cost $37 a ton. The present price for new piling is $33 a ton. However the amount to be realized should be a fairly good sum. It will be applied to the work.

Included in the amount already expended is about $25,000 for extra work and $20,000 more for freight rates than the same freight would have been had rates remained unchanged from the time of the letting of the contract.

WATCH WORK CLOSELY.
The city's interest in the big work has been closely watched by a corps of competent men representing Pearce, Greeley & Hansen under the personal supervision of J. Albert Holmes, chief engineer. That the work is approaching the end is shown by the gradual retirement of the three engineers who have been directly on the work most of the time. Of these, C. R. Velzy returned to the Chicago office early in November, W. E. Stanley, who has had charge of the engineers, left before the holidays, and W. J. Snively will leave at the end of January.

DECATUR'S SEWAGE DISPOSAL SYSTEM; HOW IT WILL WORK

S. A. Greeley, Engineer Tells of First Plant Unit for 60,000 Population.

By Samuel A. Greeley.

Member of Pearce, Greeley & Hansen, consulting engineers on the sewage disposal problem.

Under instructions from the Board of Trustees of the Sanitary District of Decatur, Ill., plans and specifications are being prepared by Pearce, Greeley & Hansen of Chicago. After much careful thought and investigation a plant comprising sedimentation and filtration has been adopted as best suited to Decatur conditions.

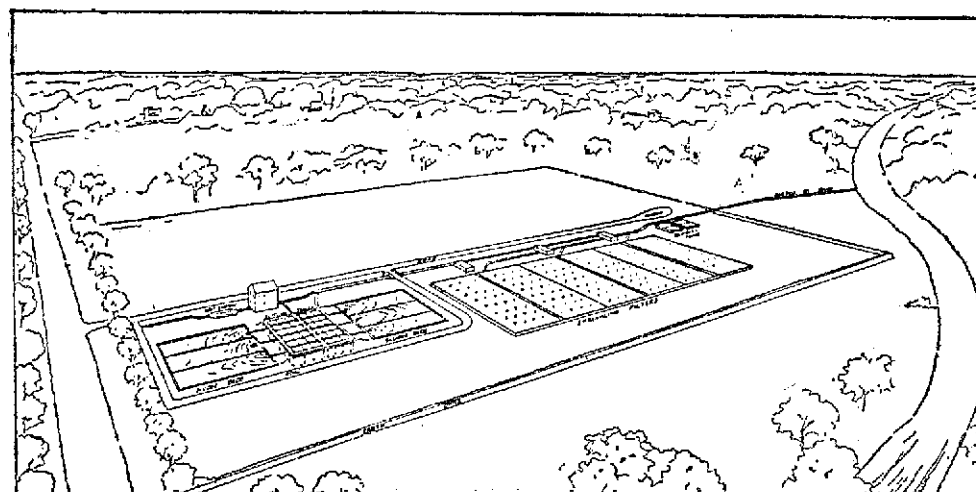

This new plant will be located at the end of the big intercepting sewer now almost finished and on the 58 acre site purchased for this purpose by the Sanitary District a number of years ago.

The plan proper will be built within a flood dike enclosing an area of nearly 40 acres which will provide ample space for a treatment plant to serve a population of 120,000. This dike will be built of earth and will stand high enough to protect the plant from maximum high water in the Sangamon river.

HAS 20 FEET FALL.

The normal level of the flowing sewage as it enters the plant will be about 60.5 which is over 20 feet above the normal water level in the river. In passing through the treatment plant the sewage will fall through this vertical height of 20 feet passing through the various treatment processes on the way.

PERSPECTIVE OF DECATUR'S SEWAGE DISPOSAL PLANT

The above drawing gives a correct idea of the plan for Decatur's sewage disposal plant. There will be a road leading from West Main street to the plant. As shown there will be an earth dike about the waste to protect them from flood and high water.

As shown in the picture on the left is shown the sludge bed, next the settling or Imhoff tanks, then more sludge beds and on the right shown by dots the sprinkling filters. The building is an experimental and control station and the heavy line leading to the river the by-pass to the river of the treated sewage.

PROGRESSIVE SPIRIT ABROAD IN COUNTIES OF REVIEW TERRITORY

Five Million Dollars Estimated Cost of New Roads, Public Buildings and Homes In Construction
Program of 1921 and 1922.

The million dollars is a conservative estimate of the cost of new roads, public buildings and residences either constructed in 1921 or contemplated for the year 1922 in several central Illinois counties. A review territory outside of Macon county according to reports have been received.

Hard roads, public and parochial school buildings and expensive homes in Christian hard and state aid roads and community high schools in Platte community high school and grade school and brick roads in Adams and dollar Illinois Central yards plant and aid hard roads in Dewitt and similar improvements in other counties are the outstanding features of the building program of the two years in this territory.

Perhaps the most notable expenditure for roads in prospect is in Christian county where a twenty-seven miles of hard roads is contemplated. In 1921 county howitzer contracts have been let for twenty-one miles of state bond road and more is in prospect.

The reports which follow breathe the progressive spirit.

City of Pana

Pana, Dec 31—Nineteen hundred twenty-one has been a busy one in the building line in Pana and the sum total runs into large figures considering the size of the city. In actual figures the cost of buildings and public improvements for the city runs over $350,000.

The chief item of the list was the construction of seven greenhouses for the Amalgam company which when completed will run close to $100,000. In addition to these the list includes the Bogie ice plant $20,000, the W. W. Heath business block $4,600, the country club house, $7,500, O. H. Padlock, lumber Co. buildings, $5,000 and various improvements to properties in the city aggregating $10,000.

PROSPECTS FOR 1922

Pana prospects for public improvements for 1922 is very promising according to information obtained from those in a position to know. Optimism is the watchword and various campaigns are on to hasten prospects as much as possible.

In the list of contemplated improvements are the increased water supply, costing in the neighborhood of $90,000, for which bonds were voted recently a new West school building, estimated cost $100,000, the new Nurses' home adjoining the hospital, $50,000. For Fairbanks' new business block, $4,000.

POST TO BUILD

The Kerr-Muse Post also has announced that it will build a new home at an estimated cost of $25,000, and the Elks contemplate the erection of a new home at a cost of $75,000 if not more. Lumber companies report contracts for twenty new homes for residents of Pana at an average cost of $4,000.

will go forward as soon as weather conditions permit. This work will include a deep fill at Robinson Creek, six miles west of Shelbyville

Moultrie County

Sullivan, Dec 31—Building operations in Moultrie county during the year 1921 have shown some improvement over the last four years, but during the last few months there has been a slump due, it is said, to the decrease of the lumber supply available.

Contractors look forward to 1922 as the banner year in public improvements as present indications are that there will be a big increase in building.

Among the public buildings that have been erected during the year just closing are the Methodist Episcopal church at Livingston, costing $60,000 and Scott's new bank building at Bethany, valued at $15,000. The dancing pavilion at Freeland Grove park costing $3,000, also may be mentioned.

RESIDENCES

Among the more notable expenditures for residences are $13,000 for the new home of Edward Cox near Arthur $9,000 for the Isaac McClung property in this city $5,000 for the new residence of W. H. Rhodes also in Sullivan and $9,000 for the Wesley Clark home near Kirksville.

Dewitt County

Clinton, Dec 31—Dewitt counties are optimistic over the outlook for the year 1922 and point not only to the large amount of money expended during the last twelve months for improvements but to the fact that there will be a heavy outlay for the building of hard roads during the coming year.

Assurance of active progress is found in the fact that during the year a chamber of commerce backed by every business and professional man in the city, as well as by many other citizens, has been formed.

THE YARDS

Most important of the public improvements during the year 1921 is the construction of the new division yards of the Illinois Central, lying just north of the city for the building of which nearly 200 acres of land was purchased from the Snell estate.

The yards about to be finished and complete in every detail include 26 classification tracks each nearly a mile long three repair tracks water facilities etc. The capacity is about 2,500 cars exclusive of repair tracks and leads and the total cost of the improvement is about $1,000,000.

REPAIR WORKS

A proposition is now under consideration by officers of the railroad to build a modern car repair works at Clinton and preliminary survey has been made for an impounding reservoir to increase the water supply for the Central. If the dam is built, it will be about 100 feet in length and six to eight feet high.

OTHER IMPROVEMENTS

Foremost among the improvements under way is the new Carrington theater, nearing completion. The building was purchased for $17,000 and has undergone extensive remodeling. It has a seating capacity of 1,200.

IN WELDON

At Weldon, in the extreme east part of Dewitt county, citizens have subscribed for $10,000 worth of municipal bonds for an electric light and power plant to give eighteen hours daily service.

Two new automobile service stations have been constructed in Clinton.

ROADS

Several plans for the construction of hard roads are under discussion and the straightening of the Meridian Trail to eliminate two dangerous railroad crossings north of Clinton probably will be accomplished in 1922.

Douglas County

Tuscola, Dec 31—All the public building done in Douglas county this year is the new Tuscola community high school building which is now under construction. The actual building operations were started only a few weeks ago and the mild weather has permitted the work to progress rapidly so that the walls are now well up.

The building is of brick, with stone trimming. It is to have two stories besides a basement and will have its heating plant as an annex to the main building. The corner stone was laid by the Knights of Pythias Nov 29.

WILL COST $150,000

The building grounds and furnishings will represent an expenditure of between $150,000 and $165,000 when completed. The contract calls for completion in time for the beginning of the school year. In 1922 James P. Moorehead of Tuscola is in charge of the work.

NEW GRADE BUILDING

Architects are now making plans for a new grade school building for the south side of Tuscola to replace the building destroyed by fire a few weeks ago. Plans have not been definitely worked out, but it will be a modern fireproof building. There will be two stories besides the basement and work on it will begin in the spring. The gymnasium building and heating plant completed two years ago and which was located near the building which burned, will be connected with the new building when it is erected. The school board expects to limit the expenditure on the building to $70,000.

ROADS

The only permanent road building in Douglas county this year has been two miles of brick highway between Villa Grove and Camargo. One mile of this begins at Villa Grove and extends south, and the other mile begins at Camargo and extends north. These are intended to be links in a permanent hard road which will finally connect the two towns. No hard road building is under contract or contemplation for next year. The two miles of hard road built in the county this year cost a total of $33,745.

Permanent bridge and culvert work in the county during the year has consisted of small jobs and will total a cost of about $6,000.

Christian County

Taylorville, Dec 31—Expenditures totaling more than a million and a half dollars are required to cover the cost of public and private improvements in Taylorville and vicinity for the years 1921 and 1922. Much of this amount already has been expended on country and city homes and other improvements already finished or now under construction while nearly a million dollars will be spent on projected hard roads in Christian county and over two hundred thousand on public and parochial schools.

$310,000 FOR ROADS

The largest single item of expense in prospect is that of $310,000 for 27 miles of hard roads to be built through Christian county, at a cost of $30,000 a mile.

Other public or semi-public improvements include the following:

High school gymnasium under construction $20,000
Catholic school $50,000
East school to be started Jan 1, 1922 building $25,000
W. H. Ford bridge under construction $25,000
Shrivers Temple to be built in 1922 $5,000 site donated by Major Lawrence valued at $10,000
Park dining hall $4,000
Park Comfort stations $5,000

RESIDENCES

The country home of Colonel George D. Seaman leads the list of residences with a cost of $25,000. Other residences finished or in construction or planned for the new year include:

Fred Kinney country home $9,000
Tom Cross country home $8,000
Professor Rickals $7,000
William Nicolesius $6,000
J. B. Colgrove $5,000
G. W. Mumford $4,000
Harry Snyder home to be built in 1922 $10,000
Clarence Gallagher $5,000
Fred Aufrecht country home $10,000
Lern Halchert $4,500
Frank Kramer $6,000
Clarence Klaybauch $3,000
Tom Hauthner $3,000
John Kuntz $2,500
Richard Doyle $1,000
Walter Seibert $4,000
N. C. McFarlen $6,500
Henry Redfern five houses under construction on West Vine street $28,000
Henry Redfern one house under construction on Elm street $4,500 one under construction on Cottage street $4,300
Den Genauie $3,000
John Petersen $3,000
Mary Rodden $4,000
J. B. Colgrove two houses under construction on West Poplar street $8,000
J. B. Colgrove two houses under construction on Cherokee street $7,000
In a new 1 1/2 water supply of a million gallons daily will be developed for the Kincaid Land Association.

Development of the City Plan.

YEAR WE WENT TO SCHOOL.
It is the custom of the day to say something about the year that has passed and then turn a little imagination on the year just ahead.
Probably most people feel they are primarily concerned with what goes under the head of business conditions, using the term in its widest sense. It is true of the year ahead even more than of the year that has closed.
Concerning business, past and to come, there was a fine review in this paper yesterday. It is not worth while to try to add anything to what was there told by real experts. It is comforting to recall they see pleasant promise in the days ahead, and in this we trust they will be vindicated. It should be added that if there are men who know about these things, we heard from several of them in yesterday's review and forecast. If men of this caliber don't know, the rest of us need not bother about the matter.
But in the world is something more than business and stock and crop reports. One in his senses is not inclined to underestimate the great importance of what is called business, for really it affects all of us more closely and seriously than does anything else. If the business of the world is not going fairly well, very few of us are in the proper humor to make progress likely. When a man is buffeted on the rocks he is not much of a success as a thinking animal, and when the thought pan is out of commission a man is scrapped.
Something that can be said for 1921 is that the conditions were such as to induce some serious effort at thinking. One looks over the field and decides, that probably we and others of the race made something of a start in the getting of a liberal social education. In this line many more of us know a great deal more than we did a year ago.
For instance, there is the fundamental fact that if we of America are to prosper it will be necessary that people of other countries do likewise. It is true this was not said for the first time in 1921, but in the year many millions came to have some understanding of the thing and its importance. It used to be looked on as highbrow stuff, and perhaps many still take that slant, but at last we have a good many serious and sane people who feel there is much in it.
This notion of the mutuality of prosperity is not confined to international affairs. In the year 1921 we dropped a lot of heresies here at home. For instance, there is the old notion that great service corporations are merely an adjunct to a mint and that they can coin their own money and meet any demands that may be made. By now that notion is pretty thoroughly exploded in the minds of millions who up to a year ago were unable to see the light. Now we know that if we take a million from some service organization we must contribute the million, we know this is not to be escaped.
We have pretty thoroughly learned that unless Europe prospers we can not hope to get far. But there is much more along this line to learn, though it seems we are dipping into this. We are trying to get it in our minds that if billions are owed us we can have payment only in goods produced and made by the debtors. The old notion was that they could hand us the money, that they would proceed to do this at once if they were honest. But we are really beginning to note that great obligations are not paid in money, that in fact they can't be.

Perhaps after another year or two of the kind of schooling we had in 1921 this little chunk of liberal knowledge will be passed down the line and everybody will get some of it—and then some will try to make use of it. The thing may even break into the halls of congress. The light is breaking plentifully, and it appears that crass blindness is not as fashionable as it once was.
Much more might be said about the liberal education that is pushed at us and that is beginning to "take," but there isn't space. The big thing is that in this respect we are growing, and this was the best accomplishment of the year 1921.
MEANS PROMPT PAYMENT.
Just now we are hearing considerable about a "service at cost" plan for the management of utilities. It is the price we have always paid, though all the while there was much wrangling and bickering. We were not able to escape payment in the end, not even when somebody threw in a wrench and busted the machine. In this case we went without service for a time, and it was the stiffest payment of all.
It is proposed to systematize all this, and they call it service at cost. In this arrangement we will be expected to meet the costs from year to year as they come up. Under the old plan we paid more than cost one year, less another year, the managers of the enterprises skimming around to come out even or ahead in the long run. It is now proposed to say they shall be entitled to a fixed return, and more than this they are not to have.
We are to keep in mind that if we enter into this arrangement we must live up to it. It will not do to get the notion that it is something with which we can play fast and loose.
WHILE YOU ARE RESOLVING.
There was a time when silk shirts sold in this town at $18 for the finer grades. It wasn't a great while ago, and many people bought. But it isn't these that now interest us.
At that same time were a good many men in Decatur who wouldn't pay $18 for a silk shirt; they said they would wait for the shirts to drop to $6 and $8. These cautious men professed to like a silk shirt, to get comfort as well as tone out of one, but they didn't care to mortgage the future to get one.
Well, these shirts have dropped, and yet it is noted that the men who held off are not now buying. It may be that in their cautious days they lost the "feel" of silk, but it is too bad they are not now able to regain it.
It is suspected that, like most of us, they never did care for silk in shirts, but they couldn't resist the opportunity to practise some showy but easy self denial. If you are one of these men this is the day to resolve to treat yourself better, buy something you really do like.
ROOT ON THE LAWYERS.
It is noted that Mr. Root of the argument conference has a high opinion of lawyers. Of these he says: "They are the salt of the earth; they are the noblest work of God; they are superior in intellect and authority to all other people whatsoever."
But Mr. Root is getting to be an old man and there is something he would like to have determined before he dies. Therefore he asks that this thing be not turned over to lawyers for their inspection and deliberation, with emphasis on deliberation.
Take it altogether, it isn't so bad, in fact may be fairly close to the mark—a rather indefinite mark, but something to shoot at.
THOROUGH IN EVANSTON.
In Evanston in this state they have an arrangement by which a hungry man, hobo or otherwise, may get a meal ticket at a central point, but he must do some work for the ticket. It is set forth that this is sure to prove discouraging to the hobo gentry, who are inclined to view it as an impertinence.
You say the tramp will keep away from the central ticket shop and get his grub through panhandling the homes of Evanston. This has been provided against. A bunch of slips is left at each home; when the tramp calls he is handed one of these. The slip informs him just where he can get a ticket for a meal—after working for it.
But Evanston always was chilly as well as thorough.
THEIR OCCUPATION GONE.
Elihu Root is doing his best to get this country in better position on the submarine question. He is now urging a solemn declaration, to be written into international law, that subs shall not be used to attack merchant ships and destroy them. This will confine the submarine to attacks on warships.
Probably this would prove a big help and might go far toward settling the submarine question. If countries can't use them to attack merchant ships, not many will be built. They are meant for such attack, almost for that alone, so why build them if they can't be used for the purpose in mind?

The most disappointed man in the county is that East Cantrell street road man who was making $100 a day on a mudhole that wasn't there.
The C. I. & W. will handle 100 cars of meat a day, everyone going eastward, the west continues to feed the effete elite.
You can go to the station today and buy a ticket without paying war tax. It is mentioned so you won't overlook the bet.
All that needs be said concerning December weather is that it was the best we ever had around these parts.
We don't want to shock you, so break it to you gently that the banks, also, will close tomorrow.
California must have made a misstep and got its cloven foot forward when the Bordens landed.
This is the season when most of us save a dollar a meal on strawberries.
No matter if turkey drops to two bits a pound, not any more just now, please.
Have you reserved your seat for "Shoot the Well?"
Ten Years Ago Today In Decatur
JANUARY 1, 1921.
Miss Winnifred David, of Decatur and Lee C. Moorhead, of Delavan were married at the bride's home. Real California orange blossoms were used for decorations.
Fred Kipp served a banquet to fifty members of the Retail Grocers Association in his new wholesale grocery room, the old United Brethren church at Broadway and Cero Gordo.
The Multi-Millionaires club organized years before by eighteen young men, passed up the usual New Year banquet. The club had a rule that members that married must drop out and not enough members were left for a banquet.
Fourteen Mueller men, divided into two teams, captained by S. W. McKelag and Thomas Marshall, spent the day hunting near Oshterville. They killed eighty-nine rabbits.
TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY.
Dr. William Barnes was building a fireproof house in which to keep his $25,000 collection of butterflies.
BANK CLEARINGS SHOW BIG DROP
Total for Year Reaches $54,129,168.96.
Bank clearings in Decatur for the year ending Saturday amounted to $54,129,168.96. The clearings for the year 1920 reached a total of $59,324,218.97. The decrease for 1921 amounted to $5,195,050.01.
Clearings in Decatur for the last four years are as follows:
1918 $54,930,382.22
1919 63,737,499.20
1920 59,324,218.97
SHOWS DROP IN PRICES.
The clearings indicate rather clearly the business conditions which prevailed during the year which ended yesterday. They do not, however, indicate it quite so accurately as one might at first suppose.
The figure volume of business depends on prices. The actual volume of merchandise handled therefore is not indicated unless prices remain fairly steady.
Prices dropped in 1921. In some lines the dealers say that the average decline throughout an entire store amounts to thirty-five per cent. Some merchants are quite sure that they handled an actual increase in merchandise without making an increased showing in sales.
The reduction in the price of grain of course has also had a disastrous effect on clearings totals.
LITTLE MONEY MADE.
"Most of us will be willing, after we have taken our loss on the value of the merchandise on which declines in prices caught us before we could get into the clear, to be satisfied with coming through the year 1921 without losses," said one of Decatur's leading retailers Saturday. "Mighty few of us made much money. Some of us lost money but we feel sure that the far greater part of the inflated merchandise values has been squeezed out now. There will be still more in some lines, but as a general rule the merchandise deflation has been fairly well made."
"In another line, however, there still remains a re-adjustment which must come. Cost of operation, the overhead expense, must be cut down to get back to a normal basis. That comes more slowly but it is coming. We still have some of this road to recovery to travel but we are making progress."
MONTH'S CLEARINGS.
Bank clearings for the month ending Saturday were $4,729,527.14. The previous month they were $4,428,652.71. The same time last year they were $5,412,916.96.

THE GREAT AMERICAN HOME

-THE TREAT-

Many Senate Leaders to Seek Reelection
With 32 Senators and 485 Congressmen to Name, Republicans Expected to Lose Some Majority.
By Mark Sullivan.
Washington, D. C., Dec. 31.—The Republicans begin the political year with sixty out of ninety-six Senators, a majority of 24. Officially the figures are 59 Republicans, 36 Democrats, and 1 who is officially described as "Republican and Progressive."
The one who has this bifurcated designation is Hiram Johnson of California. Although the Republicans do not commonly count on Senator Johnson as 100 percent dependable party man, it is a fact that the old Progressive party to which in part he owed his election to the Senate five years ago, no longer has a formal existence. For practical purposes the present Senate is to be considered as 60 Republicans and 36 Democrats. In the Lower House admitting considerations of the one Socialist and the one vacancy, the Republicans have 361 members out of a total 435, giving them a majority of 167, or over two to one.
TO LOSE SOME MEMBERS.
That is the Republican position at the beginning of the year. That they will end the year in a weaker position, numerically, is as certain as anything in politics can be. The only question is the degree of the losses they may suffer.
During the course of the year one third of the entire membership of the Senate, 32 in number, will be elected, together with the entire membership of the House, numbering 435.
First, consider the possible changes in the Senate; the Senators whose terms end with the present Congress, and House successors will be chosen at the primaries or election, or both, during the coming months, are as follows:
TERMS END.
The Republicans:
Henry Cabot Lodge, Massachusetts.
Hiram W. Johnson, California.
Frank B. Kellogg, Minnesota.
Robert M. La Follette, Wisconsin.
Harry S. New, Indiana.
William M. Calder, New York.
Frederick Hale, Maine.
Porter J. McCumber, North Dakota.
William B. Crow, Pennsylvania.
T. Coleman DuPont, Delaware.
Joseph I. France, Maryland.
Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, New Jersey.
George T. McLean, Connecticut.
Carroll S. Page, Vermont.
Helen Poindexter, Washington.
Edward Sutherland, West Virginia.
Charles E. Townsend, Michigan.
The Democrats:
Gilbert M. Hitchcock, Nebraska.
James P. Reed, Missouri.
John Sharp Williams, Mississippi.
Henry F. Ashurst, Arizona.
Charles A. Culberson, Texas.
Peter G. Gerry, Rhode Island.
Andrew A. Jones, New Mexico.
John B. Kendrick, Wyoming.
William H. King, Utah.
Kenneth McKellar, Tennessee.
Henry L. Myers, Montana.
Key Pittman, Nevada.
Claude A. Swanson, Virginia.
Park Trammell, Florida.
EVENLY DIVIDED.
It will be observed that of these Senatorial seats to be filled during the coming year, seventeen are now Republican, and fifteen are now Democratic. In as much as the present Republican majority is twenty-four, it is clear that to win the Senate away from the Republicans, it would be necessary for the Democrats in the first place to hold all the seats they now have, and in the second place win thirteen seats now held by Republicans.
As to whether the Democrats are to make marked gains and to get the psychological benefits of such gains. They especially hope to win away a few of the seats held by conspicuous Republican leaders.

THE LOWER HOUSE.
As to the Lower house, it is a different story. The Democrats fully hope to make a great reduction in the present Republican strength of more than two to one. Some of them go so far as to hope to win a majority for themselves in the Lower House. This is more possible than in the case of the Senate. It just happens that the particular states, which hold Senatorial elections this year are so distributed in a political sense as not to give encouragement to the Democrats.
The Lower House elections will likely to accomplish this, it is now so early, of course, as to make it impossible to say anything having any greater value or interest than merely the broadest speculation.
IMPOSSIBLE FOR DEMOCRATS.
If one were to answer "yes," or "no" to the question whether the Democrats are likely to win the Senate it would not be possible at the present time to go farther than to say the thing is extremely improbable. Perhaps it would be more accurate to say it is practically impossible. In fact, for the purpose of winning control of the Senate, the Democrats are this year in a rather unusually weak position. To a less degree than is commonly the case can they count on the "Solid South."
Among the fifteen seats now held by the Democrats, only five are in those dependably Democratic Southern states where the party can always count with complete confidence on electing their candidates. These five are Virginia, Mississippi, Florida, Texas, and Tennessee.
TENNESSEE DOUBTFUL.
One of these states, Tennessee, went so strikingly Republican last year that it is a question whether it may not from now on be more accurately classified with the states which for purposes of political classification are called border states or doubtful states.
The other ten seats now held by Democrats are in states which for the most part cannot by any means be called safely Democratic. Rhode Island, Nebraska, Wyoming, Utah, Montana, Missouri, Nevada, Ohio, Arizona and New Mexico are states which, in one degree or another, are as likely to go Republican as Democratic.
CANNOT HOLD THEIR 15.
In fact as to a few of these states especially Wyoming, Utah and Rhode Island, it can probably be said that their present appearance on the Democratic side of the Senate list is due more to the extraordinary Wilson strength in 1918 than to normal political conditions. The net of it is that the Democrats cannot reasonably expect to retain all of their fifteen seats that come up in the election this year.
THE REPUBLICAN SEATS.
As to the seventeen seats now held by Republicans, which come up in the elections this year, at least six are in states in which Democratic success in the past has been so rare that they can almost be considered as the "Solid South." It is not normally to be expected that the Republicans should lose states like Vermont, Maine, Pennsylvania, Michigan, Minnesota, and Wisconsin.
It is barely possible for the Republicans to lose Senatorships in two of these states, Minnesota and Wisconsin, but it is unlikely. The other four are always counted upon as "Rock-Ribbed" Republican. As to the eleven other seats now held by Republicans, it would be, in one degree or another, possible for the Democrats to win. It is always a chance whether the Republicans or the Democrats carry such states for example as New York, New Jersey, Maryland, Delaware, Connecticut, and West Virginia.
G. O. P. TO CONTROL SENATE.
The net of it all is that it is almost a practical impossibility for the Democrats to take the control of the Senate away from the Republicans this year. Only an unparalleled landslide could accomplish it. The Democratic party managers know this and do not count on that particular kind of victory. What they do hope for with a confidence that is quite justified by the conditions, is take in the country as a whole. The conditions are curiously such that it would take less of a landslide to carry the Lower House in the country as a whole than to carry enough of the restricted number of states in which Senatorial elections will be held to give a Democratic senate majority.

DEMOCRATS WANT HOUSE.
The Democrats would be more glad to win the house without winning the senate, than to win both. This sounds like the Fox and Grapes fable, but from the standpoint of political strategy there is soundness in it. In fact, some of the Democrats limit their desires, as well as their expectations to merely making gains in the Senate and House, without going so far as to control either.
The theory is that looking forward to the presidential election the Democrats would prefer to have the responsibility for the management of the country on the Republicans rather than on themselves. They say that from their party standpoint, it would be disadvantageous to have the responsibility for legislation at a time, when the Republican president could veto their work. The end of all this is that the principal Democratic hope this year is to make gains so striking that they will be received as an expression of marked dissatisfaction with the Republican regime.
MANY SEEK RE-ELECTION.
In connection with some of these Senatorial elections striking interesting situations are just now in course of development. Of the entire thirty-two seats involved, it is now expected that all but one, or possibly two of the present incumbents will seek re-election. One senator to whom there has been attributed a disposition to retire voluntarily, is that veteran Democrat, John Sharp Williams of Mississippi. It is probable that only a voluntary refusal to run would eliminate him. He has long been in such favor in his state that he has been able to serve fourteen years in the Senate, and before that, fifteen years in the House. If Mr. Williams should retire, it is likely to mark the re-entry into politics of that extraordinary figure, who was retired by his state four years ago, and who is credited with the wish for a new lease of power, James K. Vardaman.
OPPOSITION TO NEW.
One of the most interesting situations of the year will develop in Indiana. The present incumbent, Harry H. New, will seek to return, and is sure to have formidable opposition. For some months there have been desultory calls for ex-senator Albert J. Beveridge to re-enter active political life. Just lately these calls have approached such a degree of organized crystallization as to make it likely that Beveridge will contest the primaries with New. New will have the backing of the Republican party organization. It is also expected that the reported public evidences of his close personal association with Harding will be relied on to help him, but that Beveridge is one of the outstanding political figures of time, goes without saying.
Whether Beveridge should win the primaries or whether New should win them, in either event the successful candidate will have another hurdle in the election afterward. Indiana is at almost all times a doubtful state, and in the present year will be more doubtful than usual. At the present moment many Democratic leaders, both in Indiana and out of it, are eager to name ex-Vice President Thomas R. Marshall, to make the Democratic race.
LODGE AGAIN CANDIDATE.
In Massachusetts, Senator Lodge will appear as a Senatorial candidate for the sixth time. To enumerate the factors that give importance and interest to his candidacy for the election, would be too obvious. He has had a longer continuous service than any living senator. He is more than merely the Republican leader in the Senate—he is, in fact, a sort of symbol of the Republican party. He more than any other one senator personified the opposition to Mr. Wilson and the league of nations, and now as a member of the American delegation to the arms conference he will personify the results of that conference. It is on him, both as a member of the conference and as the Republican leader of the senate that will fall the responsibility for leading the fight for senate ratification of the results of the conference. This role will give particular interest to his candidacy if it should turn out that our foreign relations are to be a major issue in the elections this year. So far there has been no public gossip of any opposition to Lodge with the Republican primaries. The Democrats, however, give voice to a zealous determination to give Senator Lodge as hard a fight as is

Illinois Central System Ready for the Tasks of 1922
The beginning of a new year is a time when we pause to review what has transpired in the year just ended, seeking to gain from our reflection something which will be of value in deciding our future course.
The eventful year through which we have just passed has been particularly marked by restrictive economic demands upon the railroads. We entered the year full of hope that the business depression which had set in would soon spend its force and that business would again go along normally, but that hope failed to materialize. As a result of the falling off in business, the railroads as a whole during the first nine months of the year earned a net return equivalent to approximately 2.9 per cent. upon their valuation—a return barely sufficient to pay interest on outstanding bonds, with no allowance for compensation to the owners. The improvement in net earnings during the latter part of the year has been slow, and in many instances it has been brought about only at the sacrifice of badly-needed maintenance expenditures. A demand for reduced railway rates, in the face of the failure of the railroads, as a whole, to earn a net return sufficient to their needs, also was restrictive in the uncertainty it created.
In spite of these influences, however, the railroads have given adequate service at all times. We should not be discouraged by the present situation, unfavorable as some of its aspects may be.
We should like to give you in this review a statement of how the Illinois Central System has accounted for itself during 1921, but at this time we have complete information covering only the ten months to November 1.
During the first ten months of the year, the Illinois Central System performed a freight service equivalent to carrying 10,286,296,822 tons of freight one mile, as compared with 13,200,197,416 net ton miles in the first ten months of 1920. During the first ten months of 1921, we performed a passenger service equivalent to carrying 642,365,624 passengers one mile, as compared with 859,526,161 passenger miles in the first ten months of 1920. This decrease in business is reflected in the gross earnings. For the first ten months of 1921 we had a gross income of $135,926,186, which was $6,615,074 less than the gross income of the corresponding period of 1920.
Through drastic reductions in our expenditures, we ended the first ten months of 1921 with a net income of $7,772,154. Approximately $6,375,600 was required to pay dividends on stock for the ten months' period, leaving a balance of $1,396,554 for improvements in our properties. However, during the ten months of this year covered in this report we spent a total of $16,284,809 for new equipment, over and above amounts spent in the repair and maintenance of equipment, and a total of $6,614,782 for permanent improvements to roadway, over and above expenditures for maintenance. This total new investment of $22,899,591 exceeded the amount we had left over after paying expenses and a return on investment by $21,503,047, which had to be borrowed.
We entered the year with 57,081 employees, but the drastic reductions in force made necessary by the great decline in business cut the number to 48,649 in February. Since that time there has been a steady gain in the number of employees. When it became known that a reduced scale of wages would become effective July 1 through the ruling of the Railroad Labor Board, we immediately laid plans for large increases in our forces, with the result that by October we had a total of 60,388 employees in all departments.
In spite of the depression, the Illinois Central has made a creditable showing. One reason for this has been that our employees have striven at all times to perform their service to the public in that efficient and courteous manner which marks our organization. To them belongs much of the credit for what we have accomplished.
We take the position that we are but the trustees of a great investment which has been made in this agency of transportation, and that we are responsible to the public for our stewardship. We call the public's attention to the events of the year, and give our pledge that we shall strive to our utmost to make of 1922 a year of still greater successes. To that end we seek your confidence and good will.
Constructive criticism and suggestions are invited.
C. H. MARKHAM,
President, Illinois Central System.

hire, the very much greater probability is that he will enter the fight and that he will make it characteristically vigorous and picturesque.

LAFOLLETTE UP AGAIN.

In Wisconsin Senator LaFollette will for the tenth time put to the test in his state, a political dominance which always has had to meet the most violent opposition, but which has always prevailed.

In Ohio, where Senator Pomerene comes up for re-election, the most interesting hint, so far, of nationally interesting developments, has been the suggestion that Nicholas Longworth may try to secure the Republican nomination.

REED IN MISSOURI.

One of the most picturesque situations will be provided by Reed in Missouri. In many quarters Reed is credited not only with the determination to run again for the senate, but also with ambitions for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1924. In as much as less than two years ago, at the last Democratic National Convention, Reed was subjected to an experience that was little short of being read out of the party as punishment for his lack of loyalty to Wilson and Wilson's policy, his role in the immediate future will throw some light on the volatile fortunes occasionally occurring in American politics.

PRIMARY DATES.

These coming primaries and elections are closer at hand than is commonly realized. The situations which many of them determine will be crystallized within a very few weeks. As early as March, the primaries will begin with South Dakota, Illinois comes in April. The important Indiana primaries will come in May. So also will the Pennsylvania primary which will determine the permanent successor to Knox, the present junior Pennsylvania senator, Crow, being merely an appointee to the unexpired term. The Oregon primaries will also come in May. In June, Iowa, Maine, Florida, Minnesota and North Dakota will select their senatorial and congressional candidates.

CONGRESS TO OPEN AGAIN TUESDAY

If we turn now from these details of primaries, and elections, to the course of national politics in the broad sense of developing issues we find a situation in which recessions from Republican sentiment seem rather more likely than additions to it.

NEWBERRY CASE.

When congress comes together next Tuesday, the first event of nation-wide interest will be the case of Senator Newberry. The Senate-roll which is to determine whether Newberry remains in the senate or is expelled from it, should come within a week.

The vote is certain to be close and the Democrats already plan if Newberry is permitted to keep seat they will make the event one of the political issues in the coming senatorial and congressional campaigns.

THEN THE TARIFF.

Soon after the Newberry case, we shall be in the midst of a tariff debate which will be more chaotic than anything that has ever before occurred. Senator Smoot has admitted for his party that tariff-making this year is going to be attended by unprecedented difficulties.

Some of us who observe the tariff-making closely think we notice a tendency to make a pretty thorough going surrender to the "farm bloc." It looks, in short as if the "farm bloc" will be permitted to have its way in the tariff-making as in most of the other things the present congress has done.

TO MAKE IT HIGH.

If the "farm bloc" is permitted to dominate the tariff-making, they will of course make it high. The farm bloc leaders say that if they are permitted to make the tariff high in farm products, they will not object to high protection also on the manufactured goods in which the Eastern Republicans are interested. The probabilities would seem therefore to point toward a traditionally high protective tariff.

What the commercial and political results of such a policy will be in the present state of the country and of the world affords one of the most interesting speculations within the scope of the coming year, and of the presidential situation that will be upon us within two years more.

CONDITIONS HAVE CHANGED.

There can be no possible doubt that the economic changes brought to America by the war have made the policy of a protective tariff different from what it was in the days of Aldrich, Payne and McKinley. But it is equally certain that neither the Republican nor the Democratic leaders are able to see as yet the political results of those changes.

Before the next presidential election comes, if not indeed before the end of the present year, the Democrats of the South are apt to find among their ranks some mysterious strangers in the persons of high-hatted business men from the East and North, whose interests in relation to foreign trade, have reversed by the economic changes which the war brought to us.

MAY LET BILL STAND.

A few weeks ago it would have been possible to predict with confidence that the Republicans would not go to the country in the elections of the present year with their record on taxation as it now stands. They say now that perhaps it is better to let the new bill stand as it is indefinitely. They admit that the public expectation of what the party would do has not been met. But they add that the principal thing that businessmen and other heavy tax payers complained of was uncertainty, and uncertainty they say has at least been eliminated and would only be brought back by talk of a new revision in the immediate future.

THE BONUS BILL.

This is subject, however to an important exception. There can be little doubt that the Republicans this year will pass some form of soldiers bonus bill, and it is certain that no effective bonus measure can be passed without entailing some degree of additional taxation. However, the Republican leaders may feel about the merits of "adjusted compensation" as the soldiers call it, or about the desirability of adopting such a measure now as compared with some future time.

The factor of political expediency will be likely to lead the Republicans to try to satisfy the soldier vote. It is true that as late as last July, President Harding personally took upon himself the onus of opposing the bonus bill and by that opposition prevented its adoption by the senate.

IS POLITICAL MATTER.

But those same Republican senators who persuaded Harding to take this burden in order to save themselves from embarrassment, probably think today in terms of politicians who are six months closer to the shadow of an impending election. Also, it is a fact, that in several cases, notably the election in Ohio, there have been local manifestations of a strong public senti-

ABOUT TOWN

SHE kept telling all about the play as the plot of mysteries of "The Bat" unfolded at the Lincoln Square theater Thursday night. She had not seen the play before but she was sure that she was explaining the mysteries which were keeping most of the audience on the edge of the chairs. She went along bravely until that place in the play where a bare arm suddenly appears reaching between the curtains at the large window in the rear of the stage.

With a shriek she wilted and was taken from the house in a state of hysteria.

A middle aged man took his two nieces with him to the show. They were both grown women but one of them held his hand as the crisis thickened. When the man looked at his hand after he reached home he found the imprint of finger nail across it. The young woman in her excitement had gripped his hand until the nails had marked the flesh.

A man who was also on the wire edge from the excitement of watching the swift action of the melodramatic detective story sat next to a young woman whom he was a total stranger. She was strung to a high pitch and at a particularly tense time she lost control of herself and gave a short, sharp shriek. "Here, stop that—don't do that again."

CUPID stubbed his toe again the other day in the love affairs of a seventeen year old Decatur boy and a girl of the same age.

Everything had gone along smoothly, the young Romeo even having given to his Juliet a diamond ring for Christmas, having prefaced that gift with others including another ring.

But either Christmas indignation or a sudden outcropping of incompatibility occurred immediately after the holiday, a quarrel followed and the young man returned all of the present which he had received.

She did the same, but on checking up the merchandise which had been sent back the young man found that the two rings were still among the missing.

Nothing daunted but determined not to be done to the extent of two rings, one of which cost $35, by Heck and the payments not yet all made on it either, the Riverside Romeo called Juliet on the telephone to inquire about those rings.

"Yes," came the sweet voice over ment in favor of adjusted compensation for the soldiers.

It is believed that Secretary Mellon still feels as he felt last summer, that the state of the national treasury is such that it cannot stand the strain of a bonus bill involving billions. If Mr. Mellon could have his way—if he could be what he would undoubtedly prefer to be, a business man free from the necessity of considering political expediency, he would say that the soldiers bonus should wait until the interest rates on borrowed money have gone to normal, a time which may come for a year or more. But the political necessities and the emphatic popular wish that calls for bonus legislation promptly will probably receive an answer from the present session of congress.

In this connection, there has been talk that the money for the bonus might be raised by modifying the Volstead act so as to permit the sale of light wines and beer, and taxing those commodities not only enough to pay the bonus, but to meet a considerable portion of the other government expenses as well.

the wire, "I will bring them back in a day or so and when I do I will bring along a big fellow who will present you with a big licking, too."

Sure enough within three days a taxicab drove up in front of the house and not only one, but two, big huskies stepped out, carrying the tiny boxes in which the rings were placed.

Romeo was in a sad plight but he went out to meet his fate—and to get those rings—that $35 was too much to lose.

Big, bad, bold words followed and hostilities, seemed imminent when suddenly another husky stepped forward, this time the brother of the seventeen year old.

With the quiet remark that if there was fighting to be done he believed he would take a hand in it there came a sudden end to the threatened hostilities. The boy received his rings, the visitors went back to the girl in the taxi, the girl who had expected to see a fight, and gave her a piece of their mind for getting them into such a mess.

Twenty Conventions For Decatur in 1922

Thousands of Delegates To Be Here For State Gatherings of Big Organizations.

That Decatur is becoming a popular convention city is evidenced by the fact that already 20 different organizations have announced their intentions of meeting in Decatur during the coming year. It is interesting to note that the Lions Clubs, the Rotary Clubs and Kiwanis Clubs, all will hold their 1922 convention in Decatur.

The story of Decatur's rise into prominence as a convention city harks back to April, 1921 when it was recognized that Decatur should be a popular meeting place and a fund of $4000 was raised and a committee appointed to help induce the various organizations to gather here. The success of committee, working in cooperation with the local branches of the different groups is apparent.

COMMITTEE IN CHARGE.

The committee includes: W. H. Wiley, chairman, J. R. Holt, Carl Laux, Harry Van Orman, E. F. Dunn, Harvey Greider, R. W. Heady, Sam Mallico, L. L. Davis, Fred Hoyt, C. F. Bachman.

The following is the list of conventions carded for 1922. Many of the organizations have not announced the date of their meetings. In addition to these there is a number of organizations who in all probability will meet here but who have not yet announced their decision.

- THOSE COMING.
- Methodist Conference.
 - Illinois Bakers Association.
 - Illinois Book Sellers Association.
 - United Commercial Traveler's Association.
 - Illinois Sheriff's Association.
 - Lions Club, (May 22-23).
 - Rotary Clubs.
 - Knight's of Pythias Grand Lodge.
 - Royal Neighbors of America.
 - Illinois Real Estate Association.
 - Illinois Society of Engineers (January).
 - Pythian Sisters, (last week in June).
 - Illinois Chamber of Commerce, (June).
 - Anti-Horse Thief Association.
 - Woman's Christian Temperance Union.
 - Physicians and Surgeons, Wabash hospitals.
 - Kiwanis Clubs.
 - State Conference of Credit Men, (January).
 - State Federation of Music Clubs.
 - Presbyterian Synod.
- 13 HERE IN 1921.
- According to the records of the Association of Commerce 13 organizations held their conventions here in 1921. Prominent and first in point of attendance and possibly in importance was the state convention of the American Legion when thousands of persons gathered in Decatur on October 10 to see the parade of the Legion delegates.

- Conventions meeting and their estimated attendance follows:
- State Traveler's Protective Association, May 13-14; 1500.
 - State Trap Shooters Convention, June 21-24, 300.
 - Master Painters and Paper Hangers, Aug. 2-5; 400.
 - Grand Lodge Knights of Pythias, Sept. 20; 1200.
 - Ladies Auxiliary of Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, Sept. 29.
 - Church of Christ, Oct. 4; 500.
 - Lady Macabees, District, Oct. 5; 100.
 - Directors, Mississippi Valley Association, Oct. 7, 8; 50.
 - American Legion, Oct. 10-11; 1100 delegates, 12,000 people.
 - Central Illinois Homeopathic Association, Oct. 13.
 - Lady Macabees, State, Nov. 11.
 - Decatur District Society of Optometrists, Oct. 15; 40.
 - Older Boys Conference, Nov. 25-26; 1250.

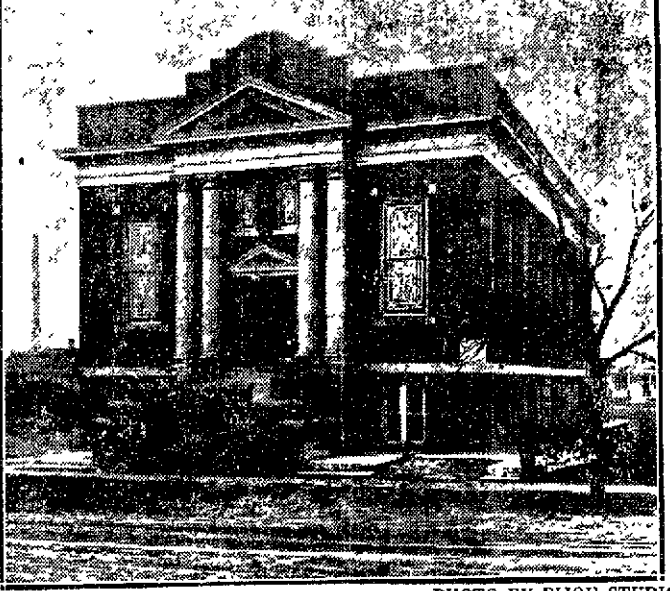

P. O. RECEIPTS SHOW INCREASE Will Reach $285,000 For Year 1921.

Receipts at the Decatur postoffice for the year 1921 increased more than 16 per cent over the receipts of 1920. In fact the receipts have shown an increase every year for many years but the only question is how much. The figures of the office are now commencing to amount to something. Ten years ago, they ran about $130,000 for a year and now, in the year 1921, they strike close to the $285,000 mark. In 1920, the receipts totaled about $245,000.

Receipts for December of course are always the heaviest months receipts because of the Christmas business. For the first twenty-eight days of this December, receipts ran more than $26,143 and it is estimated that the total for the month will be $28,000 this time. Receipts for the year by quarters, with December estimated, follow:

First quarter	$ 69,314.31
Second quarter	71,211.39
Third quarter	64,489.57
Fourth quarter	79,984.23
Total	$285,000.00

BIG DECREASE IN MARRIAGE LICENSES

Total 150 Less for 1921 Than in 1920.

There was a big falling off in the number of marriage licenses issued by County Clerk C. H. Patterson in 1921, the number being almost 150 less than in 1920. The largest number issued in one month was eighty-five in November. The largest number ever issued in one month was in December, 1919, with 168; next was October, 1920, when there were 106 marriage licenses issued. The next was in June of that same year when there were 105 licenses issued. No month in 1921 reached the 100 mark.

The following table gives the number of licenses issued by months for the last eight years:

1921 Warmest Year in Decatur History

Annual Mean Temperature 57.2 Degrees or 4.5 Degrees Above Normal.

The year 1921 was the warmest year since the keeping of government weather records was started back in 1894 by Prof. J. H. Conradt. This means the warmest in twenty-eight years and perhaps even much longer. This record was not attained by having record breaking maximum temperatures or a long hot spell during the summer. It was made by the united effort of every month in the year with the exception of August. In other words, the mean temperature of summer and winter months were all above normal except August.

ANNUAL MEAN 57.2.

The annual mean temperature was 57.2 degrees or 4.5 degrees above the annual normal. The previous highest mean was 55.6 degrees in 1913 and the lowest mean on record was 49.9 in 1917. It is also the first year in the record when there has not been a single day recorded where the temperature dropped to zero or below.

The precipitation for the year was also annually heavy but not a record. It reached 41.7 inches which is 4.77 inches above normal. Snowfall during the year was only 9.8 inches which is just 10. inches below normal snowfall. There were 110 days or almost one-third of the year on which rainfall of .01 inch or more was recorded. Clear days in the year numbered 164, cloudy 104 and part cloudy 97.

DECEMBER FIGURES.

Weather figures as compiled by Mr. Conradt for December follow: maximum temperature, 58 degrees minimum, 15; mean temperature 34.7; departure from normal, plus 4.2 degrees; number times below freezing 25; clear days, 10; cloudy, 14; part cloudy, 7; precipitation, 2.48 inches; departure from normal, 10 inch.

Annual weather figures for the year compared with other years since 1894 are as follows:

YEAR	Mean Temp.	Highest.	Lowest.	Precipitation.
1894	53.8	100	-22	25.55

Decorate Now

YOU INVITE DISAPPOINTMENT
BY WAITING UNTIL SPRING

Present indications show an unusual amount of interior decorating to be done in Decatur during the coming spring. The decorators and paper hangers must handle an enormous volume of work and those who delay having their work done until the last moment will be disappointed in being unable to get service when wanted.

The present is an ideal time for you to have the interior of your home or place of business redecorated, as it will be impossible to guarantee prompt service when the spring season arrives.

The same good advice is given with regard to exterior house painting. Place your order with us now so the work can be done when you are ready for it. We will gladly furnish estimates on all kinds of interior decorating or house painting and give you the benefit of our experience in suggesting tasteful color schemes, etc.

Seven Miles of Paving Biggest Item for City

Water Mains and Perhaps Another Sewer May Come in 1922 Program.

Decatur's largest prospective piece of city work for the new year is the paving program which calls for three miles of new pavement and four miles of re-surfacing at a total cost which is roughly estimated at $400,000. How much of this actually will be translated into street work depends on several things, the street car situation being one of the important ones.

In water main work the laying of a mile and half in the district east of the Johns addition in the southeast section of the city has already been decided upon and that project is on its way through the necessary legal process. This job will run about $12,000 on the present basis of costs.

Should the sanitary sewer for the southeast section of the city reaching well around toward and east of the Wabash shops be laid this year a further expenditure of $100,000 will be involved.

Another project which is needed but which will probably not be taken up in 1922 is the sewer system for the north, northeast and northwest parts of the city. Already surveys have been made for this development but it is unlikely that it will be immediately undertaken.

91 ORGANIZATIONS USED THE Y. M. C. A.

Big Event of Year Was Boys' Conference.

During 1921 a total of 91 different organizations used the Y. M. C. A. buildings for one or more meetings. During one week in December 2,000 different people used the annex, making a ratio, one for every 22 persons in Decatur.

The most far reaching event of the year for the organization was the holding of the Older Boys' Conference, during which the 1,053 boys from over the state were entertained in more than 500 homes over the city, and were served at a 1,500 plate banquet in the annex by members of the Lions, Rotary and Kiwanis clubs.

$2,100 FROM CAFE.
The dining room department has been of great service to the community and has paid $2,100 this year to the general department of the Y. M. C. A., besides making it possible for about 75 boys and girls to earn their way through business college, the university, and high school.

Greater interest and attention have been given to athletics and physical training than ever before in the history of the Y. Volley ball, indoor baseball, basketball, hand ball, indoor golf, all form a part of the athletic program. During an average week during the busy winter months about 535 men and boys use the gymnasium and annex. The swimming pool is used by some during the winter months and would be put to a more general use if a way to heat it economically could be found.

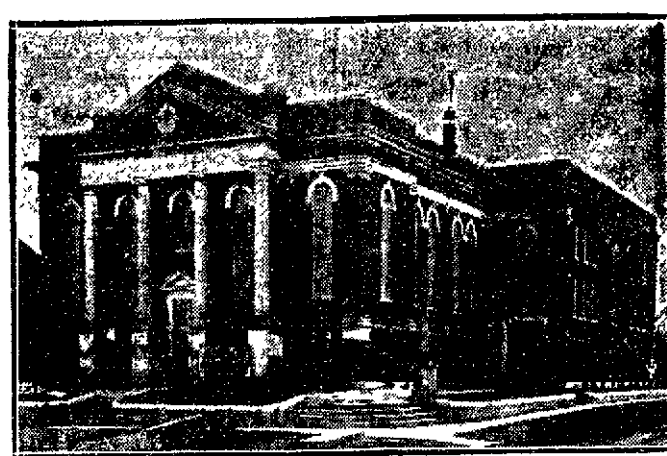

HIGH SPOTS.
High lights in the program for the past year were:

MORE GRIEF--TAX RATE HIGHER YET

Revised Figures Show It Will Be $8.27.

Instead of the tax rate in Decatur being $8.18 2-3 on the $100 valuation, as stated in The Review Saturday, it is $8.27. The legislature increased the school tax from $2.65 2-3 to $2.75, which fact was overlooked when County Clerk C. H. Patterson made his first hurried compilation of the figures.

1921 A GOOD YEAR FOR THE CHURCHES

Three New Buildings Go Up in Decatur.

The year 1921 was a good one for the churches of Decatur, reports of prosperous work coming from all religious organizations. It was a good year not only in the receiving of new members and interesting of more people in church work, but in material progress as well. Three new buildings for religious worship have been erected during the year. The new Third United Brethren church, near the corner of Jasper and Locust streets, which had been started the year before, was completed and is now in use, and serving a rapidly growing congregation.

ST. PAUL'S METHODIST
St. Paul's Methodist church started work on its new building in the east end of town, and though not yet completed the building is now in use by the congregation. When finished it will be one of the handsomest and best equipped churches in the city.

A third building erected was that of the Jewish congregation, the synagogue being located in the 200 block on West Prairie street. The erection of this building meant the culmination of years of waiting on the part of the Jewish people for a place of their own for religious worship.

ADDING ROOM
The Central Church of Christ is adding a room to its building for the boys activities, and the Grace Methodist church has purchased the residence property north of it to make room for expansion. Some of the other churches have made minor improvements, while some extensive work along that line was done during the summer at the Congregational church.

The merging of the Second and Westminster Presbyterian churches, which went into effect early in the year, has worked out very successfully. The university auditorium is used for some of the services to accommodate the combined congregation. Very few changes in pastorates were made during the year. At present the East Park Baptist church is without a pastor, Rev. G. W. Stoddard having left to take charge of a church at Arcola, Ill.

Y. W. C. A. DEVOTES WORK TO SERVICE

Set Year's Standards and Worked to Them.

To do better service, rather than enlarge the work, has been the keynote of the last year in the activities of the Young Women's Christian organization. In every way possible stress has been laid on making the work more effective, in more thoroughly carrying out the purpose of the association, though progress has also been made in enlarging the scope of work.

STANDARDS SET.

Early in the year the association had with it a number of Y. W. C. A. leaders who set standards for work to be followed. This was a great aid to the local workers. The staff also heard talks from different ministers of the city regarding better cooperation on the part of the churches and the association.

In the girls department two ideas were stressed. One was started through a style show, the idea being to impress upon the girls the proper kind of clothing to wear. The other was on the line of vocational education when in co-operation with the high school the girls had the advantage of receiving help from speakers to guide them in their choice of vocations and the proper courses of study to prepare for them.

NEW BIGGER GYMNASIUM.

Though the gymnasium department has outgrown its part of the building, it is doing splendidly with the facilities at hand. Improvements were made about the swimming pool and gymnasium room, and for the winter a new room was made available by placing a floor across the swimming pool. Roller skating was a feature added and has become very popular. The industrial department has been studying the social creed of the churches with the idea in mind that it is not enough for these girls themselves to have so many advantages but they should be extended to others.

HELP OTHERS.

In the entire association the idea of helping others has been apparent. Aid was given the Near East relief in the gift of the receipts of one day in the cafeteria. Through the World Fellowship week the giving for others over the world was brought before all departments and a large offering received.

How the Y. W. C. A. serves the community in furnishing a place for meetings can be readily seen in noting the different groups which make use of the building. Many organizations meet there regularly. Sometimes every room in the building is occupied with some group. The association is glad to be of service in this way. The building is for the women of the community and as long as there is a spot available it can be had.

FIND ROOMS FOR GIRLS

More attention was given in connection with the room registry to place girls in homes satisfactorily to both the women of the homes and the girls themselves. The association has been of service in the way of a travelers aid. It is not unusual for the association workers to be called upon to meet a girl arriving on a certain train to see that she is looked after while here and makes connections with other trains properly.

City Spent $276,408.34 in 1921 on Improvements

Five Pavements Cost $137,554.02 and Water Mains $59,983

Decatur, as a city, spent over a quarter of a million dollars during 1921 for city improvements, city water mains, city sewers, ornamental lights and concrete sidewalks. The exact amount, as furnished by W. H. Collins, city engineer, was $276,408.34. This amount does not, of course, include any of the money spent on the water impounding project nor on the great sanitary sewer.

The different projects which were completed in 1921 and the amounts which they cost are as follows:

PAY AND CASH CARRY

During the past year we have made it pay many people of Decatur to carry a market basket in buying their food. Our cash-and-carry, self-help plan has saved you money, if you have ever traded here, on foods of unquestioned quality. And what we did for you last year, we will do again for you this year—we assure of that.

A GOOD NEW YEAR'S RESOLUTION — SAVE MONEY BY TRADING AT—HANDY-DANDY

246-250 N. MAIN STREET.

INVEST! DO NOT SPECULATE!

High-grade Bonds are an investment.

BECAUSE—You are certain of the return of your principal on a set date.

BECAUSE—You receive your interest at regular intervals.

But—if the company, community or country has not proven over a period of years past that its earnings are more than sufficient to take care of interest charges, etc., it is not an investment—it is a speculation. If earnings are based on estimates of what they expect to do, or what others have done—it's speculation. Don't guess—be sure!

The present market affords the best opportunity for conservative investment that has been offered for years. If you have bonds or other securities maturing in the next few years now is the time to convert them into long-term securities bearing the present high rate of interest.

Before You Invest, Investigate!

Take my list of offerings to any bank or banker, or other well-informed authority, and ask them about their standing as an investment.

Circulars describing present issues mailed at your request. Information given on your present holdings with no obligation on your part.

Possibilities in Forest Preserve District

Would Provide Great Recreation Place for Big Territory.

Organization of a forest preserve district in Macon county has been talked of by many citizens in the last year. Several have studied the plan and all agree that it seems practical and that Macon county would be making a wise move for the future by organizing such a district.

THE LAW
In brief the law provides for the creation of a forest preserve district by any county in the state. Any 100 voters residing in a county may file a petition with a circuit judge giving a description of the territory to be embraced in such district and asking the judge to call an election.

If the proposition to organize the forest preserve comes at the election the district is then forthwith deemed organized under the state law.

COMMISSIONERS DUTIES
The president of the county board of supervisors, with the approval of the supervisors, appoints a board of commissioners consisting of president and five commissioners to serve each four years. Not more than three members of such board shall be of one political party.

POWERS
The commissioners may buy and hold real and personal estate necessary in carrying out the purposes of the law. They may buy one or more natural forests or parts thereof to be held as a forest preserve. Amendments to the law make it possible for them to buy intervening tracts between tracts of natural forest to form connections.

The commissioners may have the power to acquire land by gift, grant, devise or purchase or by condemnation. On the other hand it can be shown that the county would get a benefit that would justify all the tax that would be levied. The greatest tax possible under the law in any one year would be about $40,000. More than half of this would be paid by the city of Decatur.

The people of the county have for years been making great use of the parks of Decatur and the city of Decatur has welcomed that use. Every time a Sunday school picnic comes to Decatur all in the city that know about it have had a feeling of pleasure to see that their neighbors in the country could use the parks.

TITLE IN FILE
In cases where land is acquired by condemnation title is in fee simple absolute and will not terminate or be defeated by cessation or abandonment for the use for which it was acquired. The board may also sell and dispose of land it may acquire.

The forest preserve commissioners have power to raise money by general taxation for any of the purposes enumerated in the act or to borrow money and to issue bonds therefore. They have power to levy a tax not to exceed in any one year one mill on each dollar of assessed valuation. Bonding however is limited to 1 per cent of the assessed valuation.

The law providing for forest preserves was passed June 17, 1913 and went into effect July 1, 1913. It has been tested in the supreme court of the state and sustained. The Cook county forest preserve has been organized under it and about 20,000 acres of land have been acquired.

Organized in this community the district to be included would be Macon county. Of course the question is to be raised by people who do not live in Decatur why the county should tax itself for forest preserves for Decatur.

COUNTY WIDE BENEFIT

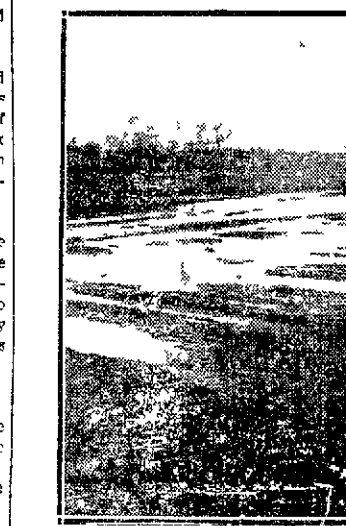

The answer to that is that if the county should get no benefit there would be no reason why it should. On the other hand it can be shown that the county would get a benefit that would justify all the tax that would be levied. The greatest tax possible under the law in any one year would be about $40,000. More than half of this would be paid by the city of Decatur.

The people of the county have for

AROUND NEW LAKE
A forest preserve would of course be on the banks of the new lake. There is no doubt that the people of the country around Decatur will want to visit that lake. They will be welcome to make use of any such facilities for recreation and pleasure the city is able to establish. With a forest preserve district the people in the county of Macon would have a right to make use of the facilities and would make a great deal more than enough use to justify whatever the cost would be.

bridge, the work in the Sand Creek and Long Creek basins and the other projects which the creation of Decatur's greatest scenic attraction as well as its water supply, made necessary ran into this large sum.

MANY MEN EMPLOYED.
These many jobs have given employment to hundreds of men during 1921 and they have been a material factor in keeping unemployment in Decatur at a low point.

It is hoped that before spring this work can be completed so that the spring floods may be impounded in the new lake.

WORK DONE
The work done in the reservoir this year consisted of the following contracts and the amount of each:
Lost Bridge grading and raising bridge $50,000.00
Cowford Bridge new bridge and grading 214,886.00
Spangler Bridge, grading and raising bridge 28,800.00
Sand Creek Bridge No. 1 grading and new bridge 27,540.00
Sand Creek Bridge No. 2 grading and raising

THE PRESENT SPILLWAY IN THE BIG DAM.

The above shows the two openings left in the impounding dam through which the river will flow until the lake basin is cleared and work bridges and grades have advanced far enough to allow the impounding of water. These two openings will then be closed probably early spring and the Decatur lake will be formed.

Spend Over Half Million In Basin of Decatur Lake

New Bridges, Clearing, Grading and Rip-Rapping Gives Much Employment.

More than half a million dollars will have been spent in the lake basin alone by the Decatur Water Supply Co. when the many special jobs which the project involved in the basin have been completed. The engineers on the job estimate that the work is now more than sixty per cent completed and most of it should be out of the way within the next sixty to ninety days.

Increase Your Business by Long Distance

Bell long-distance telephone service is extensively used by large business houses. It provides the quick and economical method of handling business and selling to distant customers. It saves both time and money.

A larger use of this service will expand your business and widen your sales territory.

To sell by telephone with the lowest possible cost, use Bell "Station to Station" service, which means asking for anyone at the distant telephone instead of some particular person.

"Station to Station" service saves you about twenty per cent on your long-distance charges. A still further saving can be made by taking advantage of the reduced evening and night rates.

MORE MOVED IN THAN MOVED OUT

Gained One Family Out of Every Seven Moving.

Decatur gained some in the number of families moving into the city during 1921 but it did not make the gain that it did in 1920. Two of the largest moving concerns in the city handling most of the household goods shipments in and out of the city, report 641 moving in to Decatur during the year and 384 families moving out. This is a gain of about ten per cent. in the previous year, 508 moved in and 403 moved out, a gain of about 25 per cent.

This year's gain may be slightly cut down again by another report from one or two small dealers that it was about a "fifty-fifty" proposition with them this year. It is also reported that quite a number of independent dealers have sprung up, men who just have one truck and who make a business of moving people out of town but have practically no business when it comes to moving people back into the city. Ordinarily, the figures show most people moving out of the city in the spring and most of the moving back in the fall.
The figures of one firm given by months for 1921 fall to show just this condition this year however. It shows a gain or more people moving into the city in January, May, July, September, October and November and more moving out in February, March, April, June, August and December.

GOOD PROSPECT FOR 1922 BUILDING

Two Big Structures Now Planned.

The building prospects for 1922 are fully as bright as they were at the start of 1921. Three good building projects, at least, are pretty certain to be started early. They are the co-operative apartment building to cost $160,000, the Hamman Bros.
fire proof warehouse to cost $100,- 000, and the Wabash reclamation plant, the cost of which has not been estimated.

It is believed that there will be fully as many new residences built in Decatur in 1922 as were built last year, and they will be just as substantial. There are not yet nearly enough houses to supply the demand. It will perhaps be several years before there will be more houses than there are people here to occupy them. Perhaps that condition will never exist.

Will You Continue to Be A "Rent Slave" During 1922, Or Own Your Home and Be Happy?

There is no satisfaction so great as that which results from one owning one's own home. There is no happiness so complete as that which comes from its possession.

And It Is Much Cheaper To Build Than To Pay Rent

If you contemplate building at all, you will find this an ideal year for it. Lumber prices are now lower than they have been for some time; and, incidentally, they are about as low as we can consistently expect them to go. This is due to the greatly increased consumption of lumber, and the resulting decrease in the available supply. When you buy lumber and mill work from us, you get the best that can be produced.

WHERE WILL YOU BE?

Look in the table below and see what YOUR RENT MONEY will amount to in ten years—in fifteen years. Rather startling isn't it? Do you want to come out of the greatest earning period that you may ever know with nothing to show for it?

1921 Stands Unparalleled In American Industrial History

Wartime Inflation Squeezed Out in Twelve Months—
General Average Price Not Far from Normal.

By Harden Colfax.

Special Correspondent of The Review.
Copyright, 1921.

Washington, Dec. 31—Nineteen twenty-one goes into history tonight with a record unparalleled since American industry began. For all its faded hopes, its heartburnings and its business reverses, the year stands supreme in the bright annals of American industrial and commercial achievement. Within the space of its twelve months we have done something the like of which no people have ever done in twelve months' time before. We have squeezed out the wartime inflation of almost everything entering into our economic life.

UNEVEN—NO PANIC.

The process has been uneven, as the figures bear witness. It is not yet wholly complete, but it is very nearly so. Here and there, like peaks in a mountain range, stars towering costs and prices.

The general level of all commodities and prices, averaged as a whole, is not far from the figure it should be.

All this has been accomplished without panic, in one-tenth the time or less than readjustments have required in the wake of other great wars.

Great Britain, after the Napoleonic wars, spent many years in industrial upheaval and unrest. The United States was in industrial ferment for more than a decade after the close of the Civil war. The progress that then required ten years to accomplish has been accomplished, or very nearly so, in 1921.

DROPPED FOURTH IN YEAR.

One year ago today the average price of everything for sale in the United States—farm products, food, clothing, fuel, metals, lumber, building materials, chemicals, house-furnishings and manufactured goods—was a little more than double what the average was in 1913. During 1921 the price dropped one-fourth the department of labor says, until today the average is less than one and one-half times the 1913 average.

VIGOR OF NATION.

Perhaps the most remarkable showing of the nation's vigor is written in the history of its finances for 1921.

A year ago, almost to the day, we reached the peak of inflation, as measured by the amount of money in circulation. At that time there were more than three and one-half billion dollars of federal reserve notes in actual circulation. The lending resources of the banks had been taxed severely, certainly far past the line of prudence and almost to the verge of danger. The federal reserve ratio stood at 45 per cent, a figure that the framers of the reserve law hardly dreamed could be reached when they placed the danger line, which they forbade the banks to cross, at 40 percent. The chief national banks of the country had rediscounted borrowers' notes to the extent of nearly three billions of dollars, of which more than a billion was largely on Liberty bonds. Here and there the regional reserve banks had actually crossed the danger line. Panic—an old-fashioned money panic—assumed a lovely outline among the near possibilities.

Today the federal reserve ratio materially tops 70 per cent, a billion dollars in currency has been withdrawn from circulation within the year, borrowers have liquidated more than a billion and a half dollars of their red-counted indebtedness and of what remains less than half a billion dollars is lent on Liberty bonds and other government paper.

Interest rates, sky high at the beginning of the year, have dropped to peace-time levels and seem bound for still further reductions.

Deposits in national banks have fallen somewhat, also, but their reduction was a natural consequence of the banks' paying off of loans.

The banks, according to the research boards showing, have more money today than they can lend. Their tremendous strength is due in large part to a veritable torrent of gold that has poured upon American shores. From every part of the world it has come, breaking all records.

When 1921 came in the banks were frankly worried. As 1921 goes out, the banks are in the strongest position they have been in for many years. Interest rates are normal, money is plentiful and credit easy.

RAILROADS.

The troubled industrial conditions this country was felt early in the year by the railroads. Always a sensitive recorder of the nation's prosperity, the carriers were almost the first to feel the full force of the readjusted pressure. Last January they wrote their balance in red ink. In February, they dipping still deeper in the red, notwithstanding abnormal freight and passenger rates. During the month expenses exceeded receipts by more than seven million dollars.

The carriers then launched an extraordinary campaign of retrenchment. Expenses were cut to the bare boards; only the most urgent supplies were purchased; no effort was made to keep up equipment and all sorts of economies, large and small, were studied and, so far as possible, put into effect.

So drastic was the retrenchment that the working forces of the roads, which totaled 1,805,000 men January 1st, were cut by April to 1,543,000 men. That figure was almost twenty-five per cent less than the number of men the roads had on their rolls in December last. One man out of every four was laid off.

REVENUES.

The margin between revenues and expenses widened. The February deficit was followed by a March profit of about $30,000,000. In June the profit was $51,000,000; in July, $69,000,000; in August, $90,000,000 and in October, best month of the year, $106,000,000. Meantime, more men were employed. Between April and October, inclusive, more than 200,000 of the discharged railroad workers were reinstated. The year goes out with the roads' pay rolls showing almost as many names as when it came in.

RATES PAID RELIEF.

Notwithstanding the pick-up in earnings, the railroads have not earned—for the year as a whole—much more than half the six per cent which the Interstate Commerce Commission expected the new high rates would give them. For while the showing in October was almost what had been hoped, recessions followed in November and December and earnings did not come up to expectations in those months.

All told, the railroads enjoyed in 1921 a net income of about $600,000,000. Their net income in 1920 was $21,000,000. The year has not paid big dividends for the carriers, but it has been infinitely better than 1920 was.

Much of the improvement is due to wage reductions. Also the roads have so stressed the importance of paying some sort of return to investors that they have failed to keep their equipment in good order. One locomotive out of every four in the United States is in the shop out of commission today; one car out of every six. Even at that, the showing is declared better than it was during the days of government operation.

DISASTER TO FARMER.

There is one class of American producer who will remember 1921 for the message of disaster it brought to the third and fourth generations. That producer is the farmer. To him 1921 has been twelve months of despair, from which he is gradually beginning to emerge.

The farmer has hit the bottom. The year dawned as a year of hope, but mostly it was a year of hope unfulfilled. It was not entirely black, however, cotton crossed 31 cents and the South lifted up its head and began to sing again. The thirteen-million-bale crop of 1920 had been followed by an eight-million-bale crop.

Generally speaking, the farmer is still in the woods. There are bright rays here and there to guide him, however.

EXPORTS.

Our exports in 1921 have not yet been run up in total. For the first eleven months of the year, however, they exceeded four billion dollars—a sum which would have had even a professional optimist stutter to say in ante-bellum days. For the first eleven months of 1920, they exceeded seven and one-half billions.

Imports, January to November, 1921, exceeded two and a quarter billions—in 1920, more than five billions. The balance of trade in our favor will pass the two billion dollar mark for the year.

That figure, in the days before 1915, would have been regarded as the acme of prosperity. It was exceeded in 1920 by about seven hundred million dollars. The measure, however, is not accurate when put in terms of dollars. In terms of tonnage, exports in 1921 are almost up to exports in 1920.

COMMODITY PRODUCTION.

Coal slumped sharply, production running now about seven million tons a week as compared with ten million tons normally.

Copper production virtually ceased in the early part of the year while the country absorbed the large leftover stocks. In November production had reached twenty-one million pounds.

Wheat flour production, down to eight million barrels in June, rose to fourteen million barrels in November.

Sugar was stagnant during the large part of the year, but nearly all the big surplus was assimilated as the year went out.

A year ago revenue stamps were issued to cover twenty-seven million pounds of manufactured tobacco; last month stamps were issued to cover nearly thirty-five million pounds.

Crude petroleum production rose to about forty million barrels a month during the summer and dropped back to thirty-five millions in the fall.

IRON.

Pig iron production dropped to 503,000 tons in July as against 2,600,000 tons in October, 1920. Within four months, however, the production more than doubled, reaching 1,000,000 tons in November last. A year ago nearly half of all the looms in the country were idle; today wool is going through four looms out of every five. Production of leather has jumped fifteen per cent since the first day of 1921; wool pulp and paper production is up sixty per cent from the low mark of the year.

A year ago thirteen thousand carloads of automobiles were shipped from American factories. The number jumped to twenty thousand carloads in June, dropped a few carloads in July and repeated the 20,000 figure in August. Last November fourteen thousand carloads were shipped. The year was notable for price reduction.

EMPLOYMENT.

The story of the year's production of raw materials and manufactured products parallels the story of labor during the year. Steadily the index figures dropped from January to July. Then the curve swung upward, the worst had passed on July 31. Secretary Davis estimated, more than 5,000,000 men were out of employment.

In November, Secretary Hoover estimated, more than 2,000,000 of that number had gone back to work.

SOME BOOMING.

Tens of thousands of these men went back to work in the building trades. The building trades are booming; Americans are building homes. The high tide of activity came last October when permits for $172,000,000 of construction were issued in 165 cities, as compared with $35,000,000 in the same cities a year before. Observers say that this great volume of work, which has been eclipsed only once in the country's history, will be greatly exceeded in the spring.

During the first eleven months of the year new capital was provided for seven billion dollars capitalized enterprise, as shown by corporation charters. In 1920 the figure was double this amount. The other side of the picture is shown in the number of commercial failures. They totaled 17,178 during the first eleven months of 1921 and their liabilities neared the $600,000,000 mark. In 1920 there were 7,356 failures with liabilities of $136,000,000.

FEWER DEATHS IN 1921 THAN IN 1920

Sixty-Three Inquests Conducted in Year.

There was a slight falling off in the number of deaths in Decatur in 1921 as compared with 1920.

The following tables show the number of deaths by month for 1921 and 1920, and the total by year for ten years:

DEATHS BY MONTHS	1921	1920

Conservative Features Embodied In Our Mortgages---

UNDER the old-fashioned method of mortgages the entire obligation was paid off at one time, making it necessary for the borrower to provide a large amount of cash in lump sum to retire the loan.

Experience has proven that THIS METHOD IS NOT CONSERVATIVE, for it subjects the holder of the mortgage to frequent delays in payment, due to possible mismanagement.

Therefore, we have confined ourselves to APARTMENT and OFFICE BUILDINGS, WHICH HAVE A STEADY INCOME, and our plan requires the borrower to PAY OFF A PORTION OF THE PRINCIPAL EACH YEAR and to create A SINKING FUND WITH US BY PAYING ONE-TWELFTH OF THE CURRENT YEAR'S INTEREST and PRINCIPAL PAYMENT out of their monthly rental receipts.

One of the fundamental principles of our plan is that the VALUE OF PROPERTY DEPENDS upon ITS EARNING POWER. WE DEMAND that the assured earnings of a property must be at least THREE TIMES the greatest interest charge on the mortgage bonds issued against it, thus MAKING SURE of an ample amount of cash to meet the semi-annual interest. Moreover, under our system this means that the earnings must be sufficient not only to meet the interest but also to pay off and cancel some of the bonds each year, thereby decreasing the amount of the loan and increasing the security for the longer term bonds.

FOR EXAMPLE: In the case of a $60,000 loan, the property MUST HAVE an assured earning of $12,600, out of which is paid in monthly installments:

Interest at 7% - - - - $4,200
Balance for safety factor - 4,000
Retirement of principal - - 4,400
Total Income - - - - $12,600

This makes an ultra conservative form of investment, in addition to being very convenient, as it is possible to invest any amount of money and have it BECOME DUE AND PAID OFF AT ANY TIME DESIRED. All that is necessary for one to do is to SELECT BONDS REPRESENTING THE PORTION OF THE PRINCIPAL WHICH IS PAID OFF IN THE YEAR WHICH THEY DESIRE THEIR INVESTMENT TO BECOME DUE.

Decatur Factory Owners Optimistic

One Plant Has Record Number of Men, Others Doing Good Business.

A feeling of optimism runs through the comment on business prospects for the coming year. That this is sincere is shown by the careful analysis which most of those who discuss the subject make of conditions which lead them to believe that fundamentally the country is in good condition or a return to normal business conditions.

The more conservative do not hesitate to say that we are not yet entirely out of the woods and they guard their optimism with suggestions that hard work and careful traveling is still before us if we are to reach the desired goal.

LEADER WORKS SEES GOOD YEAR

Mr. Mueller said that aside from minor re-adjustments and repairs

"In my opinion the outlook for business this year is promising," said T. E. O'Brien, president of the Leader Iron Works.

"Last year at this time we had a tremendous stock of merchandise on hand and a great deal of it was sold at a sacrifice," he said.

"The company had no plans for extensive additions or new buildings for the Decatur factory in 1922."

"We have orders ahead and indications are that this year will be a good one with us. We believe now that we will be able to run steadily."

"Quite the reverse condition exists this year. We have practically no old stock. Our inventory will consist mostly in materials purchased based recently, reflecting an adjustment in prices. Our tobacco stock has been

New England where I took some large contracts. We have increased the force at the factory and expect to increase it still more about the middle of the month. Business is looking up with us very decidedly and we are looking for a good year.

MACON COUNTY BIG ROAD IMPROVEMENT FOR 1921.

Snake Hill West of Decatur.

The 18-foot concrete road on State Bond Route 10 west from Decatur was the outstanding improvement in road construction in the county in 1921.

THE NEW ROAD SOUTH OF THE RIVER.

The drawing shows the relation of the new road now being worked out and its relation to the Maffitt bridge road which is to be abandoned and the county bridge road which is to carry Maffitt bridge road traffic across the river.

The first road proposed is shown in light dotted lines. A plan was suggested by Myron H. West, city planner which was later modified and accepted by the county state aid com-

been done in the county within a year is but little short of astounding. A categorical list of the road activities for the twelve months amazes even one who keeps in close touch with them. An epitome of these activities is as follows:

The grading and oiling of the state aid road from Decatur to the Platt county line, started in 1920, was completed.

The contract for the grading of state bond route No. 10 from Decatur to the Sangamon river was begun and finished.

PATROL SYSTEM. The county board extended the pa-

1921, MACON COUNTY'S BIG YEAR IN ROAD IMPROVEMENT

Hard Road, Patrol System, New Bridges and Township Work All Advanced.

A. D. 1921, will be remembered as the year that put Decatur and Macon county on the highway map of Illinois. It was by odds the biggest year for road improvement that the county ever had. More important than the actual accomplishment in roads built is the road spirit that has been engendered, the road building experience that has been gained, the organization and equipment that the county has acquired, all of which promises much for road improvement in the future.

More constructive work was done by the county as a county in the twelve months just ended than in the previous dozen years combined. From one of the most backward counties in Central Illinois in the matter of road improvement Macon county has within the span of one short year forged to the front as one of the most progressive. This is no vain boast but an actual statement of fact.

In short the strides that were made in 1921 were due to the coordination of the various agencies and influences in an effort to get better roads.

WHAT HAS BEEN DONE. The amount of road work that has

A GOOD INVESTMENT

Are your windows loose and rattling?
Do you know that this means:

- 1—The entrance of cold air and the burning of extra fuel;
- 2—The cold draughts cause sickness;
- 3—Dirty curtains and rugs and
- 4—Extra work for the housewife.

You can cut down your fuel bill, prevent sickness, save the furnishings, and decrease the house work by using troj system begun in a modest way on the Bloomington road in late 1920 to the rest of the partially improved state aid road, about forty miles.

About the middle of the year the county board determined to take advantage of the new state law permitting counties to undertake state bond road contracts, was the successful bidder on 11.16 miles of road. Half of the contract was completed in record time and at record cost and five miles and a half of the 18 foot concrete was thrown open for the use of the public at the beginning of winter.

HAVE EQUIPMENT

A first class road building outfit purchased for the construction of this road will be used for completing the contract in the spring. After that the equipment and the experience gained in its use will be applied to other roads.

On July 1 under a newly enacted law the county became responsible for the maintenance of 185 miles of partially improved state aid road which had previously been maintained by the townships. The county acknowledged this responsibility by raising the money and organizing for carrying on this work. A good deal has already been done and much more will be done next season.

NEW COWFORD BRIDGE.

A contract for a new Cowford bridge with its approaches was let and the work is well under way. The bridge will be the handsomest about Decatur. The project includes a new road connecting the bridge with the city and the relocation of the road east of the river. The job will cost $200,000. The cost is largely defrayed by the Decatur Water Company which is materially assisted by the county, Decatur township and Long Creek township.

The Spangler bridge, Lost bridge, the Rea bridge have been raised as a part of the water impounding project and at the expense of the Decatur Water Company. These changes have resulted in better roads in every instance.

OVER SAND CREEK.

Two Sand creek improvements by the Water company have resulted in new bridges and marked betterment of the roads approaching them.

The Maffitt bridge and a portion of the road approaching it from the south have been abandoned and a handsome drive connecting the county bridge with the Maffitt bridge road is being surveyed and will be built at once. The Decatur Water Company will defray a large part if not all the cost of this road.

A million gallons of road oil were applied in Macon county last season by the individual townships and by the county. The roads themselves spoke eloquently of the result during the summer and autumn and they are still talking.

MUCH OTHER WORK.

The work of the highway commissioners in Macon county has been referred to already and can not be described in detail. Long Creek, Oakley and Haristown jumped to a top place among the good road townships of the county. Decatur township extended its gravel road and improved its old gravel roads. Two stretches of new road were opened.

Three miles of gravel for the road extending west from Blue Mound to the county line has been ordered by the state aid road committee and the work is already underway. The city of Decatur contributed much to the general scheme of highway improvement by extending city pavements to the corporation limits to connect with improved country highways. A half mile of fine, wide brick pavement through a sparsely built up neighborhood on West Main street is one of the conspicuous examples of this. There are other items that might be added to the schedule but this will suffice.
